Hoover Says Industry's Slump Is Nearing End

SEES JOBLESS ERA PASSING IN TWO MONTHS

Business Gaining, Says President.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—President Hoover made known today his reasons for optimism as to the business outlook.

"All the evidences indicate," said the President in concluding a summary of facts submitted to him by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, "that the worst effects of the crash upon employment will have been passed during the next sixty days with the amelioration of seasonal unemployment, the gaining strength of other forces, and the continued cooperation of the many agencies actively cooperating with the government to restore business and to relieve distress."

Data Based on Surveys.

The President, besides drawing his own conclusions from the data at hand, made public a memorandum by Secretaries Lamont and Davis based upon departmental surveys of various industries and upon information furnished by governors, mayors and others.

Secretaries Lamont and Davis asserted that 1,000,000 or possibly 1,250,000 fewer persons are employed at present than on this date a year ago. Furthermore, they stated that the number now employed is from 600,000 to 1,000,000 greater than early in the present year, when the low point of business and unemployment was passed.

Index figures on employment of the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor, to which the President also called attention, show an increase of 7.9 per cent in employment between Dec. 30 and Feb. 17. The decrease between October and Dec. 30 was 12.5 per cent.

Gives Figures in Graphic Fashion.

The Feb. 17 index figure was 92.8 per cent, as compared with 98.3 per cent in October. It dropped to 86 on Dec. 30, since which time it has slowly climbed upward. These index figures give in graphic fashion the trend of employment since the unsettling of business by the stock market crash as follows:

October, 98.3; November, 94.8; Dec. 7, 91.9; Dec. 16, 91.6; Dec. 23, 90.2; Dec. 30, 86; Jan. 6, 88.9; Jan. 13, 91.8; Jan. 20, 92.3; Jan. 27, 92.6; Feb. 3, 92.9; Feb. 10, 93; Feb. 17, 92.8.

While the President made no reference to the attacks made by Democrats and radicals in congress, his comments together with those of Secretaries Lamont and Davis evidently were designed to show that statements regarding unemployment have been exaggerated and that actual results have been accomplished by the machinery which was set in motion at the White House business conference.

Discussed at Cabinet Session.

Unemployment conditions were discussed at today's cabinet meeting. Following the meeting, the President went over the available facts and figures at a conference with Secretaries Lamont and Davis, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein and Francis I. Jones, director of the United States employment service of the department of labor. The President's summary of the situation was as follows:

"The departments of commerce and labor are engaged in the usual monthly survey of business and unemployment, and especially of the results obtained from the measures which have been in progress since the last of November, to reduce unemployment and the hardships following the dislocation from the stock exchange crash. The survey is not, as yet, complete. There are, however, certain conclusions that are evident:

"1. The unemployment amounting to distress is in the main concentrated in 13 states. The authorities in the remaining 34 states indicate only normal seasonal unemployment or that the minor abnormal unemployment is being rapidly absorbed.

Low Point of Business.

"2. The low point of business and employment was the latter part of December and early January. Since that time employment has been slowly increasing and the situation is much better today than at that time.

"3. Nationwide response to the request for increased construction and

Judge Calls Him Marital Shirker.

A husband forfeits the right to damages for alienated love when he has shirked the responsibilities of the marital state by a companionate marriage agreement. This was the ruling of Superior Judge Michael L. McKinley yesterday in instructing a jury to return a verdict of not guilty in a $50,000 alienation of affections suit brought by a companionate marriage husband against his father-in-law.

The plaintiff is Leo Dolan, 22 years old, 7435 Yates avenue, a student of law at the University of Chicago. The defendant is Edgar Roth, 7550 Saginaw avenue, architect for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the father of Virginia Roth Dolan, 22 years old, also a student at the university. The Dolans were married on Sept. 18, 1929, after a campus romance.

Cites Romeo and Juliet.

Before the jury was selected Dolan made many efforts to speak to his wife, but she turned her back and engaged in conversation with her father. Dolan's attorney, Samuel Block, opened the case by pointing to Romeo and Juliet as a parallel example of love thwarted by parental intervention.

"Mr. and Mrs. Dolan are a young couple who might have lived happily except for the intervention of the father," Attorney Block declared. "Their difficulties might never have occurred if the play of 'Romeo and Juliet' were studied by the parties involved. I have read the play a hundred times and seen it six times. I have found it the guide to marital happiness in my home."

Husband Takes the Stand.

Dolan took the stand and testified that he had fallen in love with his wife when they met in classrooms. They had married only after a sane consideration of their respective careers, he said, and had decided that he would assume none of the ordinary obligations of marriage until 1933, when he might be in a better financial condition. From the first the marriage was opposed by Mrs. Dolan's father, who ultimately induced her to leave him on Feb. 14, 1929, and denied him permission to see his wife, Dolan charged.

In cross-examination Attorney Walter Boerger, representing Roth, produced the companionate agreement drawn by Dolan and signed by his wife a week before the marriage.

Dolan's Part of Agreement.

On his part Dolan promised in the agreement to fulfill to the best of his ability the duties of a husband toward his wife, though he was not to interrupt his attendance at school. He promised to assist her toward her vocation as a school teacher, providing that she lived with him three months out of the year and never absented herself from wherever he might be by a distance of more than 600 miles. He was not to be asked to support her until 1933, the agreement said.

On her part, according to the articles, Mrs. Dolan promised to assume all the duties of a wife to a husband and to assist Dolan in his preparation for the bar or whatever career he might select. She was to help him obtain recognition in his chosen profession and was not to embarrass or hinder him in pursuit of his legitimate ends. His judgment was to be final on all matters.

Judge Assails Contract.

"This is the most outrageous contract I have ever heard of since I have been on the bench," Judge McKinley declared after it had been read. "And you want to be a lawyer and yet you flout all laws, both statutes and dictates of humanity. It is abominable, a mere companionate marriage, by which you assume all of the benefits and none of the duties of a husband."

Attorney Boerger asked Judge McKinley to instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. The judge read the verdict, denied a motion for a new trial, and set an appeal bond at $200.

Then Dolan approached the bar and said, "I didn't care for the money. How do I get my wife back?"

Judge McKinley addressed Attorney Block:

"You boasted that you have read 'Romeo and Juliet' a hundred times and are an expert on love; advise him yourself."

BONES FOR THE WAR DOGS

A. L. Erlanger Dies; "Widow" Seeks Millions

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, who entered the show business as an opera glass boy at the age of 12, died today the director general of 700 first class theaters stretching from coast to coast. He would have been 70 had he lived until May. Death was due to uremic poisoning.

Tonight there is a possibility that there may be a contest over his estate, estimated to be worth more than $75,000,000. Mr. Erlanger was said to have been living alone at the time of his death, but late today, at the Riverside drive address where he had been living for 11 years, the superintendent of the building told reporters that "Mrs. Erlanger had issued instructions she was not to be disturbed by any one."

On July 15, 1891, Mr. Erlanger married Adelaide Louise Leonard, who had been the wife of an English actor. Twenty years after that marriage Mr. Erlanger brought an annulment suit at Toronto, Canada. Previously Mrs. Erlanger had sued for divorce. The outcome of all the proceedings was that a divorce was granted to Mrs. Erlanger in Rockland county, N. Y., in 1911.

Possible Estate Controversy.

Former State Supreme Court Justice Mitchell Erlanger, a brother of the late theatrical man, was advised of the incident at the Riverside drive apartment.

"There is no Mrs. Erlanger," he emphatically asserted. "There is no widow."

Max D. Steuer, noted lawyer, said at his home tonight that he had been retained as counsel for "Mrs. Erlanger." He said his client was Charlotte Fiscal and that she was a relative of a "prominent jurist in this city."

"Mr. Erlanger died in the arms of his wife," said Mr. Steuer, "and I consider it quite odd that his brother should make such a statement. Mrs. Erlanger was Mr. Erlanger's wife under the law and in the sight of God. Her husband left an estate of not less than $75,000,000 and I am going to protect her interests in the matter.

Cites Domestic Life Incidents.

"Why, every department store in town has charge accounts in the name of Mrs. Erlanger with the Riverside drive address. The records of the Ambassador hotel here and the Shelburne in Atlantic City will show that Mr. and Mrs. Erlanger lived there.

"Confidential employes of Mr. Erlanger have arranged the transportation and made reservations for Mr. and Mrs. Erlanger here and abroad. There is not the slightest difficulty in proving there is a Mrs. Erlanger."

Mr. Steuer said Mr. Erlanger met the present Mrs. Erlanger about twenty-six years ago and that they had lived at the Riverside address for "many years."

Mr. Erlanger was born in Buffalo May 4, 1860, the son of Leopold and Regina Erlanger, but his parents moved to Cleveland while he was still a small boy. After receiving an elementary education in the public schools he started on his career at the age of 12. A few years later Mark Hanna made him treasurer and auditor of his Euclid Avenue opera house, and the friendship started at the time lasted until the death of the Ohio statesman.

Young Erlanger soon became associated with Marc Klaw, and this partnership developed into what almost amounted to a monopoly of successful artists and vaudeville acts which lasted for many years.

Melrose Park "Bomb Farm" Raided; Nab 11

Eleven men believed to have been making the bombs that have terrorized Chicago during the last year were seized in a raid made by police from State's Attorney Swanson's office on a farmhouse near Melrose Park shortly before midnight. In the place were found two large dynamite bombs, several sticks of dynamite, a large quantity of powder, and several shotguns and pistols.

The raid was the result of information gleaned from tapped telephone wires that told the police where bombs could be procured. Tony Giannini, said to be a lieutenant of Joe Montano, reputed chief of the Melrose Park alcohol ring, and Tony Caliendo, owner of the farm, also of Melrose Park, were the most important of the prisoners seized.

Runs Fireworks Factory.

Caliendo conducted a fire works factory on the farm, and it was because of his business, the police said, that he was able to obtain the explosives necessary to the making of bombs. Another of those taken in the raid was Cuono Nuzzo, a grocer at 516 North Kedzie avenue. The police listening in on telephone conversations learned last night that Nuzzo was to call at the farmhouse for a bomb during the night and that most of the members of the "bomb trust" would be at the place for a conference just before midnight.

Sergt. Joseph Altmeier, who was instrumental recently of having two members of another bombing gang convicted following a raid nearly a year ago, led the ten policemen on last night's raid. Arriving at the farm, they surrounded the house and turned their automobile lights upon it. Immediately there was a desperate attempt made to escape by those within. Several of them leaped from windows and started to flee, but the police threats to shoot halted them, and all were captured. It was found that they are the remnants of the old Genna gang that a few years ago had a monopoly of the west side alcohol business.

Grilled at Bureau.

All were captured and brought to the Chicago detective bureau, where they were being questioned early this morning. The farm on which they were seized was the hiding place of Charles [Limpy] Cleaver, mail robber, in 1923, and the scene of one of the most sensational gun battles with police in Chicago's history.

Flaming Cabin at Lake Villa Holds Mystery

The mutilated body of a young woman, burned beyond recognition, was found early this morning in the smoking ruins of a summer resort cottage on the shore of Deep lake, near Lake Villa, fourteen miles west of Waukegan and five miles southwest of Antioch in the western part of Lake county. Fire apparently had destroyed all means of identifying the victim. Both legs, both arms, and the head were missing, but whether they had been hacked off or burned away the authorities were unable to determine.

The body was discovered by members of the Antioch fire department who were summoned at 11 o'clock last night when flames were noticed coming from the cottage by Edward Schram, 49 years old, a caretaker in the employ of Henning Johnson, proprietor of the cottage and of several others along the lake shore at that point.

Body Found in Debris.

When the firemen arrived the cottage was enveloped in flames, and an effort to save the structure by pumping water from the lake proved in vain. Soon afterward the walls fell, and shortly after 1 o'clock this morning Schram and the firemen, surveying the ruins, saw the young woman's body lying amid the debris. The firemen expressed the belief that the blaze was of incendiary origin and said they had detected the odor of gasoline about the cottage when they first arrived.

Schram said he was standing at the window of the Johnson home, a half block north of the cottage, at 10 o'clock last night when a large automobile speeded past from the direction of the cottage and raced north up the lonely road toward the highway leading into Waukegan. He said he remarked the passing car and the apparent haste of its occupants because motorists are few on the lake road at that time of night.

Gang Victim, Is Theory.

The automobile, the mysterious origin of the fire, and the condition of the body led the authorities to the theory that the young woman might have been the victim of gangsters who are known to visit resorts in the neighborhood of the Lake county lakes during the hunting and fishing seasons.

As soon as the body was discovered Schram notified State's Attorney A. V. Smith and Sheriff Lawrence A. Doolittle of Lake county and they hurried to the scene. Later the body was taken to the Howard Holland undertaking establishment in Waukegan, where it will be examined by Coroner John A. Taylor this morning.

There are few residents along the shores of Deep lake at this time of year. The Johnson resort and another resort conducted by John Jackson near by are the only places tenanted beside the home of Louis Rechenskie, two blocks north of the wrecked cottage. Johnson and his wife are in Cuba, where Jackson also went a few weeks ago. Mrs. Jackson is at home and the Johnson place is cared for by Schram and Robert Wickstrom, 48 years old.

Schram discovered the fire, and he and Wickstrom made an effort to extinguish it before they called the Antioch department. Schram said that the cottage had been closed all winter and that the fire scarcely could have started from combustion within, since there was no heat in the place.

Rented by Chicago Family.

He said that the cottage had been occupied last summer by the family of E. W. O'Toole, an advertising man of Chicago, but that they had departed in the fall. Mrs. O'Toole was reached early this morning at her home at 4629 North Karlov avenue.

She said that they rented the cottage by the season and had left Deep lake on the Sunday following Labor day.

CITY STREETS IN DARKNESS AS CURRENT FAILS

All Chicago, with the exception of two small sections on the far south side, was without street lights for more than an hour and a half last night as a result of breakdowns in the sanitary district power plants at Lockport and at 31st street and Western avenue. At one time during the period of darkness more than 75,000 street lights and all of the park and boulevard lights were off.

The first breakdown came shortly after 8 p. m., when two generators were put out of commission in the Lockport plant, cutting off a part of the power supplied to the city. They were repaired after about 20 minutes, but five minutes later a transformer in the Western avenue station blew out, cutting off all lights except those supplied with power from the South Chicago and southwest side stations operated by the city.

FEDERAL JUDGE RULES DRY LAW EXEMPTS BUYER

Boston Case Going to Supreme Court.

Boston, Mass., March 7.—[Special.]—Judge James M. Morton in federal court today handed down a decision quashing an indictment against James E. Farrar of Watertown, who was charged with illegally purchasing liquor. In the decision Judge Morton held that the purchase of liquor is not a criminal act under the national prohibition act.

This is said to be the first case in the history of federal prohibition in which a person has been indicted for buying liquor—at least the first case in which such a charge has been passed on in a United States court.

Following the decision of Jurge Morton the federal district attorney announced that the case will be appealed and a final decision sought from the United States Supreme court.

Judge Morton's finding that the Volstead law does not prohibit the purchase of liquor was based in part on citations from the Supreme court itself. Farrar, the defendant, was charged in the indictment with buying two pints of liquor from Frank Rotondo in the latter's Cambridge store. Two prohibition agents witnessed the sale and purchase.

The Court's Decision.

"This indictment charges in the simplest and most direct language that the defendant committed a crime by knowingly and unlawfully purchasing two pints of intoxicating liquor. There is no charge of illegal possession. The defendant has moved to quash on the ground that the act charged is not criminal.

"The case presents a question of statutory construction—whether the purchase of liquor is criminal under the national prohibition act. The basic prohibitory section around which the act is built does not prohibit purchases. 'No person shall, on or after the date when the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States goes into effect, manufacture, sell, barter, transport, import, export, deliver, furnish, or possess any intoxicating liquor except as authorized in this act, etc.' [Sec. 3.]

Section 6 Doesn't Apply.

"The government relies on section 6: 'No one shall manufacture, sell, purchase, transport, or prescribe any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner to do this, etc.' The defendant contends that this section, which is one of a group relating to permittees and privileged persons, applies only to them, and does not touch purchases by the general public.

"The case is said to be the first of its kind under the present statute, and the question is said to be new. It is true that there appears to be no direct decision whether the buyer of liquor is guilty of an offense under the national prohibition act. Two Circuit Courts of Appeal, however, have referred to the question and stated explicitly that in their opinion the purchase of liquor by the general public is not criminal. Judge Hand said: 'We concede at once that merely as buyer he was not a party to the scheme in any criminal sense.'"

Purchase Not an Offense.

Judge Morton then quotes Judge Thompson of the United States Circuit court as follows:

"'It is conceded that under the 18th amendment and the Volstead act passed to carry it into effect the purchase of liquor is not made an offense. It follows that the purchase as such does not subject the buyer to punishment. This is perfectly clear from the act itself. Not only did congress carefully exclude the purchaser from the penal provisions of the act as originally passed, but it has taken no step to extend its provisions to the purchaser in the ten years of legislation which have since intervened. That the intention and purpose of congress is in harmony with the act, as drawn, is thus made perfectly manifest.'"

Judge Morton's decision in today's case then continues:

"There is also a statement by the Supreme court which, though less categorical, amounts to the same thing in U. S. vs. Katz, 271, U. S., 354, where it is said: 'Of the 39 sections in title 2 of the act, which deals with national prohibition, more than half, including the seven sections which precede section 10, contain provisions authorising or regulating the manufacture, sale, transportation or use of in-

"These provisions read together, clearly indicate a statutory plan or scheme to regulate the disposition of alcoholic liquor not prohibited by the 18th amendment, in such manner as to minimize the danger of its diversion from authorized or permitted uses to beverage purposes. These provisions plainly relate to those persons who are authorized to sell, transport, use or possess intoxicating liquors, under the 18th amednment, and the provision of section 3 of the act, already quoted, Stone, J. P., 361-2.

Continuing, Judge Morton says:

"The last sentence above quoted is an explicit dictum that section 6 relates only to permittees. The decision comes close to being a decisive authority against the government's contention.

"Even if my own opinion was to the contrary—which it is not—I should hardly feel at liberty to disregard such weighty expressions, especially when the same view seems to have been uniformly held by prosecuting officers, and by the public at large, for more than 10 years, and with respect to a statute intimately touching everyday life."

Many Examples on Record.

"Moreover, the statute under consideration belongs to a class of which many examples are to be found in our legislation. While the language of them differs, all follow similar lines. All have been similarly construed. In Lott vs. United States, the court said, 'It is uniformly held that statutes prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors are directed against the active selling only, and that the offense is committed only by the vender or some one who aids him in selling, and that the purchaser and those who aid him in the purchase are not guilty of aiding or abetting in the commission of the offense.' Judge Gilbert has said: 'We know of no law that prohibits the purchase of liquor.'

"It seems clear that if congress had intended to introduce such a revolutionary change in existing methods of dealing with the liquor problems as making the ordinary buyer criminally liable, it would have said so in no uncertain terms, and it would have expressly prescribed the penalties for buying as it did for selling, in far more definite language than that on which the government here relied, viz.: 'any person violating the provisions of any permit or who makes any false record, report or affidavit required by this title, or violates any of the provisions of this title, for which offense a special penalty is not prescribed, shall be fined, etc.,' which appears to relate to permittees."

What Indictment Charged.

"There are strong reasons why permittees should be penalized for abuse of the privileges granted them.

"As I construe the indictment it does not charge the defendant with aiding and abetting a sale of liquor. Even if it does, no crime would be charged. It has been repeatedly held that the buyer was not an aider and abettor of the seller.

"The act of April 30, 1789, as amended [18 U. S. C. A., section 251] requires both concealment and failure to disclose. Under it some affirmative act toward the concealment of the felony is necessary. Mere silence after knowledge of the commission of the crime is not sufficient. The allegations of the indictment do not bring it within this statute.

HIGHEST COURT MAY RULE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—A clean cut Supreme court ruling on the question of whether a purchaser of liquor can be prosecuted on that one count alone under the national prohibition laws is expected to follow the quashing of an indictment against a buyer in Boston today and the recent arrest of a liquor purchaser by the local police.

While department of justice officials said today that they did not inspire the arrest of James E. Farrar, the Massachusetts man freed today, when a federal court judge threw out as illegal an indictment charging him with the purchase of two pints of liquor, it was learned that the case probably will be taken to a higher court for a ruling.

Other Cases Include Other Charges.

According to federal officials a decision on either the Boston or Washington cases should provide a square cut decision on the application of the prohibition law against the purchaser of liquor. A number of other cases involving buyers have been instituted in the federal courts during the last year, but in virtually all the other cases, defendants have been charged with conspiracy to possess and buy liquor or conspiracy to purchase and transport liquor. The question in both the Boston and Washington cases is that of whether a purchaser can be prosecuted successfully on the one charge of purchasing liquor.

Appears to Be Clear Cut Case.

James J. Britt, legal counsel for the prohibition bureau, declined to discuss the Farrar case for quotation, but said that so far as he could see it was a clear cut purchase case.

In the Washington case, officers arrested John Wayland, 27 years old, and charged him with the purchase of a gallon of corn liquor. The two arresting officers alleged that they saw the purchasing transaction completed. Assistant District Attorney David A. Hart announced after the arrest that Wayland would be charged with violation of Section 6 of the national prohibition act. This is the section which Judge Morton in Boston holds to be applicable only to permittees, such as druggists and hospitals and those legally entitled to buy.

On March 4, the Supreme court announced its determination to review the questions at issue in the Alfred N. Norris case in which federal enforcement officials sought to hold the buyer equally guilty with the seller of liquor in an alleged conspiracy to transport liquor illegally.

Norris was fined $200 in the New York City District court after evidence had been introduced that he had conspired with a Philadelphia man to purchase liquor which had been shipped from Philadelphia. Norris appealed to the Court of Appeals in Philadelphia, which held that "a sale of liquor involving such transportation as is necessary to effect delivery to the purchaser does not subject the purchaser and seller for indictment to transport." The case was then taken to the Supreme court by the government.

Mrs. Miller's "Life for Pint" Conviction Must Be Retried

Lansing, Mich., March 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, mother of 10 children, who was the only woman victim of Michigan's "life for a pint" law, was granted a new trial by the state Supreme court today.

Her sentence was commuted a short time ago by Gov. Fred W. Green from life to 7½ to 15 years, in line with a modification of the law by the 1929 legislature.

She will be returned from the Detroit house of correction by the Ingham county sheriff immediately, and probably will be retried at the March term of Circuit court on the liquor sale charge which brought her the extreme sentence.

Judge's Error Is Cause.

The overturning of Mrs. Miller's conviction was the result of any error by Judge Charles B. Collingwood, who presided at both of her trials. Chief Justice Howard Weist, a former colleague of Judge Collingwood on the Ingham county Circuit bench, wrote the high tribunal's opinion, and held with the defense that the trial judge should have included in his charge to the jury the defense theory of the crime.

The defense produced several witnesses who testified that Mrs. Miller was not out of her house the afternoon she allegedly sold two pints of whisky to Emmett Clark and John Haynes at the home of Matt Smith, a neighbor.

Justice Wiest found that the trial judge was requested by the defense to include in his charge the following:

"I further instruct you that it is the claim of the defendant, Etta Miller, that at the time the people claim she was at the home of one Matt Smith that she was then in her own home and not at the home of Matt Smith, and she has introduced testimony to substantiate her claim and I instruct you that if you believe this testimony your verdict must be not guilty, for it is evident that if the defendant in this case was at her own home at the time the people claim she was at the home of Matt Smith, she could not have committed this offense, and on this point I further instruct you that it is not the duty of Etta Miller to satisfy you beyond a reasonable doubt that she was at her own home at the time. If this testimony raises in your mind a doubt as to her being at the home of Matt Smith, then your verdict must be not guilty."

This request should have been complied with by the court, the opinion states.

Prepared by Senator Person.

Mrs. Miller's appeal was prepared by Senator Seymour Person of Lansing, who had fought the "life for a pint" provision of the criminal code in the legislature, and who helped to modify the code subsequent to her conviction.

Mrs. Miller was arrested by Frank Eastman and William Knapp, former prohibition enforcement team of the local police department. Charges of graft have since caused the dismissal of Eastman and a grand jury investigation.

Black Hand Letter Received by Harvard Professor

Boston, Mass., March 7.—[Special.]—Prof. Edward W. Forbes and Paul J. Sachs, who are connected with the Fogg museum at Harvard college, received letters of the Black Hand nature shortly after announcement was made the museum had purchased for $50,000 a painting by the Florentine master, Botticello. Neither professor could be communicated with tonight, but persons close to them said "there is something going on." The letters were turned over to Charles R. Apted, head of the Harvard university protective bureau.

JONES LAW ADDS TO COURT JAM, DRY TELLS HOUSE

Grand Jury Work Mounts, Says Legislator.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—Enactment of the Jones law, increasing penalties for prohibition violations, has materially added to the difficulties of federal courts, already congested with liquor cases, Representative Carl G. Bachman [Rep., W. Va.], a dry, told the house today.

His remarks were made in connection with advocating enactment of some of the measures recommended by the Wickersham law enforcement commission.

"The Jones law became effective May 2, 1929," he said. "Under this law, every violation of the national prohibition act, except unlawful possession, is made a potential felony. This means that the proceedings in the federal courts for all violations of the national prohibition act, except unlawful possession and the maintenance of a nuisance must be before the grand jury and by indictment.

Now Require Indictments.

"Prior to the Jones act, those accused of transportation and sale, could be prosecuted on information. Now it is necessary to proceed by indictment, which means an inquiry by a grand jury.

"Until the figures for the end of the fiscal year 1930 are available, it will be impossible to tell what effect the operation of the Jones law will have on this question of congestion. As it looks now, with all the cases except possession being prosecuted under indictment, the federal courts will be more congested at the end of the fiscal year 1930 that they were at the end of the fiscal year 1929."

Mr. Bachmann, who is a member of the judiciary sub-committee which has considered the various proposals relating to court procedure, expressed some doubt as to the constitutionality of the scheme to increase powers of court commissioners in trying minor prohibition cases. He favored the proposal to amend the Jones law by defining the term "casual or slight violation" so as to permit prosecution of such offenses without grand jury proceedings. He also favored an increase in the number of judges in a few congested districts.

Quotes Congestion Figures.

Representative Bachmann presented the findings of a survey of the 85 judicial districts in the United States, showing to what extent prohibition cases have glutted the courts. He showed that 196,413 prohibition cases have been started in the federal courts during the last four years, 163,653 of them resulting in convictions. His figures were obtained from the department of justice and related to the four years ending with the fiscal year 1929.

Utilization of a portion of the annual $36,000,000 prohibition enforcement fund to bring about stricter administration of the anti-narcotic drug laws was advocated in the house today by Representative William L. Sirovich [Dem., N. Y.]. The New York physician asserted that the United States now has four times as many drug addicts as before prohibition and expends less than one-twentieth as much in enforcing the narcotic law as is expended in dry law enforcement.

"We have 200 men who are asked to enforce the anti-narcotic laws among 120 million people in the United States," said Representative Sirovich. "The total amount of money spent for enforcement is $1,600,000."

Father Dead, Son Wounded in Battle with Two Drys

Norton, Va., March 7.—(AP)—Walter Caudill, 40, of Cumberland, Ky., is dead and his 17 year old son is suffering from pistol wounds, after a gun battle late last night with two deputy sheriffs.

The officers said they were attempting to place the father and son under arrest on a charge of transporting whisky when the shooting occurred.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 7.—Protests from important Canadian sources against the opinion of parliament adopting the recent motion of Premier Mackenzie King to refuse clearances to vessels obviously carrying liquor to the United States are gathering momentum. The proposal of the prime minister to thus aid the United States in enforcing its unpopular prohibition law has become one of the leading subjects of discussion in the dominion during the last week.

Organized labor in Montreal, at its regular meeting last night, went on record as being vigorously opposed to Premier King's bill.

The argument of friendly coöperation given by Premier King was countered with the heated denunciation of such unfriendly tactics by the United States as increased tariffs and constant consideration of an immigration quota for the dominion.

QUEER PARALYSIS AFFLICTING 80 IS LAID TO BAD RUM

Oklahoma City Epidemic Puzzles Doctors.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 7.—(AP)—A strange malady with paralytic characteristics, apparently caused by drinking of poison liquor, has placed about forty victims in Oklahoma City hospitals, and probably as many more are receiving treatment in their homes.

Dr. W. H. Miles, city physician, who was called upon to cope with the epidemic of collapses, is seeking to determine definitely the cause of the illnesses and whether the disease is communicable.

Lose Use of Feet.

Many of the victims have lost the use of their feet and legs, and most of them have told Dr. Miles and Dr. E. Goldfain, a nerve specialist assisting him, that their illness followed the drinking of alcoholic liquor. Several victims, however, including a chiropodist and a minister, have denied that they partook of liquor.

The chiropodist said he had treated several of the victims when their feet became paralyzed, and attributed his own condition to contagion.

No deaths have been attributed to the disease, and Dr. Miles has been unable to determine whether the disability is permanent.

Drug Stores Named.

The health officer's belief that the illness is caused by drinking was strengthened by the fact that most of the victims said they had drunk Jamaica ginger. Several of the victims gave a newspaper man the names of drug stores from which they said they had bought the beverage. Five druggists or drug store employés were among the victims.

Other victims included two physicians and two girls of school age.

65-Ft. Armored Rum Runner Captured in Lake Erie Battle

Lorain, O., March 7.—(AP)—One of the largest rum boats on the great lakes, a 65 foot armored motor cruiser, its cargo of 3,000 cases of whisky and beer, and its crew of two men were held there tonight after a spectacular battle with coast guards of lower Erie today.

One of the prisoners was seriously wounded. He said he was Fred Hentrie of Detroit. The other gave the name of Joe Hanna. Coast guards said the rum boat is the Sambo G of Port Stanley, Ont., and that it had cleared from Erieau or Kingsville, Ont.

The capture was made after a pursuit of several hours in which the guardsmen showered rifle bullets and one pound shells on the fugitive craft. Strips of five-eighths inch steel covered the boat in vulnerable parts, however, and the bullets and shells failed to stop it.

Rams Guard Boat.

There was no shooting from the rum boat, but once it took the aggressive and made a full speed dash at the coast guard boat, No. 106, hitting it amidships and tearing a large hole just above the water line. Then the rum runner resumed its flight.

Several hours later, near Lorain, the guards overhauled the rum boat and boarded it. They found Hentrie in the pilot house with two bullet wounds in his back. Hanna, unhurt, was lying on the floor to escape the hail of bullets that had come from the giant boat.

The pursuit began last night, when Capt. J. T. Hagglove, in command of the C. G.—106, first saw the rum runner about fifteen miles off Cleveland. Fifteen shots were fired across the runner's bow, but they were unheeded, Hagglove said. When the firing began the Sambo G. turned westward, but could not escape.

Bullets Bounce Off.

Capt. Hagglove ordered his crew to fire directly on the fugitive ship, but the runners paid no attention. Then bullets then were used, and Hagglove was surprised to see them bounce off the target. Then one-pounders were shot against the Sambo G, and the firing became regular. Still the crew of the runner did not fire back. Suddenly the rum runner turned and charged the cutter, striking it amidships, then pulled away and continued its flight. It was an hour later before the cutter came close enough again for the guardsmen to board the Sambo G.

The latter is the most completely armored ship the coast guards have encountered in rum warfare on the lakes.

BEER KING SLAIN; TRAPPED GUNMAN THEN KILLS SELF

One of them, cornered by the police, committed suicide rather than be captured. Two others fled in a stolen car after wounding a patrolman. Their machine careened along a main street through the crowds and knocked down three children.

Dunn, who recently announced his "reformation," was shot twice and died a few hours later. Patrolman John O'Toole had three fingers of his left hand shot off in a battle with the gangsters.

An automobile license found in the pocket of the dead gangster was made out in the name of Frank Kelly of Hoboken. A short time after the battle two men in a coupé similar to that in which the fleeing gunmen escaped were captured in Jersey City. They said they were Frank Lorenzo and Alfred Orlando.

WAR ON GRUNDY BOOMERANG FOR LOBBY QUIZZERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special.]—What was intended to be a sensational floor attack by the senate coalition upon Senators J. R. Grundy [Rep., Pa.] and Guy D. Goff [Rep., W. Va.] today boomeranged back upon its sponsors when Goff charged the coalition controlled lobby committee with bad faith and with playing partisan politics in its investigation.

Reviewing evidence gathered by the lobby committee earlier in the day, Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] charged that the American tariff league, formerly headed by Grundy, has been installed in the senate office building and left the inference that because some of the facts used by Goff in a tariff speech last Saturday were furnished by a league official the latter probably wrote the entire speech.

Goff Strikes Back.

Leaping to his feet when Blaine concluded, Goff denounced the committee for assuming to "cast reflections" directly or indirectly on those whose views are not in accord with theirs and challenged Blaine to explain why it had not reported the fact that Senator R. M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] had been supplied with tariff ammunition by E. R. Pickrell, American agent for the German dye monopoly.

The coalitionists hurriedly abandoned the attack when Grundy took the floor and, after readily admitting that he has retained former employes of the American Tariff league, asserted it was necessary in order to aid Pennsylvania industries, "in dire distress and who are not likely, I am sorry to say, to get the relief they were promised in the Republican platform, as a result of the way this bill is being handled."

Blaine detailed the testimony of W. F. Doane, formerly in charge of the American Tariff league news bureau, that the latter's office in a downtown building was closed soon after Grundy was appointed to the senate and that its files and records were moved into a senate office room assigned to Grundy.

Charges Faubel Furnished Data.

Other testimony by Dr. A. L. Faubel, executive secretary of the tariff league, showed, Blaine went on, that the data and statistics used by Goff in Saturday's speech were furnished by Faubel, who also, it was developed, wrote and paid for the mimeographing of a summary of the speech for the newspapers.

"The point is," shouted Blaine, "that during this entire tariff bill proceeding there have been these unseen and unclean hands of special interests at work. There is evidence beyond peradventure of doubt that there has been formed a plunderbund of special interests outside the senate to jam through higher rates on lumber, oil, sugar, glass and cement among other articles.

"No one disputes that there was a deal to exchange oil for sugar and sugar for oil. The American Tariff league has been at it. The Southern Tariff association has been at it. And certain so-called farmers' representatives have been part of the scheme. Every racketeer in the business has combined to put this bill over and that's why the American Tariff league was moved into the senate office building."

Goff Expresses Surprise.

"I am surprised," declared Goff when he could secure the floor, "that a committee of the senate should assume to cast reflection, directly or indirectly, on those whose views are not in accord with theirs. I think when a subcommittee does that it is exceeding its prerogatives and I am wondering whether the senate should investigate the sources of facts and data used by senators in speeches.

"That speech which has been referred to speaks for itself. Read it, go through it with the finetooth comb of the coalition and you will find its statements smack of the truth.

"But whenever the lobby committee sees fit to reply to some one whose action or voice does not suit its members, the committee seeks, by bringing out some testimony, to reflect on the senator in question."

Reads Pickrell Testimony.

Picking up a transcript of the lobby committee's examination of Pickrell several weeks ago, Goff read the latter's own testimony that he had supplied considerable information on chemical tariff rates to Senators La Follette and W. H. King [Dem., Utah] among others.

"What I say," continued Goff, "is that no reference in any of these piecemeal reports by one particular member of the committee has ever been made to this testimony of Pickrell, but when some one testifies, 'I prepared some data for Senator Goff,' they give out the inference that Dr. Faubel prepared my speech.

"I object to having my conduct singled out for discussion when other senators have secured data and facts under exactly similar circumstances. It is unfair and ungenerous to pick out the speeches of those with whom you disagree and submerge the facts helping or affecting those with whom you agree."

Doane Gathers Statistics.

"Mr. Doane is doing statistical work for me, just as others are doing it for other senators," declared Grundy. "The only difference is that because of the vast number of industries we have in Pennsylvania and their very great and earnest interest in the tariff situation, more people, vastly more people, are brought to my offices than probably come to the offices of the average senator.

"I wanted to get that fact into the record because it might have been misconstrued, as it has been intimated that there was some dark and hidden secret or connivance with somebody, somehow, or somewhere to put something over on the American people that could not or should not be seen by light of day."

Grundy reminded the senate that he is paying Doane's salaries as well as those of the other additional clerks and typists employed in his office, and that none of them is carried on the government pay roll.

Wants More Like Him.

"If there is anything," he concluded, after citing the plight of Pennsylvania industry, "I have not done, or if there is anything more that I could do to help those industries, I want to do it. Moreover, if there were more men like Doane that I could get, if there were a half dozen like him, to help bring information and arguments that would perhaps convince the senate that higher rates should be put in this bill, I would have them.

"I have no apologies whatever to make for the relationship or the manner in which his services are performed."

YELLOWLEY AID SHIFTED AFTER FRIEND'S ARREST

Prohibition Investigator Leo Donahue, for several years a trusted aid to Administrator Yellowley, and more particularly to his chief assistant, William Kennedy, has been summarily transferred to Seattle, according to Washington reports last night. Mr. Yellowley last night declined to comment on the reasons for the transfer.

In Washington it was indicated that Donahue's friendship with Richard J. Proud, chief prohibition investigator who was arrested last week for selling government records, had prompted the action. Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, said the transfer order is to be rescinded shortly and some other disposition made of Donahue. It was indicated that he may resign from the service. Donahue is to remain here another week.

Hollywood, Cal., March 7.—[Special.]—Fay Lanphier, San Francisco beauty, who was "Miss America" in 1925 and subsequently was starred in the film, "The American Venus," was discovered today in the stenographic department of the Paramount-Famous-Lasky studio pounding a typewriter and punching the time clock. She admitted she still had hopes, despite discouragements, of a comeback in pictures and meanwhile was making a living in the vocation she learned before she won highest honors in the Atlantic City beauty contest. Miss Lanphier was divorced about a year ago.

Dry Agent Faces Two $100,000 Suits

Peter J. Anzalone, who charges that Willard Moglund, prohibition agent formerly stationed in Chicago, stole the affections of his wife and then caused his arrest on false charges.

Acquit Veteran

Willard Moglund, pugilistic dry agent, whose local career as a law enforcer ended with his transfer to Buffalo last November, stood outside Federal Judge Woodward's court yesterday waiting to be called to testify against a sixty year old Spanish war veteran who once fell victim to the agent's fists. The government chose, however, to try the defendant, John Randecker, without Moglund's testimony, and a jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Randecker was brought to trial on charges of selling liquor which grew out of a raid last Aug. 5 on his restaurant at 914 Fulton street. Four agents, led by Moglund, entered with a search warrant, and Randecker emptied a pitcher, which the agents claimed, contained liquor, into the sink. A tussel resulting from Moglund's efforts to save the "evidence" brought the grayhaired war veteran a black eye and a bruised nose.

Moglund, whose other experiences in Chicago include lodging his sweetheart's husband in a detective bureau cell after slugging him with a pistol butt and driving an automobile into a car containing two women who claimed that he was drunk, was due to return to Buffalo last night. However, he is expected to return to settle his suits in state courts. The two women he smashed into have a suit for $25,000 against him, and Peter J. Anzalone, the husband whom he jailed, filed two suits for $100,000 each charging false arrest and alienation of his wife's affections.

PENSIONED COP DOES A COME-ON AND GETS HIS MAN

A pensioned police lieutenant, Alexander Crandall, emerged from retirement yesterday to trap a glib young man who had offered him an "attractive proposition." The young man was booked at the detective bureau on a confidence game charge as William White, 34 years old, 4701 Lawndale avenue. He was seeking last night to report his plight to the former pugilist, Charlie White, whom he claimed as his brother.

Lieut. Crandall, who owns a Florida orange grove, had just returned from Miami when the telephone rang at his home, 7040 Ogiesby avenue. The caller introduced himself as a Detroit promoter who knew of Crandall through a mutual friend in Miami. He asked Crandall to meet him at the Stevens hotel and get the details. Crandall said he would meet him at once.

At the hotel Mr. White of Detroit plunged into the proposition without preliminaries. For $3,000 he promised to supply Crandall infallible tips on the races.

"A thousand, then?" as the lieutenant shook his head. "Five hundred—one hundred? I'm your friend and I'll take what you've got. How much have you?"

"Thirty cents," said the lieutenant.

Rail Cashier Vanishes; Police Search Is Asked

MANDATE ISSUED TO SEND HAFFA TO FEDERAL PRISON

A mandate for the arrest of Titus A. Haffa, former alderman of the 43d ward, to start serving a sentence of two years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, was turned over to the United States marshal's office yesterday. The action followed official notice that the United States Supreme court had denied Haffa's petition for a review of his conviction in the United States District court.

Haffa was sentenced to serve two years and fined $11,000 for conspiring to violate the prohibition law. The former alderman has been at liberty under bonds of $20,000, pending his appeal. It was indicated yesterday that the marshal's office would give him time to put his personal affairs in order before he is taken to Leavenworth to start his sentence.

CLERK OF HUNTED OAK PARK POLICE JUDGE ARRAIGNED

Robert Nichols of Glen Ellyn, nephew and clerk of the missing Oak Park police magistrate, James M. Feron, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Martin McGrath in Oak Park yesterday, charged with being an accessory to the $14,856 embezzlement of which Feron is accused.

His bond was fixed at $5,000 and his attorney, L. S. Gibson, and his brother, James Nichols, partner of Magistrate Feron in a real estate business, were trying to raise the bail last night. Oak Park village trustees have posted a $500 reward for the arrest of Feron, who vanished a week ago about the hour his check for $14,586 to the village treasury was discovered to be worthless.

OPEN CAMPAIGN TO ADVERTISE CITY AS IT IS Better Business Bureau Cites Situation.

Directors of the Chicago Better Business bureau yesterday began their own campaign to bring Chicago's name out of a state of rural bad repute. In a luncheon meeting at the Union League club the dozen directors mapped a three-plank platform which they will launch in the attempt to "supplant stage jokes and fiction with facts and statistics in the public mind."

The platform has these three objectives:

1. Intensifying the fact-finding work of the bureau against swindlers and white collar bandits, which will make it impossible for them to operate in the city.

Cite Amount of Crime.

2. Convincing the world by presenting the facts that the amount of crime in Chicago has been greatly misrepresented in other cities and foreign countries.

3. Placing in the hands of the public information regarding various rackets and fraudulent schemes which will enable people to avoid the business crook and recognize the reputable houses.

"Thousands of people outside of Chicago have a genuine fear of the city," said Elmer F. Wieboldt, president of the bureau and general manager of the Wieboldt stores. "We shall attempt to counteract this by collapsing the bubble of misinformation that exists about us all over the country.

Cites Fear of Visitors.

"I am told by hotel managers," said Mr. Wieboldt," "that husbands whose wives are coming through the city from some other community very frequently wire asking police escorts for them. Such a ridiculous state of affairs must be righted.

"We believe this task is primarily he task of the Better Business bureau. The bureau was organized three and a half years ago to help business clean its own house and we have been waging a war on fake advertising, and with the coöperation of the newspapers have reduced this problem materially. We have tried to protect the housewife and the business man against schemes of swindlers and there has been a great deal done in cleaning up the unfair practices, but we are up against the fact that Chicago has been advertised to the underworld of other cities as a good place in which to do business.

Pick Two Committees.

"The business criminals are flocking to our city not so much because of what actually exists but because of what they hope to find. Therefore we are organizing two committees which we expect will enlist the support of merchants and manufacturers to undertake the task of creating confidence in Chicago."

Details of the plans will be announced at a large banquet the end of the month, Mr. Wieboldt said.

The general committee of the bureau will be headed by John T. Pirie of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. W. Frank McClure of Albert Frank & Co. will be chairman of a special group to study conditions in Chicago as compared with those in other cities.

Widow Is Freed on Bond to Await Slaying Trial

Mrs. Florence Leeney was liberated under $15,000 bonds yesterday pending her trial in the Criminal court for the slaying of her husband, Maurice Leeney, a contractor. The bond was approved by Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle. The shooting occurred on Jan. 2 in the Leeney flat at 5336 Drexel boulevard.

EX-HEAD OF LADIES' AID SOCIETY GETS JAIL TERM AS BOOTLEGGER

Lansing, Mich., March 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Beatrice French, former president of the Ladies' Aid society, who served tea and cake to Onandaga church women and sold moonshine to their husbands, was sentenced to serve from nine months to two years in the Detroit house of correction when she pleaded guilty here today on a charge of possessing liquor. Judge Leland W. Carr also sentenced Richard Schultz, her "hired man," to six months to two years in Jackson prison on a similar charge. Both pleaded guilty to possession, rather than face trial under the Culbertson act on a charge of selling liquor.

The arrest of Mrs. French after a raid on her home by deputy sheriffs yesterday was no surprise to Onondaga, where she has been a leader in the restricted social life of the village. In fact, it was the irate wives of the hamlet who reported her to the authorities and thus brought about her arrest.

Mother of 3 in Rum Trap.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Harry Lee Schultz, a 29 year old mother of three children, was held here today for grand jury action under a $1,000 bond on a charge of transporting and illegally possessing liquor. She was arrested last night as she sat in an automobile containing liquor, while her husband, who was held under $2,000 bond, went into a house where police say he delivered whisky.

GIRL CLAIMS SHE'S MOTHER OF HEIR OF DEAD COUPLE

But Suit May Deprive Child of Fortune.

Akron, O., March 7.—(AP)—An 18 year old girl fought in court today to claim a 2 year old boy as her own and deprive him of a $40,000 inheritance, while friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Long of Barberton, who were killed in the Cleveland clinic disaster last May, testified that he is Carl Long Jr.

The girl, Miss Lovella Rush, told Common Pleas Judge L. S. Pardee how she met a man by the name of Louis Keller; how he stayed at her house as a boarder, and how he disappeared before she gave birth to a boy on Feb. 2, 1928. She told how she presented the boy to Mrs. Long the next day. Mrs. Long on that day told her husband the infant was their son.

On the other hand, Mrs. Margaret Begley of Barberton, close friend of Mrs. Long, testified she had seen Mrs. Long at least once a week earlier in 1928 and that her condition was that of a woman about to give birth to a child.

Andrew Lippert, partner of Long in the garage business, told of Long's paternal attitude toward the boy and the resemblance between the two.

A birth certificate for a Richard Lee Rush, the name which Miss Rush said she gave to the child, is on file with the Barberton board of health. There is no certificate for Carl Long Jr.

If the child is found not to be the son of the Longs, the $40,000 Long estate will go to the children of either Long or Mrs. Long by a first marriage.

Louisville, Ky., March 7.—(AP)—Former President Calvin Coolidge, on his way to Washington from California, passed through Louisville late today without damaging his reputation for taciturnity. He and Mrs. Coolidge posed smilingly for photographers in a short stay here, but in answer to questions Mr. Coolidge observed affably: "I have no information about anything."

Will Hear Plea to Spare Name of Mayor.

The city council judiciary committee met again yesterday to end the delay in the prosecution of the city's suit for a refund of $648,444 paid in federal income taxes. No decision was reached. Most of the 90 minute session was devoted to a discussion of whether the claim could be won without citing the Circuit court judgment in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S $2,000,000 expert fee suit in which Mayor Thompson is called a conspirator in the illegal payment of the $2,000,000 expert fees.

The aldermen decided to hold another meeting, subject to the call of the chairman, at which they will listen to a two hour argument by Attorney Frederick A. Bangs, who will present the views of Corporation Counsel Ettelson.

Schiller Is Questioned.

At yesterday's session the aldermen questioned Attorney Jay A. Schiller, who was summarily removed from the case by Ettelson because Schiller quoted the court judgment condemning the mayor.

The city is claiming the $648,444 refund on the ground that the tax was paid on income from expert fees which the Circuit court ordered repaid to the city because they were collected illegally as the result of a conspiracy by city officials.

Schiller believes that the city's claim will be imperiled if the findings in the Circuit court judgment are withheld to spare the mayor. He is asking that the city council adopt a resolution ordering Ettelson to cease interferring with his conduct of the case. Schiller had not completed his argument on the adjournment of the committee yesterday, and he will be allowed to finish before Attorney Bangs is heard at the next session.

Money Awaiting City.

"There is $648,444 belonging to the city in Washington waiting for the council to act," said Schiller. "If the council fails to act, then Ettelson can let the suit lag." Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th] raised the objection that Ettelson would not be bound by the resolution. Schiller replied that Ettelson could not fail to heed the expressed sentiment of the council.

Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] expressed the opinion that the $648,444 claim should not be made until the $2,000,000 expert fee judgment was finally adjudicated on appeal in the Supreme court. Schiller replied by presenting the opinions of outstanding attorneys that the refund claim should be pressed, although the appeal has not been decided.

Klarkowski Cousin Will Face Murder Trial March 24

William Klarkowski, suspended deputy sheriff of Lake county, a cousin of Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski of Chicago, will go to trial on March 24 before Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff at Waukegan for the murder of Douglas E. Steuben, Waukegan plumber, who was shot to death on Jan. 11 after a dispute with Klarkowski in a Waukegan restaurant. The trial date was announced yesterday by State's Attorney A. V. Smith as a coroner's jury returned a murder verdict. Klarkowski had previously been indicted, however, and is now held without bond.

City Faces New Tax Hitch; Teachers Go Payless Again

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Public officials are threatening activities which may embarrass the Silas H. Strawn citizens' committee as the managers of the $74,000,000 taxpayers' trust. This was raised from private corporations and individuals to keep the local governments operating, on reduced rations, until July 1. Philip R. Clarke, who headed the drive to raise this fund, said yesterday that it amounted to nearly $75,000,000.

The city and the county governments are now said to desire much more money in the next allotment than they have heretofore represented as their pressing needs.

Ald. John S. Clark, chairman, and other members of the council finance committee, are protesting against permitting the Strawn committee to buy any more 1928 tax anticipation warrants held in the trust and surplus funds of the city.

Teachers Miss Pay Again.

H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, indicated by his comments yesterday a critical attitude towards the Strawn committee, which meets this morning to decide how much money it will give the city, county, public schools and sanitary district, as the second installment, to meet pay rolls.

To this meeting the local governments are supposed to submit their urgent needs for the period between Feb. 15 and March 15. Mr. Caldwell said that he had not been asked to submit the monthly budget for the schools, although yesterday was pay day for the teachers. They failed to get the estimated $3,655,000 owing them. A payless payday for other school employés, involving $1,080,000, has also passed without recognition.

City officials said yesterday that they do not intend to submit a request for cash for the schools, claiming it is not their business and they have not been asked to do so. The city expects to submit its request Monday, which will be $4,250,000, for corporate pay rolls, and $3,600,000 for outstanding debts, which include vouchers for a number of experts and lawyers.

The county and sanitary district submitted their figures yesterday. The former asks $1,435,000 for payrolls, and $3,000,000 with which to pay off current debts.

The sanitary district asked $1,307,560 with which to meet principal and interest on bonds and $265,000 for pay rolls. If an allowance of $4,735,000 is set aside for the schools, which has not yet been asked, the requests this time will total $18,592,560, as compared with $12,340,000 plus accrued interest of $533,612.86.

The money was advanced to the city by this process: The tax payers' trust bought 1928 tax anticipation warrants which had been purchased by the city from itself with trust and surplus funds of the municipality. With this money the city bought its own 1930 tax warrants. That procedure was approved at the city council at the last meeting, and another ordinance was presented authorizing a repetition of that method. It was referred to the finance committee which has a meeting scheduled for next Tuesday. Ald. Clark and several colleagues are reported opposed to this second ordinance.

Subway Shortage Seen.

"Much of the money invested in the 1928 tax anticipation warrants by the city," said the alderman, "is the street car fund. If the city sells its 1928 tax warrants and with the proceeds invests in 1930 warrants, it may be short of money with which to build subways, because the taxes to retire the 1930 warrants may not be collected until 1932. Subway construction should begin before 1932."

The Strawn committee, in dealing out its first installment, insisted upon buying the 1928 tax warrants held by the city treasury. On the situation Mr. Strawn commented yesterday:

"The taxpayers have put up a fund of nearly $75,000,000 with which to buy tax anticipation warrants. The money is available. The Citizens' committee will decide for itself what it will buy in tax warrants, and I believe that it will not buy any 1930 school warrants until it has purchased all it desires of the 1928 and the 1929 series, of which the city treasury holds about $50,000,000 worth. The citizens' committee has the money to buy warrants so that the employés may be paid and other urgent expenses met."

"Why should the citizens who have put up this money have to wait a long time for its return? Why make them wait longer than is necessary?"

LUNCH HOUR AT CITY HALL KEEPS RECORDS SECRET

City hall officials explained yesterday why two assistant state's attorneys were not allowed to inspect the pay rolls in the department of public works last Thursday, as had been promised in court by First Assistant Corporation Counsel James W. Breen. The latter had told Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle that the state would not need a subpœna duces tecum to obtain the records of the office of Richard Wolfe, commissioner of the department.

Wolfe explained yesterday that when the prosecutors came to his office everybody was out to lunch. Later Mr. Breen returned and went into consultation with the prosecutors, but then could not finish up his talk because of a 2 o'clock council meeting.

However, the health department started to work yesterday to make photostatic copies of 1,300 pay roll sheets for the months of December, 1929, and January and February of this year.

BARRETT PLEADS WITH CUTMORE FOR TAX BOOKS

Fears New Delay in Mailing Bills.

Charles V. Barrett, chairman of the board of review, yesterday paid a personal visit to Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, to plead for the immediate delivery of the five remaining country town assessment rolls for an early completion of 1928 assessment. Unless the rolls are in the hands of the reviewers by next week the hope of finishing the work by May 1 is doomed to further delay, he said.

"I am begging you for the books," Chairman Barrett declared. "If those books are in our hands by a reasonable time we can clean up our work. I will have a surprise move by April 15, which will allow two weeks for our clerks to put things into shape so that the reassessment will come to to a speedy and certain end. There can be no bills until the last book is in."

Sees Delay in Evanston.

Cutmore said that he will have completed Worth, Calumet, New Trier and Thornton by next week. However, he added, Evanston may not be ready until March 25, because he wished to give the suburb's taxpayers a chance to examine revised valuation figures.

"March 25," Barret said. "That means that we cannot get at our work on the suburb until April 7, inasmuch as we must give the legal notice of ten days for hearings. We are crying for books. We have completed all our work and need that book with the others."

"Why don't you work on those we have sent you?" Cutmore asked.

Use Much Ink Eraser.

"I am fed up on that propaganda," Barrett retorted. "The board of review is not delaying the reassessment. Give us the last book and watch us go. You promised the last book by Feb. 20 and now you say March 25 at the earliest. The trouble with this office is that you use too much ink eradicator. The place reeks with it. Let your figures be certain in the first place.

"Why allow the books to remain on the counter for a week. You have given the Evanstonians every consideration. There ought to be an end to it. They're no better than any one else and have had three months to look at the figures. Give us the books. I can't say anything stronger than that. Any one should see our position. No books, no bills."

Will Slash Pay Roll.

The board of assessors will meet today to slash its pay roll in response to a pronouncement of Strawn rescue committee that no more salary appropriations will be approved until unnecessary positions are abolished. The roll carries 350 regular and extra employés. A report pointing to the necessity for reduction of the staff was submitted by J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, to the Strawn committee a month ago.

Although the report was sent to the assessors for adoption, they delayed ordering reductions and raised the bimonthly pay roll of $73,000 by $4,000. Dismissal recommendations are to be presented today.

RAID DISCLOSES THEFT OF 1,000 CITY VOUCHERS

Some Are Cashed as Pay Checks.

The state's attorney's office following a raid yesterday disclosed the theft of 1,000 city special assessment checks, some of which have been filled in to ramounts from $84 to $209 and cashed by storekeepers. Private detectives have been quietly working on the theft for some weeks and have succeeded in tracing some of the checks to minor politicians, who are expected to be indicted within the next few days.

As a result of an investigation by Assistant State's Attorney William M. Mercer the raid was made on the headquarters of the Drainlayers and Gas Workers union at 118 North La Salle street. Tommy Enright, brother of the late Mossy Enright, was among those taken into custody. One warrant for $209.90 was found to have been made out in the same of Thomas J. Enright.

Banks Are Warned.

The prosecutor says that about forty of the stolen checks have turned up, but what has happened to the remainder is still to be determined. The banks have been warned not to accept any of these vouchers between the numbers of 4,000 and 5,000.

The warning, however, has not generally been sounded among the smaller merchants and it is feared by the authorities that they will fall prey for those who have the stolen checks because of the recent confusion in paying of city and county employés. Many of the recently issued legitimate checks and vouchers have been cashed by storekeepers and it is feared that the forged vouchers would pass unnoticed if a warning is not issued.

Grand jury action is now pending against four men, Prosecutor Mercer said, and before he finishes his inquiry he hopes to involve others. Some of the men were arrested when it was thought that only a few of the vouchers had disappeared and they have since been released on bonds.

Suspects Are Listed.

Those against whom action is now pending are Pat Dwyer, a minor politician, who was a reported associate of the Enright labor crowd; Charlie White, whose connections are not known, but who figures in several of the voucher deals; J. Edward Callahan and a man named Chatfielder. The latter, it is reported, has influence in some direction because he was released on $10,000 bond within 15 minutes of his arrest.

Some of the checks traced by Lieut. William V. Blaul, who conducted the raid on the labor headquarters, disclose the following facts:

Voucher 4018—Dated Jan. 1 to 15—Amount of $88.05. Payee James J. Sullivan, indorsed by Sullivan, J. Edward Callahan, James J. Ryan, and the Baltimore hotel. The hotel cashed the check for Ryan, who had previously accepted it from Callahan. The latter, when arrested, said he received it from Dwyer. The latter denied this.

Voucher 4,010 for $67.50 payable to John J. Dillon. This check was cashed in the North Inn cafe by Walter Tracy, a former bailiff in the city hall. The check was cashed on the recommendation of Joseph Bender, who is said to be well known among frequenters on the first floor of the city hall. Bender, whose name figures in several of the transactions, is reported to have disappeared.

Voucher 4,017, dated Feb. 20, for $109.15, was payable to Joseph F. Breen and indorsed by him. It was deposited in the Washington Park National bank by Joseph De Koken. The latter said that J. Nangle, a street inspector, had recommended the cashing of this check for one of two men who accompanied him.

Nangle said that he was in his office when Walter Tracy, the former bailiff, came in with two men whom he introduced as Policemen Kelly and Hogan. On Kelly, Nangle said he saw a patrolman's star, but did not take the number. He said that they had a drink and after that Kelly asked him to cash a check. Believing him a policeman he recommended that De Koken cash the check. Before that time he saw Tracy frequently, but since he has not been able to locate him.

The raid on the union headquarters yielded some books and papers, the contents of which have been examined, and a few bottles of liquor. Those arrested beside Enright are Joseph O'Donnell, Otto Bitters, James F. Hartey Jr., and Patrick McEvoy. Most of the men have labor connections.

REPORT HEIRESS' MATE INDICTED AS A BIGAMIST

George Howell, 26 years old, was reported named as a bigamist in a true bill voted by the grand jury yesterday afternoon. He had been held to the grand jury by Judge John Sbarbaro of the Felony court after Mrs. Marjorie Heisenbuttel Howell, a New York heiress, had testified that she married Howell on Jan. 29, in Santa Monica, Cal.

The first wife, Mrs. Artelia Kahnweiler Howell, was not in court because of illness. Her father, Alex Kahnweiler, had caused the arrest of her husband.

The second wife said she had known of his earlier marriage, but thought he had been divorced and that their marriage was legal.

STATE RESTS IN TRIAL OF LODEN, COBB

Benton, Ill., March 7.—(AP)—The state rested its case late today against Del Cobb and Ed P. Loden, former officers of subdistrict 9 of district 12 of the United Mine Workers of America, who are on trial in Circuit court on charges of embezzlement in connection with the $50,000 strike fund of 1927. The court immediately ceased until tomorrow after defense counsel had served notice they wished time to prepare a motion for a directed verdict.

Oakley Hayse, a banker, was the last state witness, testifying that C. J. Buhrer, ao grocery broker, had drew checks for more than the invoices on groceries called for and that he [Hayse] gave Buhrer the difference in currency.

$1,716,756.58 IN REAL CASH has been paid to policyholders and beneficiaries

If you have a Policy, renew it. If not, get one.

THIS is the biggest Accident Insurance bargain in America. Nowhere else can you get so much protection for so small a sum. The enormous amount of money—$1,716,756.58—paid to holders and beneficiaries of these policies is eloquent proof of their value.

In many instances large sums have been paid for accidents not covered at all under the provisions of policies issued through other newspapers. The Tribune-Federal Travel Accident Insurance Policy is the broadest of its kind obtainable for the money. In other policies there are serious restrictions. For example, the insurance is usually restricted to "fare-paying passengers." The Tribune-Federal Policy covers you whether you are a "fare-paying passenger" or not.

If you haven't one of these policies, get one for yourself and every eligible member of your family: father, mother, brother, sister, son and daughter. If you have a policy and do not remember its expiration date, send the coupon on page 3 with $1.25 at once to renew it—and be sure. If your policy lapses you are no longer protected. Your insurance will be renewed for a full year dating from the exact expiration date of your policy.

Remember, also, that in renewing, the value of all specific indemnities in your policy increases 10%. Do not lose this added protection. Send the coupon on Page 3 at once for another year's protection.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

ALDERMEN WILL DISCUSS BANKER CAR PLAN TODAY

Expect to Find Basis for Franchise Dicker.

The council local transportation committee will meet this morning to discuss the recommendations of the bankers' committee on the proposed indeterminate transit franchise ordinance. The conference is expected to lay the groundwork for renewed negotiations on the franchise next week.

The bankers' committee is composed of Frank O. Wetmore of the First National bank, Arthur Reynolds of the Continental Illinois bank, and Harry L. Stuart of Halsey, Stuart & Co. They have worked out a plan for a reorganization and consolidation of the Surface and Elevated lines, agreeing on all points except on the disposition of the first mortgage bonds of the Surface lines.

Individuals Voice Favor.

The committee's plan has not been accepted by the protective committees representing the 24 different groups of junior securities, although certain members of a few committees have made favorable comments. These protective committees probably will not be asked to take action until the council local transportation committee has definitely indicated its position on undecided sections in the proposed franchise. It is said that in some respects the financial scheme of the bankers is contingent upon the action to be taken by the aldermen and Mayor Thompson.

In order that seven or eight members of protective committees now in California may have a chance to consider the committee's proposals, Vice President Frank Gordon of the First Union Trust and Savings bank and George Pearson of the Continental Illinois bank are on their way to the Pacific coast. They will confer with George and Arthur Reynolds of the Continental Illinois bank, Albert W. Harris of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and with B. E. Sunny of the Illinois Bell Telephone company. The latter is chairman of the protective committee of the Chicago City and Connecting collateral trust, which has priority after the first mortgage bonds of the south side Surface lines.

Opposed to Propositions.

Mr. Harris is chairman of the protective committee of the first mortgage bonds of the west and north sides. He has opposed the propositions on the disposal of these bonds in the new company, and declined to be a member of the bankers' committee.

It has been reported the new plan contemplates that the first mortgage bonds of the Surface lines shall be general mortgage bonds of the new company, with perhaps a slightly higher rate of interest and a sinking fund insuring their payments over a series of years. These bonds at present have no sinking fund. They have been due for three years and cash is not available with which to pay them.

His physicians, after their usual morning call, issued a bulletin saying that he "seems a little better this morning, but the change in his condition from day to day is almost negligible." Drs. Francis R. Hagner and William A. Claytor signed the bulletin.

Heartened by the gains their patient has made, they have discontinued their frequent calls at his home and make but two calls daily.

POLICE GIRD FOR GANG WAR AFTER OBERTA KILLING

Stege Puts 7 Squads on South Side.

The murder of John ("Dingbat") Oberta on Wednesday night and the recent attempt to kill Frank McErlane in the German Deaconess hospital brought trouble on south side gangsters and bootleggers yesterday. Chief of Detectives John Stege believes the two shootings are the beginning of another war between gangs for the south side beer and booze business. He ordered seven additional squads of detectives permanently into the district long dominated by McErlane, Joe Saltis, Edward ("Spike") O'Donnell, and Danny Stanton.

The squads will give the Stockyards, Englewood and New City districts such policing as they have not experienced before. Stege said they would be constantly on the lookout for gangsters and they would collect evidence and clews that may lead to the solution of many of the murders of the south side beer war.

Won't Tolerate Disturbances.

"There has been a break of old alliances and a violation of agreements, but if the hoodlum element of that territory thinks it can stage a new elimination contest it will find it is mistaken," Stege said. "We're not going to tolerate disturbances there.

"In addition to the seven extra squads in the war zone, Lieut. Andy Barry, in charge of the roaming squad assigned to arrest hoodlums on sight, and Lieut. George Barker of the bomb squad will put in most of their time in the Saltis-McErlane territory."

Stege said he would have a reception committee awaiting Saltis at the train if he can learn when and where the boss gangster arrives in the city, ostensibly to avenge the slaying of his henchman, as he was reported to have announced his intention of doing. Saltis will land in a cell when Stege's detectives get sight of him, Stege said.

Saltis Might Have Killed Oberta.

Although Oberta was a protege of Saltis and was recognized as one of Saltis' ablest gunmen before he was twenty, the police can see many reasons why Saltis may have had Oberta killed. The fact that Oberta's head was split open, as though with an ax, suggested to detectives that this was the Saltis brand of murder, which runs to brutality and torture.

Oberta grew up under Saltis' leadership and he was indicted with his chief for the murder of John ["Mitters"] Foley, and though there were positive identifications Saltis arranged an alibi, and all were freed. A short time later Frank ["Lefty"] Koncil, one of Saltis' killers and codefendant in the Foley murder trial, was slain.

Saltis and McErlane worked together in operating their bootleg business, and when McErlane was acquitted in a murder trial in Indiana, Saltis and Oberta together headed the reception committee at McErlane's home.

Oberta Seeking Leadership.

But Stege recently has obtained reports, he said, that Saltis and McErlane became enemies and Oberta was aspiring to leadership of the old gang. Oberta had married the widow of the murdered Big Tim Murphy and, at her suggestion, police believe, he attempted to emulate Murphy by heading a gang of his own and taking control of one or more labor unions. He was getting "too big" for Saltis.

Stege thought it probable that Oberta may have been behind the two attempts to kill McErlane, although police said the attempt in the hospital appeared to be the work of amateur gunmen who used a .32 calibre automatic instead of the gang regulation .45. Stege reasoned that McErlane, though lying wounded at his parents' home, may have directed the killing of Oberta.

Hope for Information.

But whether McErlane or Saltis instigated the murder or whether other rival gangsters were responsible is not so important right now, Stege stated. In killings of that kind—Oberta was taken for a ride to 103d street and Roberts road, where his body and the body of his chauffeur and guard, Sam Malega, were found—evidence on which to base a successful prosecution is seldom obtained, the detective chief said, but later killings sometimes reveal the secret of the previous murder.

The police found that a story of three sets of gangsters flying away in airplanes during the night was false. T. G. Williams, general manager of the Universal Air Lines, said the story was absolutely without foundation.

Floral Tributes Arrive.

Floral tributes began arriving yesterday at the Oberta home, 5544 South Richmond street, where the widow, Mrs. Florence Oberta, had arrangements under way for a funeral which she hopes will equal in grandeur that of Big Tim Murphy, her first husband.

More than 5,000 persons, including many motorists from out of the state, visited the undertaking establishment at 1750 West 48th street where Oberta's body lay until yesterday afternoon. A squad of police attended throughout the night to keep the crowds in order, escorting the undertaker to the Richmond street address when he and Mrs. Oberta accompanied the body there in the afternoon. At the home more than 500 persons awaited.

The funeral will be at 9:30 Tuesday morning from the Sacred Heart church, 46th and Lincoln streets, with interment at Holy Sepulchre cemetery, Mrs. Oberta announced. Definite arrangements as to the church are awaiting the decision of church officials.

YOUNG GUN TOTER IS SENTENCED TO 30 DAYS IN JAIL

George Ventura, 17 years old, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and fined $1 by Judge Peter Schwaba in the Criminal court yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was arrested in the recent police campaign against gun toters. Ventura told Judge Schwaba that he carried the revolver for self-protection because he worked nights and had to travel through a poorly lighted neighborhood to reach his home.

The cases against George Barker and William J. [Three Fingered Jack] White, former convicts and officials of the coal teamsters' union, were continued until March 14 in Judge Harry B. Miller's court. The continuances were granted because of the illness of Attorney Everett Jennings. The judge told the defendants that they would get no more continuances and that if Attorney Jennings had not recovered by March 14 they should employ another attorney.

ALL GUN DEALERS HELD SUBJECT TO LICENSE BY CITY

In an opinion sent to Bernard O. Romin, superintendent of the license bureau, the city law department said yesterday that the city can license wholesale dealers in firearms and other weapons when their sales are made in Chicago. The opinion added that wholesale dealers cannot lawfully sell firearms to unlicensed retailers even though the retailer sells to persons outside the state.

"In these days, when gang warfare is rife, there is certainly grave public danger in the unrestricted sale of firearms and other weapons even at wholesale," read the opinion, which was written by Martin H. Foss, assistant corporation counsel.

"We are of the opinion that so long as the sales are made within the city it is immaterial whether they are made to dealers or to users, as the ordinance will apply in either case."

LONDON NAVAL PARLEY ENTERS CRUCIAL STAGE

America Faces Test on European Pact.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 7.—With conversations today between the American and French delegations, and between Secretary of State Stimson and Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief Japanese delegate, the crucial stage of the London naval conference is now approaching, from the American viewpoint.

The question now is whether Uncle Sam is going to give away his pants as well as his shirt. His shirt is gone, and the betting is about even as to his pants.

Negotiations in the next week or two will determine whether Mr. Stimson will try to put America into the European political pact which France is demanding as the price for reducing its naval tonnage "requirements."

Stimson Proposal at Stake.

Also, whether the American delegation is going to yield to the Japanese demand for 70 per cent of American auxiliary tonnage, including eight inch gun cruiser tonnage.

And also whether America is to bury parity with Great Britain any deeper, as, for example, by receding from the Stimson proposal that the United States would be allowed to build a dreadnaught like Great Britain's Rodney in order to equalize the American and British battleship fleets.

As to the last point it is known that the British have emphatically vetoed the American demand for a ship of the Rodney class, which some wag has christened the "Henry L. Stimson." It is safe to say that this American demand will not be pressed and the S. S. Henry L. Stimson will go down with the other ships asked by America in the name of parity.

Reducing Our Demands.

In the conversations between President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald last summer the British said they would be content with the 15 eight inch gun cruisers they have built or building and opined that 18 for America would give a sufficient preponderance in big ships to counterbalance the British preponderance in outlying naval bases. President Hoover held out for 21 on the ground that a preponderance of six ships was necessary to offset the British naval bases.

Within a fortnight after reaching London, Mr. Stimson came down to eighteen, with the proviso that the British could come up to 18 or America could go down to 15, in which event the American big cruiser preponderance essential to parity would be wiped out altogether.

Finally, the Americans gave the Japanese assurances that the United States would not build more than 15 eight inch gun cruisers during the life of the treaty under negotiation.

Thus the big cruiser arrangement until the next naval conference, by virtue of these successive American surrenders, comes down actually to 15 ships each for America and Great Britain, exactly what Great Britain proposed at the Geneva conference in 1927 and what America declined to accept because it would leave her short of parity.

The theory underlying the assurance to the Japanese is that congress will not appropriate funds for the completion of more than 15 big cruisers in the next five years. The Japanese countered with a demand for two more big cruisers in view of the fact that America would still have the right to build 18 five years hence. It is understood that Mr. Stimson and Mr. Wakatsuki failed to break this deadlock in the talk today.

Demand Parity in Submarines.

The Japanese are demanding parity with America in submarines and 70 per cent of all auxiliary tonnage, including big cruiser tonnage, despite the fact that they accepted 60 per cent of America's naval strength at the Washington conference in consideration of abandonment by the United States of development of naval bases in the western Pacific.

Indications are not wanting that the American delegation is disposed to yield Japan parity in submarines at a level of 60,000 tons, compared to Japan's present 78,000 tons, but the Americans so far have refused to concede Nippon more than its present big cruiser tonnage, which is 60 per cent of America's prospective 18 ships and 72 per cent of the 15 she may undertake not to exceed during the period of the treaty. If, however, America yields to Japan on submarine parity, it will amount to yielding to Tokio more than the 70 per cent of the global auxiliary tonnage it is demanding unless it is required to curtail its present small cruiser and destroyer strength.

Quit Haggling, Do Some Work, MacDonald Tells Sea Parley

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 7.—Complete confidence that a five power naval treaty will be concluded by the first week in April was expressed by Prime Minister MacDonald today after the conference started over again following its three week's holiday caused by the French government cabinet crisis. The French delegation, which returned yesterday, resumed active participation in the conference.

Mr. MacDonald, it is understood, told the delegates when they assembled today that the public in all of the countries is getting impatient at the delays of the conference and an effort must be made to speed it up. His own problem is to get the conference off his hands before the introduction of the British budget to parliament on April 14.

Sympathy for France.

The heads of the delegations met at 10:30 a. m. today in St. James's palace. Their first business was to pass a resolution of sympathy for France in its flood disaster and to receive from Aristide Briand thanks in behalf of his country. The meeting then took up the report of the first committee on categories and approved it all except a few details, which were referred back to the first committee for reexamination in the light of today's discussions.

There were also some details which were postponed until the conference comes to deal with actual figures. It is understood that two questions alluded to in the communique as referred back had to do with the size and number of six inch gun cruisers.

Adopt Subcommittee Report.

This afternoon the first committee met to consider the report of the experts' subcommittee on special and exempt vessels. This report was adopted almost in its entirety. The committee will meet again on Tuesday to draft the report.

This report follows very closely that of the Geneva conference. There are only two important variations. One was the raising of the speed limit of exempt vessels from 18 to 20 knots, the object being, it is believed, to include rum chasers as a concession to America.

The second change affected small vessels fitted as aircraft or seaplane carriers, excluding from the exempt class ships equipped to operate more than three aircraft at sea.

On the question of special vessels it was not finally decided whether these vessels should be included in the total tonnage by categories or kept separate. This is important in view of the French claim to include all old vessels in the global tonnage allowed. The British claim that in the case, for instance, old cruisers are used as training ships, they must be replaced by similar hulks and not by new and up to date ships counted as additional to the categorical allowance in classes into which they would fall.

It was announced that the American, British, and French delegations will meet at St. James's palace at 10 a. m. Monday and that the heads of all delegations will meet at 3 p. m. Monday. The first committee is designated to meet at 2:45 p. m. Tuesday. Mr. MacDonald will broadcast to America from his Chequers home Sunday evening.

Make Survey of Progress.

When the big five got together this morning they indulged in an informal survey of the progress that has been made since the conference assembled on Jan. 21. They came to the conclusion that, although things have apparently gone slowly, progress has not been so bad.

Among the achievements, they pointed out, is the fact that no one now talks about building any more battleships until 1936.

FRENCH ANGLE TO GET U. S. AND BRITAIN INTO A SECURITY TREATY

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 7.—Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, celebrated his return to London with an elaborate luncheon at the Carlton hotel today for the delegates to the five power naval conference. M. Briand, Prime Minister MacDonald and Secretary of State Stimson later did a "huddle act," and the grizzled French foreign minister suggested that they get together over the week-end in privacy at Chequers, and get down to business.

France wants a security pact as the price of reducing her naval armaments. Great Britain wants France to cut down her tonnage by 40 per cent, but does not want to offer any guarantee unless the United States joins. America wants France to slice her tonnage to whatever Great Britain desires, but is reluctant to make any pledges or to sign any security pact.

Mr. MacDonald is sure that parliament will accept a guarantee pact for France if he can state that the United States is a partner also. Both the houses of commons and lords feel pretty sure that Washington will always trail along after London's lead in any international row.

M. Briand said tonight that he will begin discussing the situation on Monday morning with Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Stimson. That means that the "big three" will start "talking turkey," and "turkey" means a security pact.

SCHACHT QUITS REICHSBANK JOB; RAPS YOUNG PLAN

Accuses Politicians of Juggling Debt Pact.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

"I shall retire to my farm and raise pigs, because I cannot remain at my post and tacitly agree to the ratification of the Young plan in its present version, which is a distortion of the original plan determined by the Hague protocol," said Dr. Schacht, who directed German finances for seven years, avoiding the pitfalls of inflation and deflation.

Says Politicians Changed Plan.

"The Young plan I signed in Paris simultaneously with the other experts who devised it has been adulterated by politicians in the last fourteen months. The Hague protocol added new burdens to Germany's shoulders and, what is more, it exposed Germany to a new French invasion of the Rhineland. We made vast concessions in Paris just for the purpose of putting the question of reparations on a business basis and cutting out the political complications and freeing German soil from military occupation.

"At The Hague Germany was forced to agree to the insertion of doubtful clauses which at some future time might permit the French to invade German territories. This could have been ignored if recent transactions showed that the allies were willing to work in the spirit that inspired the Young plan."

Objects to French Chief.

Dr. Schacht considers the nomination of a Frenchman, Pierre Quesnay, as chief of the world bank for reparations a deliberate violation of the oral agreement made in the Paris negotiations that neither a Frenchman nor a German could become president of the reparations bank, because such an appointment would destroy the balance of power within the bank.

Dr. Schacht resigned on the eve of the third and decisive reading of the Young plan because, as he says, "I cannot wait until the Young plan is ratified. I must make it clear to the people that it is a distorted Young plan up for ratification in the reichstag. They would have a right to censure me if I waited until after its ratification."

Dr. Schacht is giving up a job netting him more than $35,000 a year, and to make it clear that he is not acting from selfish purposes he relinquished his rights to indemnification of $595,000, keeping only a small pension which is a small fraction of his present income.

Will Hold Job for Short While.

Dr. Schacht agreed to remain at his post until a new man can be appointed.

The Nationalists, Hitlerites and Fascists are holding an extraordinary joint meeting tonight with their legal advisors, seeking ways and means to stage a new referdum to reject the Young plan on the strength of Dr. Schacht's resignation, but the vice president of the reichstag declared that he was confident they could not prevent its ratification by the reichstag.

Dr. Schacht's resignation was accelerated by the British and French ambassadors to Berlin. Dr. Schacht used strong language when he heard of the appointment of M. Quesnay as president of the world bank and denounced it as a violation of the tacit agreement that the bank would be given a neutral chief. The French ambassador protested to the German government in no uncertain terms, and the British envoy followed suit.

Refuses to Be Muzzled.

Foreign Minister Julius Curtius called on Dr. Schacht and requested him not to talk. Dr. Schacht replied that he was resigning anyhow, whereupon Dr. Curtius and members of the cabinet implored him to postpone his resignation until after the Young plan was ratified. This, Dr. Schacht felt, would be a deception of the German people and announced his resignation at a meeting this noon.

The news of Dr. Schacht's resignation was followed by a general slump in the stock market, which complained of a "bitter black Friday." Toward evening the main bourses reconquered their balance.

Paris Feels Relieved.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 7.—Delight mingled with relief was expressed in Paris at the resignation of Dr. Schacht from the presidency of the Reichsbank, and it is plain that the government considers one of the chief obstacles to the success of the Young plan is removed.

Gates W. McGarrah, one of the American directors of the bank for international settlements, will arrive in Paris tomorrow to confer for three or four days with the heads of the Bank of France.

Firedamp Blast Kills Ten in Belgian Coal Mine

CHARLEROI, Belgium, March 7.—(AP)—Ten men were killed and eleven injured today in an explosion of firedamp in Cazlers mine at Marionelle.

MANY INCOME TAX PAYERS DON'T MAKE DEDUCTION ALLOWED

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—Congress sliced 160 million dollars off the bills of the taxpayers a few months ago but many of them have forgotten about it. The bureau of internal revenue disclosed today that many persons were neglecting to deduct the 10 per cent reduction granted on earned incomes.

The forgetfulness of the taxpayers is causing considerable trouble to the government, since all of the overpayments must be refunded, requiring considerable bookkeeping and clerical writing.

Some of the trouble is blamed upon the fact that the income tax blanks had been printed before congress reduced the tolls. Riders bearing the new rates were attached to the blanks but apparently many of the riders have been overlooked.

PERIL OF REVOLT IN INDIA GROWS; GANDHI AID HELD

Leader Orders Strike to Protest British Action.

AHMEDABAD, India, March 7.—(AP)—A crisis in Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign for the independence of India may be provoked over the week-end by the arrest at Borsad, Bombay Presidency, today of Vallabhai Patel, one of Gandhi's chief lieutenants.

Gandhi, who had planned to start his campaign with a pioneer band of 80 on March 12, announced tonight that the arrest of Patel might cause him to revise his plans and start the march opening the civil disobedience demonstrations tomorrow or Sunday.

Gandhi Welcomes Arrest.

He said the news of Patel's arrest "should be heartily welcomed," and envisaged the beginning of the campaign with steadfast confidence. Patel, one of Gandhi's stanchest supporters and intended by the Mahatma to take over the leadership if necessary, is a brother of V. L. Patel, president of the Indian legislative assembly.

Patel was arrested today on a charge of disobeying an order prohibiting a public speech. After being found guilty he was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and fined 500 rupees, about $182.

Gandhi issued orders to all workers and citizens to observe "peaceful cessation" of work tomorrow "in celebration of the incarceration of the uncrowned king of the Gujerat."

Viceroy Answers Ultimatum.

The strained relations between the Hindu leader and the Indian government became plain today with the publication of a terse and formally noncommittal reply from Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, to Gandhi's ultimatum of Tuesday informing the government that if independence were not granted he would begin his campaign immediately.

The viceroy's answer was signed by his private secretary. It read:

"Dear Mr. Gandhi: His excellency the viceroy desires me to acknowledge your letter of Monday, March 3. He regrets to learn that you contemplate a course of action which is clearly bound to involve violation of the law and danger to the public peace.

"Yours very truly,

"[Signed] C. CUNNINGHAM."

So far no move has been made to arrest Gandhi himself, but such a move is believed to be imminent.

TEN CHICAGOANS AMONG 31 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

Columbus, Ga., March 7.—(AP)—A special express section of the northbound Seminole limited of the Central of Georgia railway, speeding through murky weather early today, crashed into the rear end of the first section of the train halted at Glen Alta, 25 miles south of here, killing a flagman and causing injury to 31 passengers.

O. C. White of Phoenix City, Ala., the flagman, was buried beneath the wreckage of the observation car of the first section of the train, and passengers in two Pullmans which were derailed were severely shaken and bruised.

Mrs. L. G. Morrison, 53, of Marion, Ill., who suffered probable internal injuries, and Mrs. August Schoel of Waterloo, Ia., suffering from shock, were the most seriously injured. Mrs. Morrison's husband, L. G. Morrison, was injured slightly. The majority suffered only bruises and small cuts.

Among the Chicago passengers injured were:

Before that he will be the special guest of honor at the dinner celebration of the Irish Fellowship club at the Palmer house. The Celtic meeting will be at White City. 89 YEARS OLD

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—The grand old man of American jurisprudence, Oliver Wendell Holmes, tomorrow will celebrate his 89th birthday. A veteran of the civil war on the Union side, three times wounded, the justice seemingly is in better health than for several years. He is constant in the discharge of his judicial duties, not having missed a session during the present term.

Mr. Holmes is the oldest justice ever to serve on that distinguished court. About a year ago he passed the record held up to that time by Chief Justice Taney, who died as a member of the court in his 88th year.

Justice Holmes on his birthday will have served as a member of the court for twenty-seven years and 3 months.

CHARGE FLYING SCHOOL OFFICERS WITH SWINDLE

Judge John A. Sbarbaro in felony court yesterday held four officials of the Aviation Service and Transport company, operating a flying school at the Municipal airport, to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000 each on charges of operating a confidence game.

The four officials are Donald MacKenzie, 3547 Belden avenue, president; T. L. Evans, treasurer; John Miller, vice president, and G. A. Robarge, a salesman. They were accused of taking money from a deaf mute and a young woman suffering from a goiter. According to Attorney Frank Tyrrell, who represented both complainants, neither could have qualified for government licenses because of physical defects.

The complainants were Thomas Cain of Beatie, Kan., and Miss Josephine McGovach, 201 East Delaware place. Cain said he had paid the company $230 for lessons as an aviation mechanic. The young woman said she had paid $725 for flying lessons.

MICHIGAN CITY LIQUOR CASE IN HANDS OF JURY

After four hours' deliberation, a jury in Federal Judge Baltzell's court at South Bend, considering the case of six Michigan City men charged with a Volstead conspiracy, was locked up at 10 o'clock last night and told to seal its verdict if it arrived at one during the night. If voted, the verdict will be read in court this morning.

All through the day defense attorneys and government prosecutors made final arguments and Judge Baltzell began delivering his instructions just before 6 o'clock. Richard J. Kruse, former police chief; Joseph Allie, a discharged prohibition agent; Frank Lapham, ex-deputy sheriff of La Porte county, and three minor defendants were awaiting their fate.

Capone Aid Sentenced.

While the arguments were in progress Phil Collenger, alleged Capone aid who was convicted several weeks ago of complicity in the East Chicago liquor conspiracy, was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $5,000 by Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick at Hammond. Collenger's was the heaviest fine imposed on any of the fifteen found guilty.

According to evidence introduced by United States Attorney Oliver Loomis during his trial, Collenger was the collector for a booze and vice syndicate which practically held the city government of East Chicago in its grasp. Mayor Raleigh P. Hale, Chief of Police James Regan and a dozen lesser policemen and saloonkeepers were also convicted and Hale and Regan were given two year terms and fined $2,000. Collenger's attorneys asked that an appeal bond be set, but the court refused and last night Collenger was in the Lake county jail at Crown Point.

Prosecutor Outlines Conspiracy.

In his closing address to the jury in South Bend, Assistant United States Attorney George L. Rulison said the six defendants were linked together in a gigantic conspiracy to defeat the prohibition law by accepting bribes to allow saloons and roadhouses to operate. He drew a chart for the jurors and attempted to show each defendant's participation in the scheme as they were linked by government witnesses.

In concluding, he said to the jury: "This is your country and this is your law. Do your full duty!"

Arguing for the release of Allie, Attorney Robert Moore of Michigan City claimed that he was defending the former agent without the expectation of a fee and described the witnesses who testified against Allie as "contemptible rats."

Allie was discharged from the dry forces on recommendation of Administrator Yellowley of Chicago, who said that he was insubordinate.

FOUR GAS DEATHS ACCIDENTAL.

improvement work by public authorities, railroads, utilities and industries is having a most material effect. Construction contracts in these categories in January and February were from 40 per cent to 45 per cent higher than ever known in those months. The total construction work for 1930 seems assured to be larger than even in 1929.

"4. The undertakings to maintain wages have been held.

"5. The amount of unemployment is, in proportion to the number of workers, considerably less than one-half (probably only one-third) of that which resulted from the crashes of 1907-'08 and 1920-'22 at this period of the situation.

Ameliorate Interest Rates.

"6. Measures taken to ameliorate interest rates have resulted in continuous decrease since December, and money is available at lower rates for business and commercial purposes. One result is an increasing volume of bond issues have been placed for public improvements. Available money for mortgage purposes of home building and agriculture has lagged behind other forms of credit. But a decrease in demands of policyholders for loans on the insurance companies and the action recently taken by the federal reserve system should result in increased supplies of credit, especially for residential building, which, in turn, has lagged behind other construction.

"7. All the evidences indicate that the worst effects of the crash upon employment will have been passed during the next sixty days with the amelioration of seasonal unemployment, the gaining of strength of other forces, and the continued coöperation of the many agencies actively coöperating with the government to restore business and to relieve distress."

Number in Gainful Jobs.

The memorandum submitted to the President by Secretaries Lamont and Davis was as follows:

"The number of persons engaged in gainful occupations in the country is probably 45,000,000 or 46,000,000, of whom about 25,000,000 to 26,000,000 are employés. There are no detailed statistics as to the unemployed and they can only be approximated. The forthcoming census will show the first real determination of unemployment.

"Upon a basis of a canvass of trades employing some 17,000,000 people and applying the same ratio to the whole, we arrive at an estimated decrease of perhaps 1,000,000 and certainly not more than 1,250,000 in the number of persons employed at this date as compared with one year ago.

"To estimate the total unemployed, an addition to such number must be made for the winter seasonal unemployment and the number always idle in the shifts from one unemployment to another. What the total number is cannot be estimated, but every evidence indicates that the volume is one-third to one-half that we suffered in the last two previous great disturbances.

In Building Trades.

"The normal seasonal unemployment in the building trades at this time of year is about 30 per cent, while returns show actual unemployment in this field to be about 40 per cent at this time, or an abnormal number of about 10 per cent. In addition to the building trades, workers in agriculture and in certain branches of many manufactures and transportation which are of a seasonal character naturally flock to the cities in winter and increase their burden of unemployment. For example, a good deal of present unemployment in ports on the great lakes is due to winter closing of lake transportation and will soon be relieved.

"Various surveys show that, based upon all trades, there has been an increase in employment in the country of somewhere from 600,000 to 1,000,000 since the low point at the beginning of this year. In factory industries as a whole, employment has increased about 8 per cent in this period. The following are among the industries which show improvement:

"Automobiles, car building and railway supplies, iron and steel, agricultural implements and electrical trades, millinery, shipbuilding. The situation in some other trades has been either stationary or showing slight declines, the latter being particularly those industries affected by changes in the tariff.

Reports from 36 States.

"The distribution of abnormal unemployment shows that for 36 states the amount is unimportant, and any pressure is being cared for by local authorities. The unemployment is, therefore, concentrated in 12 states, and is concentrated in the large industrial centers.

"The forces of recovery are steadily gaining strength; the winter seasonal unemployment will soon relax, and, therefore, the next 30 to 60 days should show much further improvement.

"It would assist greatly during this period if every business concern and every householder able to do so would survey their situation as to repairs, cleanups and betterments that must be undertaken sooner or later, and have them put in hand now with view to relieving the immediate distress in their localities. It is, of course, of paramount importance that the governmental bodies, the railroads, public utilities and industries should continue their able coöperation toward recovery by every prudent expansion of their construction and betterment programs."

CHICAGO COUPLE KILLED AS TRAIN HITS CAR IN OHIO

Frank G. Shearer, 50 years old, vice president of the Refrigerator Grid company of Chicago, and his wife, Enid, 30, were killed yesterday when an interurban train demolished their automobile on a crossing three miles north of Dayton, O. The Shearers, who lived at 2828 Pine Grove avenue, had gone to Dayton to visit friends. According to these friends, Mr. Shearer had intended to demonstrate at Wright field an airplane appliance he had invented.

Joy Riders Held.

Three joy riders, one a girl, were arrested yesterday when they fled after their automobile had struck and probably fatally injured a man, only to meet with a second accident after their car sideswiped a parked machine and crashed into a tree at South Shore drive and 77th street. All three had been drinking, police said.

They are Miss Patricia McRay, 19 years old, 209 West State street, Calumet, Ind.; George Dick, 22 years old, 490 Moss avenue, Hammond, and Peter Maher, 23, of 78 East Sheffield avenue, Hammond. Their victim is John Oancea, 40, of 1467 East 62d street.

The trio were returning to their homes after a cabaret party. At 67th street and Stony Island avenue their machine struck Oancea. Dick was driving at the rate of 50 miles an hour, witnesses said. He sped on after the accident. A short time later their car crashed into the tree, injuring Miss McRay and Maher.

Die of Traffic Injuries.

Three deaths yesterday raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 164. The victims:

George Danjanow, 19 years old, 2504 Blue Island avenue. Died in the County hospital of injuries incurred when his motorcycle crashed into a lamp post at 24th and Leavitt streets after he struck a pedestrian while he was racing with a companion.

Mrs. Emma Ross, 75 years old, 2719 North Kedzie avenue. Died in the Belmont hospital of injuries incurred on Wednesday when she was struck by a taxicab at Kedzie and Milwaukee avenues.

Mrs. Muriel Carlson, 23 years old, 34 West 65th street. Died in Washington Park hospital of injuries received when the automobile in which she was riding overturned in Washington park at 59th street. The car was driven by Gus Ammon, 29 years old, owner of an automotive repair shop at 442 West 69th street. He and two others in the machine were injured.

Three Missing on Burning Oil Tanker After Blast

Kearny, N. J., March 7.—[Special.]—Two deck hands and the cook of an oil tanker were missing tonight and a third deck hand narrowly escaped when two explosions of undetermined nature occurred aboard the vessel, which was being loaded. The tanker with 100,000 gallons of gasoline then broke away from her moorings and drifted into the middle of the Passaic river, belching fire and smoke from stem to stern. The fire was expected to continue throughout the night.

JURY FREES TWO AS ACCESSORIES IN BANK THEFT

A Criminal court jury returned a not guilty verdict before Judge John J. Sullivan shortly before midnight last night in the case of Stanley Klonowski and Jacob [Chink] Schaeffer, alleged gamblers charged with accessory in a $43,000 bank embezzlement.

The state's star witness was Albert Patyras, 25 years old, former teller at the Second Northwest State bank, who was indicted with the defendants nearly five years ago and was granted a severance. Patyras declared on the stand that Klonowski and Schaeffer had induced him to steal bank funds with which to gamble against a supposed dupe.

The dupe always won, however, and Patyras continued to steal until his peculations were discovered, according to his story. Klonowski and Schaeffer were tried first and as principals of the embezzlement on the theory that they were more guilty than the teller. They had secured 47 continuances, some for as long as six months, before the case went to trial a week ago.

VOLSTEAD ISSUE ENTERS ILLINOIS SENATE BATTLE

Deneen Expounds Jones' 5 and 10 Law.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Volsteadism and the Jones 5 and 10 law came surging into the Republican senatorship battle last night. Senator Charles S. Deneen, in campaigning down in Egypt, is explaining his vote for the 5 and 10 act on the ground that it is "a reasonable law" and "five years is mild."

Mr. Deneen advances the argument that under the 5 and 10, the penalties for violating liquor laws are "no more severe" than the penalties for robbery, burglary, rifling the mail, grand larceny and some other crimes. He sets forth that the Jones act exempts "casual offenders" and affects "great malefactors."

Deneen's Wife Aids Campaign.

While Senator Deneen is covering the downstate counties at the rate of seven a day, forty a week, Mrs. Deneen and her daughter, Mrs. Carl Birdsall, are opening the Cook county campaign. Last night Mrs. Deenen and her daughter toured the northwest side and spoke at meetings of the Deneen organization in the 35th, 40th and 50th wards. Mrs. Deneen spoke not only in behalf of her husband but for the nomination of the Deneen slate for county offices.

A woman manager for the Deneen campaign in Cook county is to be picked on Monday at a meeting of the women ward leaders. Gossip yesterday was that the choice may be Mrs. Helen G. Mehrle, who is director of social service in the Court of Domestic Relations. She is a Deneen candidate for county commissioner. It was announced during the day that Mrs. Charles H. Parkes is to act as chairman of the women's state committee working for the renomination of Senator Deneen. Among her associates will be Mrs. Agnes Sullivan McCartney and Mrs. Mabel S. Shirk.

Speaks on Law Downstate.

At Deneen headquarters the understanding has been that a formal utterance on his vote for the Jones 5 and 10 law is to be made by Senator Deneen as the campaign progresses. Meanwhile, however, he has been touching upon the question before his audiences in southern Illinois. A stenographic copy of one of his Egyptian speeches, when transcribed yesterday, indicated the senator's line of argument. In this speech Senator Deneen declared a "whispering campaign" is on.

"Up in Chicago," he said, "there are a lot of gentlemen complaining all the time they can spare between drinks denouncing me because I voted in making a greater penalty in the Jones bill. Five years is the maximum and $10,000 fine, that's the maximum. But if you are found guilty, you can be fined two cents or one cent.

Law for Great Malefactors.

"Out of abundant caution we incorporated in the law and said this law is not to affect casual offenders, but only the great malefactors. They say that's too much. I went to Chicago when about 23 years of age and have lived there since and I know the state and I know the city. And it is said, 'You are just a blue nosed Yankee and you are a fanatic. Why did you do it?'

"One reason was that the district attorney and the attorney general said it was necessary to enforce the law. They said the district judges of the United States advised it. Therefore they recommended it.

"That isn't all. I know something about things. I have been state's attorney, and prosecuted 40,000 cases while I was state's attorney. I began inquiring around and thinking it out.

Recalls a Chicago Case.

"We have in Chicago some of these millionaire bootleggers, one of whom held public office recently. He put up barrage after barrage between him and the law, thinking he would get away. It cost the government $25,000 to get the evidence. Finally they got him. Under the old law two years was the maximum. Under the new, five years. And if he had been convicted under the new law, do you think that's severe?

"Let us compare. If you steal more than $15, the penalty is one year to 10 in the penitentiary. If you rob a man or try to, one to 14 years. If you break into a home, burglary, one to 1. years.

"In Chicago these fellows mark out zones—just like these nations have their spheres of influence. If a man interferes with their traffic in their zone, what will they do? First, corrupt the policeman. Corrupt the juror. Corrupt the prosecutor if they can. If they can't do that, they will take the witness and murder him. Take him for a ride. Throw him in the sanitary district canal. Dismember his body. Dissolve it in lime and caustic potash. And not only that. They will bomb your home and the officials' homes. When you finally catch a man like that, do you think 5 years is too much?

"If so, go to the legislature or send some one there and have him reduce the penalty for grand larcency to two years, for burglary to two years, and for robbery to two years. You would think from the Chicago papers that fanatics were giving unusual punishments for murder, rape, kidnaping and all the corrupting of public officials, but it seems to me that five years is mild. I voted for that and they tried to get somebody to run against me because I have voted on that reasonable law.

"We have a crowd in Chicago that looks on those matters as of highest importance. The peace of the nation, its international relations, are all brushed aside for liquor."

Ruth McCormick Makes Speech.

Ruth Hanna McCormick, speaking last night at Waukegan, declared that her arguments against the world court as an attachment of the league of nations have been upheld by Senator Deneen's speeches his week. Mrs. McCormick took up "party regularity," saying it is not involved.

"In my opponent's speech at Marshall," Mrs. McCormick said, "he stated that the Republican party platforms have consistently indorsed American adherence to the world court. There were indorsements of a world court in platforms prior to 1924, but inasmuch as the league court was not organized and did not begin to function until 1922 there could not have been and was no endorsement of the league court until the Republican convention of 1924, at which time the league court was indorsed by the party.

Traces Action of Senate.

"Between the 1924 and 1928 Republican conventions our senate resolution consenting to adhere to the court with reservations was sent to all the nations which were signatory to the court. It soon developed that our fifth reservation was not acceptable to the other nations, and instead of receiving replies from the nations which were members of the court the United States government received an invitation from the league of nations requesting that we attend a conference in September, 1926, to talk matters over.

"President Coolidge promptly declined such an invitation from an organization which we had been assured had no connection with the court. On Nov. 11 of that year President Coolidge made a speech at Kansas City in which he declared that the foreign countries had refused our reservation number 5 and that the incident was closed. He had said that the reservations adopted by the senate were clear and needed no further interpretation.

"That was the last public declaration of President Coolidge on the world court situation, and when the national Republican convention was held in Kansas City in 1928 the party indorsed Mr. Coolidge's stand on the court, and no reference whatever was made to the court in that platform."

Jealous Indian Model Has Wife of an Artist Killed

Buffalo, N. Y., March 7.—[Special.]—A young Indian woman's love for a white man, seeking to gain its end by employing ancient Cayuga black magic through the latter day medium of the ouija board, brought about the murder here yesterday of Mrs. Clotilde Marchand, wife of Henri Marchand, noted museum artist.

The ouija board warned that unless "the white woman" were killed she would kill the artist's Indian model, according to letters found by police in the home of Lilac Jamison, the Indian model.

Mrs. Marchand, who spent her days all alone in her house, save for a big police dog, was struck down, choked, and chloroformed by Nancy Bowers, a 66 year old Indian sassafras vender, in the belief that Mrs. Marchand had a part in the death of her husband, known as "Sassafras Charlie."

Daughter of a Chief.

The strange confessions made to the police by the two women, both of whom are charged with first degree murder, disclose it was a crime planned with a mixture of skill and crudity worthy of the line from which the prime mover sprung. For Lilac Jamison, 35 years old, consumptive and homely, is of noble Cayuga blood, a daughter of a chief.

As police have reconstructed the crime from the stories told by the two women, Mrs. Bowen killed the mistress because she believed doom was awaiting her as it had come to her husband, and that the only way to salvation was to "kill this evil spirit."

So "Sassafras Nancy," as Mrs. Bowen was called, strong of arm and immobile of face, went to the Marchand home with a hammer under her shawl and was admitted by Mrs. Marchand, who recognized her as one of the women she and her husband had met last summer while living on the Indian reservation.

Beaten with a Hammer.

She beat Mrs. Marchand with the hammer and choked her—she weighed only 80 pounds—and finally stuffed down her throat a paper ball saturated with chloroform. An hour later the youngest Marchand boy, returning from school, found his mother dead at the foot of the stairs. The police dog was out of the house.

While the crime was being done by "Sassafras Nancy," Lilac Jamison was riding with Marchand in his car. He recalled that she made a particular point of letting him know the time at intervals. He met her in the early afternoon, took her to the bus, returned to the museum to work on his wax flowers, and there received the news of the tragedy.

Instructions from Spirits.

Lilac told police the warnings and instructions from the spirits that came over the ouija board, messages that she passed on to Mrs. Bowen, had not been inspired by her love for Marchand.

She had no part in writing three letters received by the old Indian woman instructing her to kill Mrs. Marchand, lest she be consumed with fire, she told police. They had come, by her account, from a spirit.

Police searched the reservation last night, but could not find "Sassafras Nancy." But today Lilac Jamison told them Nancy was sitting under a stairway, in a cupboard. So the police took the seventy mile ride back to the reservation, and there she was.

SMALL DOWN PAYMENTS—EASY TERMS

CANADIAN WHEAT SLUMP SPREADS TO OTHER TRADES

BY STANLEY JACKSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 7.—Exports of wheat from Canada, one of the leading factors for good times or poor in the dominion, continue to such a limited extent that the gloom is spreading throughout the grain trade and into almost every branch of the nation's life.

Wheat bins of the country are filled to the brim, there being approximately 205,000,000 bushels of an exportable surplus waiting for a market abroad, compared with 185,000,000 bushels last year.

With March now entered into and the opening of navigation less than two months away many eyes are turned to the prospects of business when the shipping on the great lakes and out from Montreal to the ocean gets under way about the end of April or beginning of May.

Prospects Anything But Bright.

A survey of the situation today by getting in touch with the key men of the grain and shipping trade show the prospects appear to be anything but bright. The facts are:

Not a single full cargo of grain has been booked for the opening of navigation out of the port of Montreal.

A small amount of liner space has been chartered, a total of five loads, amounting roughly in all to one thousand tons, a mere bagatelle.

Companies whose business it is to sell space on freighters and liners plying out of Montreal report the outlook blue, vague and disturbed.

Europe, which takes Canada's surplus wheat in ordinary times, has been practically boycotting Canadian grain for the last several months, and continues taking only sparse quantities, following a practice of hand to mouth buying.

Freight Rates at Rock Bottom.

Ocean freight rates—namely: the cost of transporting the grain to Europe—are at distress levels, being approximately at the same rates as at the close of last year's season, when they had dropped to less than paying levels in an effort to get business. But cheap rates cannot help. The business simply is not there.

The situation is depressing to shipping interests for the reason that outgoing liners want grain cargoes for ballast, while there are scores of freighters coming to this side with goods and wanting return cargoes. Already there are nearly 100 freighters carrying coal booked to come here during the coming season, and not a single outgoing grain cargo in sight on which such vessels depend for paying traffic on their return journey.

Too Early to Forecast Result.

Of course, it is a little early to gauge exactly what the business will be at navigation's opening. But ordinarily in the first week of March there is a much greater activity in booking cargoes than exists at present.

Some grain men see a silver lining in the United States farm board. With that organization working to hold up American wheat prices and Canadian wheat seeking to get down to an export basis, prices on the Winnipeg grain market have worked from as much as 15 cents a bushel above United States prices to a little under the American levels.

M'NARY ASKS LEGGE TO REPORT ON FARM BOARD'S OPPONENTS

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—After reporting a favorable outlook for stabilization of farm prices, Chairman Legge of the farm board was asked today by the senate agriculture committee for his views on the extent of the opposition to the new farm relief program.

Chairman McNary of the committee requested him and Secretary Hyde to report tomorrow on charges that a worldwide scheme is in operation to destroy the effectiveness of the newly created farm relief organization.

Legge and Hyde appeared before the committee in connection with the resolution of Senator Nye [Rep., N. D.] for an investigation of the administration of the new farm act. The hearing was in executive session, but it was understood at the Capitol that the government farm leaders looked unfavorably on the investigation at this time.

Senator Nye, who attended the session, will insist on the inquiry. He has charged that there is a drive by the grain trade to discredit the farm board and the farmer owned and farmer controlled grain stabilization corporation.

Discussing the situations on the wheat and cotton markets, Chairman Legge expressed the view that the bottom had been reached in the recent declines of these prices. He told the senate committee that the board is concentrating on efforts to stabilize the agricultural commodity prices.

MISSING FLYERS FOUND DEAD BY WRECKED PLANE

Los Angeles, Cal., March 7.—[Special.]—Rescue parties found wreckage of the missing Western Air Express Fokker tri-motored twelve passenger liner in the wilds northeast of Lake Arrowhead today and beside the shattered plane the bodies of its crew, Pilot "Jimmy" Doles, Co-Pilot Albert Bieber and Steward John Slayton.

Indications were that the men had died instantly when Doles' big plane, ferrying without passengers from Kingman, Ariz., to Los Angeles, bumped into a blinding blizzard on the night of Feb. 23 and struck on the ridge of a ravine in the almost impenetrable country between the San Bernardino mountains and the Mojave desert.

The bodies are being taken out to Victorville on horseback and will then be conveyed to Los Angeles, where widows of the three aviators received the news this afternoon. An inquest will be held in Victorville tomorrow.

Due to the fierceness of the impact when the plane hit, portions of wings and fuselage had been scattered over 1,500 feet and it was a labor of three or four hours to extricate the bodies from the wreckage.

STATE INCOME LEVY IS URGED IN TAX HEARING

A state income tax was urged yesterday by Ralph V. Field of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards and President John H. Walker of the Illinois Federation of Labor before the revenue investigation committee headed by State Senator Arthur A. Huebsch in the La Salle hotel.

"Our association," said Mr. Field, "has come to the conclusion that the income tax is the fairest of all taxes. Under the plan we suggest taxes paid on real estate would be credited in the state income tax return."

"Real estate," President Walker said, "represents approximately 15 per cent of the wealth and yet under the present system it is paying 85 per cent of the taxes to the state."

FAILURE TIES UP WHEAT BOUGHT BY FARM BOARD

Grain Co. Files Petition in Bankruptcy.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 7.—(AP)—The Minneapolis Tribune tomorrow morning will say that the Continental Grain company of Minneapolis has gone into voluntary bankruptcy, resulting in the temporary loss of title by the Farmers' National Grain corporation, agency of the federal farm board, of 105,000 bushels of wheat, worth $120,000, recently purchased with government funds under the federal farm aid act.

The wheat still is in a bin at the Continental Grain company elevator, according to the newspaper, but the warehouse receipts showing ownership have been hypothecated with the Northwestern National bank as security for loans by H. A. Murphy in his capacity as president of the company.

No Grain Receipts Pledged.

The Farmers' National has not pledged any of the receipts which it holds on grain stored in the Continental or any other elevator, according to the Tribune.

W. G. Kellogg, general manager of the Farmers' National Grain company, came to Minneapolis from Chicago by plane late today, but declined to comment on the situation, declaring he thus far had insufficient knowledge of the case.

The newspaper states that the principal owners of stock in the Continental company are Kenneth S. Templeton of Chicago and Charles M. Kennedy of Buffalo, N. Y. Both men were here to take a hand in straightening out the company's affairs.

Hopes There'll Be No Loss.

Mr. Murphy declined to discuss details of the bankruptcy proceedings tonight, but voiced the hope that its affairs can be adjusted without loss to any one.

The filing of the voluntary bankruptcy petition was ordered by the directors of the Continental company in the United States District court here.

Seek Subscriptions to Build Road in Waukegan

Although a $175,000 lake shore highway project was defeated at a special election on Tuesday, the business men of Waukegan are still hopeful the road can be built this summer. At a conference yesterday it was decided to make every effort to raise the needed sum by popular subscription.

HOLD UP 5 IN SOUTH SIDE STORE.

Two armed youths held up Herman L. Adler, his wife and three clerks in Adler's dry goods store at 626 East 63d street yesterday, snatched $80 from the cash drawer and $120 from the proprietor's pocket, and escaped in a truck.

WIDOW'S SUIT CHARGES DENTIST WITH BEATING

Dr. James M. O'Donoghue, 5520 Glenwood avenue, a dentist, was yesterday sued for $50,000 in the Superior court by Mrs. Mary E. Hart, 34 years old, a widow and former nurse of 444 Fullerton parkway. The bill, drawn by Attorney Cameron Latter, charges that Dr. O'Donoghue struck and choked her when she threatened to bring a suit for breach of promise against him and bring to light his family skeleton.

According to the bill, Mrs. Hart threatened to expose circumstances surrounding the will of John J. Brennan, once alderman of the 18th ward and brother-in-law of the doctor's father. Brennan died in 1913 and his estate was divided equally among the heirs when no will was found. When she made allusions to the will the doctor is said to have beaten her on Jan. 26, 1929.

Mrs. Hart had intended to bring suit for breach of promise, but later dropped the action on payment of $7,000, the bill states. Later she discovered that what she thought was a release for her former fiancé included a release for any claims she might have against his family. Dr. O'Donoghue denounced the suit as a shakedown.

INDICTED GIRL CASHIER FAILS TO FILE BOND

Miss Laverne Lindgren, indicted cashier of the defunct People's State Bank of Maywood, did not appear at the Criminal court yesterday to file her $50,000 bond. The bond has been in readiness for official sanction for two days and it remains only for Miss Lindgren to appear in the court to sign the papers. The officials have waited in vain for two days for her to appear. The sheriff's office yesterday instructed a bailiff, who was going to Maywood to serve other papers, to arrest Miss Lindgren and Elmer Langguth, president of the bank, if he found them. Langguth as well as Miss Lindgren has been indicted for embezzlement of bank funds. The bailiff found neither of them.

SENORA SEEKS FREEDOM FROM BOGUS GENERAL

Senora Josephine Gonzales Bonilla, 4609 South Laflin street, yesterday filed a petition in the Circuit court to annul her marriage to Manuella Bonilla, an adventurer who posed as a Mexican general. Senora Bonilla avers that she was tricked into marriage Nov. 28, 1928, at Kansas City.

According to her petition she met the "general" in a Kansas City restaurant. She was fleeing Mexico with her son, Luis, 3 years old, after her husband had been killed in a Mexican revolution. Because she could not speak English and was unfamiliar with American customs, she believed him when he told her that she could not enter Illinois until she had secured necessary papers.

He led her to the city hall, where they were married. He then took her money and passport and made her a prisoner in a deserted Kansas City district. She escaped and later learned that her husband had never been a general.

POPE OUTLINES PRAYER CRUSADE AGAINST RUSSIA

Orders Special Rites on St. Joseph's Day.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 7.—Calling attention to the soviet war on religion, with the desecration of churches and interference with the activities of the priests, Basilius Cardinal Pompili, Pope Pius' vicar general, today published the program for a special day of prayer for Russia on St. Joseph's day, March 19.

The cardinal's dispositions were made in response to a letter from the pope recently requesting that a day be set aside for prayers to better the condition of the people in the land of the soviets.

Pray to Change Red Leaders.

The clergy and the faithful in all parishes in Rome and throughout the world, are directed by the cardinal to choose a special hour for prayer on March 19, to invoke aid for "the miserable condition of the Russian people," and to change the spirit of the soviet leaders whom "nothing has been able to stop in their infernal madness."

In all of the basilicas and parochial churches in Rome prayers have been ordained before the holy sacraments, together with litanies and the eucharistic benediction. The holy sacrament is to be exposed for an hour.

To all of those who devote an hour to prayer for the Russians on this day the pontiff will extend jubilee year indulgence. Cardinal Pompili announced. It is expected that thousands will participate in this crusade of prayer against Russian impiety.

Publish Soviet Restrictions.

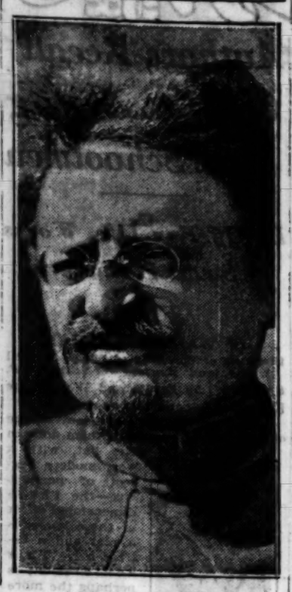
LONDON, March 7.—(AP)—As an outgrowth of questions in the house of commons regarding the status of religion in soviet Russia, the British government today issued a white paper embodying translation of a decree of the all-Russian central executive committee and the council of people's commissars placing restrictions on religious associations dated April 8, 1929.

Each religious society or group of believers may only use one building for religious worship. General meetings of religious societies or groups of believers may only be held if special permission is obtained. The teaching of any form of religious belief in state, public and private teaching and educational establishments is prohibited.

Minsk Rabbis Escape Trial.

BERLIN, March 7.—[Jewish Telegraphic Agency.]—The Russian ambassador to Germany, N. N. Krestinsky, has informed the German minister of state, Weissmann, that he has succeeded in his efforts to have the Russian government drop the cases against the accused Minsk rabbis. Herr Weissmann had been asked by local Jewish circles to intercede with the Russian ambassador on behalf of the rabbis, charged with counter-revolutionary activity.

Spurned by Spain



LEON TROTZKY.

BARCELONA, Spain, March 7.—(AP)—The Spanish government has refused a request that Leon Trotzky, exiled soviet leader, be permitted to live in Spain for restoration of his health. The duke of Alba said that the present situation in Spain would not permit of Trotzky's living there.

SLAIN WOMAN'S BANK ACCOUNTS GIVE NEW CLEW

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 7.—(AP)—The discovery that Mrs. Dorothy Moormeister, who was murdered two weeks ago, had $6,000 in deposits in Salt Lake City banks, set investigators' offices on a new trail today.

Dr. Frank Moormeister, her husband, told of the discovery among his late wife's effects of deposit books showing payments usually of $500 each running over the period since Dec. 3, 1927. The only lapse in the payments, he said, was during her absence last summer in Europe, when she is alleged to have become intimate with Prince Farid of Persia.

Dr. Moormeister declared his wife could not have made the payments out of the allowance of $200 a month he had given her. Besides the deposits she had some $8,000 in securities in a safe deposit box.

Authorities were told today that the dead woman had had a love affair with a "prominent film actor," whom they refused to name.

DEATH OF BABY BRINGS FOOD TO 5, HALF STARVED

Body Left on Street Is Clew for Searchers.

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—A poverty ridden mother who, when her baby died, dressed it in its best clothes and left the body on the street for the police to find and bury, was found in a poorly furnished house in Brooklyn today. With her, all half starved, were her mother and three little children, from three months to 5 years old. The woman's husband deserted her six months ago.

In the early morning of Feb. 17 Patrolman George Hackett found the rigid body of an 18 months' old boy on the sidewalk in the Bushwick section. An autopsy showed that the child had died from natural causes. Detectives were instructed to find its parents. Their search ended today.

Traced by Clothing.

On the covering which wrapped the dead child the detectives found the tag of a Broadway store. Through a saleswoman they learned that the purchaser of the wrapping lived in the Bushwick section. They made a house to house canvass, checking up on families and their circumstances, asking questions.

Today the two detectives walked into the right house. They found three little children lying on the floor. Detective John Quinn was munching a piece of candy as he entered. The children ran up to him, begging for something to eat.

In the rear of the wretched house the detectives found Mrs. Willetta Knight, 34 years old, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine Johnson, 48. They, too, were suffering from hunger.

Only 32 Cents in House.

The women admitted having taken the child, after it had died, probably from malnutrition, out into the street at night and leaving it there. Mrs. Knight, the child's mother, said they had only 32 cents in the house when the child died and there was no money for funeral expenses. She knew, she said, that a policeman would find the body and give it burial.

The mother said her husband, Frank Knight, 40 years old, a traveling salesman, had deserted her six months ago. The family had been impoverished since that time.

The police took the family to the station. The hat was passed, and from the contributions the two women and the children were fed.

SOUTH SIDERS ASK ALDERMEN FOR I. C. TRACK DEPRESSION

Depression of the Illinois Central railroad tracks along 71st street rather than their elevation, was demanded yesterday by seventeen south side organizations. The business men of the district are trying to prevent the erection of a "Chinese wall" in the center of their wide thoroughfare. The railroad has indicated that it favors elevation and probably would be willing to build a steel or concrete base upon which to run its suburban trains. The residents of the district protest that this would be unsightly.

Yesterday they appealed to Ald. Frank A. Sloan [26th], chairman of the council track elevation subcommittee, asserting that 71st street would "become an alley" if the elevation were carried out.

According to Ald. Sloan, estimates on depression indicate that it would cost about $10,000,000 to sink the tracks below the ground level. Elevation, on the other hand, would cost little more than half that amount, which probably would be borne by the railroad. Depression would probably involve an equal expenditure by the citizens.

Grandson Puts on Sale Play by Tennyson

'The Devil and the Lady' Is Title of It.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—The newest highbrow joke in London is a charmingly produced work entitled "Adam and Evelyn at Kew." It is written by Robert Herring and illustrated and decorated by Edward Bawden. One sees first, of course, the illustrations, which are in color. They are very odd and very absurd, and to those who enjoy them will provide much sport.

CHARLES TENNYSON.

Mr. Bawden has done a certain amount of poster work for the Underground Railways of London (great patrons of the new and original in art) and some wallpaper designing. He has also decorated, in collaboration with Eric Ravilious, the walls of the restaurant at Morley college which Mr. Stanley Baldwin is formally opening to the general public. Mr. Bawden has traveled and studied in Italy and has illustrated for Messrs. Dent that queer eighteenth century travel fantasy, "Peter Wilkins." As for Mr. Herring, he is the author of one novel, called "The President's Hat," has edited some English texts, is a film critic, and has written a work on the films of 1927. The two men, in concert, have produced "Adam and Evelyn at Kew" for fun, and the book is decorated with a plan of Kew Gardens, while it is provided with annotations explaining the liberties taken with historical characters and other persons.

Add to this the fact that the edition is limited to one thousand copies and you will understand why possessors expect their copies to go to a premium. Whether this happens or not, there will be much laughter in highbrow circles, for the text and pictures are witty in the manner of Chelsea and promise upon further examination to be really delightful.

Another little sensation is being provided by the first publication of a juvenile play by Alfred, Lord Tennyson, called "The Devil and the Lady." This sees the light by the kindness and enterprise of the poet's grandson, Mr. Charles Tennyson, who has himself edited it for the press.

Mr. Charles Tennyson is one of those favored persons who bear famous names and have talents of their own sufficient to sustain the names they bear. He is an author of distinction, has occupied high places in the civil service, and is now in "big business." He is not only the grandson of Tennyson but the stepson of Mr. Augustine Birrell.

The presentation of this early play by his grandfather is a small matter, but it is in itself a most interesting affair, will be widely read, and will help to remind present day readers that Lord Tennyson was one of the great poets of the nineteenth century—a fact of which many of them have been ignorant.

By the way, American readers who belong to the cult of Fr. Rolfe (sometimes known as Frederick Baron Corvo) should not fail to catch a glimpse of that enigmatic writer in the pages of a book called "Life at a Venture," by E. V. de Fontmell, which has just been published here by the Scholartis Press. "Life at a Venture" contains pictures of a number of famous persons, including (under a fictitious name) the late Robert Hugh Benson.

Life of Da Ponte, Wild as Churchman, Tamed Among Yanks

BY GUY S. ENDORE.

[Author of "Casanova, His Known and Unknown Life."]

"Memoirs of Lorenzo da Ponte," translated from the Italian by Elizabeth Abbott, with annotations and an introduction by Arthur Livingston [Lippincott].

That America, the home of Da Ponte's last thirty years, that New York, where the memoirs were first printed in Italian, should have had to wait so long for this first American translation [an English translation appeared only a few months before] is surprising. It is especially so when we consider the fact that these memoirs have been issued in French [1860], in German [1861], and have aroused the labors of dozens of European scholars to fill in the many lacunae and to verify the author's every assumption.

In Italian and in German can be found elaborately annotated editions running into several volumes. Nor are these memoirs by any means devoid of interest. They are rapid, personal, amusing.

Lorenzo Da Ponte was born in Ceneda, a hamlet in the Venetian republic, in 1749. That he was the son of a Jewish tanner he never reveals in his memoirs, but it was known to his contemporaries and proclaimed by his enemies. The bishop of Ceneda, a Msgr. Lorenzo Da Ponte, adopted Lorenzo and his brother Girolamo and trained them as priests. Lorenzo had an apt and quick mind, learned Latin, Greek, and Hebrew, and composed verses with great facility.

Lorenzo was ordained as an Abbé, went to Venice, frequented the fast living literary set, gambled, loved and versified until the authorities expelled him on several counts. These several counts are not all found in Da Ponte's memoirs. He omitted what may have been the most important. He mentions that he was accused of eating ham on Friday and of having failed to go to mass on a number of Sundays, but he preserves silence on an amour that was perhaps the core of the trouble. Not that he wanted to conceal his love life—on the contrary, he even invented a few ladies.

Now Lorenzo began his years of wandering that led him all over Europe and perpetually in and out of hot water. He spent years in Vienna, where he achieved fame and distinction by his writing of the librettos of Così fan tutte, Figaro and Don Giovanni for Mozart. He went to London, where he acquired wealth as an impresario and a usurer while his wife ran a bar in a theater. Money never lasted long in Da Ponte's hands. He always was in debt, and somehow always managed to arouse powerful enemies.

We who hear so much nowadays of the new span of life, will be interested to note that at the age of 56 Da Ponte came to America, and established himself in the young republic. He failed at several ventures, but finally achieved a modicum of success as a teacher of Italian, bookseller, writer, with the honor of being the first to bring Italian opera to our shores. He died at the age af 91, respected, surrounded by his numerous progeny, a man of family, fortune and consideration. The Jew of Ceneda, the rake of Venice, the librettist and friend of Mozart of Vienna, the shady business man of London, had traveled far and climbed high.

L. Adams Beck Writes Careful Novel of Japan

"The Garden of Vision," by L. Adams Beck [Cosmopolitan], is a novel of Japan, with the actual spiritual background painted in even more meticulously than the imagined characters in the foreground. L. Adams Beck is, as you may have forgotten, the same person as E. Barrington. For her historical romances Mrs. Beck chose a pseudonym. Her novels about the east and its culture and its mysticism she writes under her married name. Her name before her marriage was Moresby. The origin of E. Barrington is a secret. She also has written "The Story of Oriental Philosophy."

Woman Tells Love Story of Various Eras

Isabel Paterson's Latest Is Among the Druids.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The foreword of Isabel Paterson's new novel, "The Road of the Gods," indicates that those who have read "The Singing Season," a tale of Spain, and her Elizabethan novel, "The Fourth Queen," will recognize the characters of the two young lovers whose romantic and picturesque life is now lived under Druid rule in the ancient forests.

ISABEL PATERSON.

"The Road of the Gods," though published last, proves the first of a trilogy giving glimpse . . . in different environments . . . centuries apart . . . of the same twain of lovers . . . revealing the same individualities, character, and charm. "About them nothing more is known," she says, "anywhere or anywhen." Which is a bit disappointing, for it would be interesting to encounter them in modern times.

"The Road of the Gods" is even more surprising than its predecessors in the detailed picture of a little known era . . . manners and customs and primitive limitations of knowledge . . . background and action, all have the ring of truth. . . . But those who have met Mrs. Paterson are not really surprised. Because of her insatiable curiosity about the world and its people, her life is an orgy of reading; her mind seems to absorb and produce at will factual evidence on any subject . . . backing her views in an historical argument with dates and data . . . quoting scripture page for page with theologians. Contemporary literature she ranges as critic for the New York Herald-Tribune.

A slight, fragile little figure with finely chiseled profile and direct, keen eyes . . . she has a quick firecracker wit . . . lives in a corner of Manhattan isle formerly known as Hell's Kitchen . . . is notoriously addicted to spinach and bright colored stockings . . . was born in Alberta, Canada, but now is an American citizen.

Frank Harris' "My Reminiscences as a Cowboy" is just out as one of the paper books . . . that's the Boni firm's grand idea for those to whom bindings "makes no never mind" . . . it is illustrated by Rockwell Kent and William Gropper. . . . "After Ex-wife, Ex-husband, and Ex-mistress," comments F. P. A., "why not Ex-cowboy."

Samuel Hoffenstein's "Poems in Praise of Practically Nothing" are nearing the one hundred thousand mark. . . . he is yet another writer given early encouragement and editorial houseroom by Burton Rascoe, who has a decided flair for picking winners in the literary world. His were the first loud cheers for James Branch Cabell—who attested his appreciation in the dedication of "Jurgen." . . . Rascoe's taste is catholic. Both Elliott White Springs and Will Cuppy were egged on by his glad hand. Acquaintances of Thomas Boyd—recently divorced from Woodward Boyd and married to Ruth Fitch Bartlett—are having a grand time trying to read between the lines of his new novel about divorce, "Extreme Mental Cruelty," which is appearing serially.

"All in the Family," Story of Roosevelts, Disappoints This Critic

"All in the Family," by Theodore Roosevelt [Putnams], is a preachment by the current Col. Roosevelt about family life.

Taking his own—his life as a child with his parents and his life as a father as shining examples of what American family life can be—he points his moral. The book consists mostly of anecdotes of his own childhood and that of his brothers and sisters, and his children. The "bright sayings of children" contained in it would not rate a prize from Aunty Bee.

If I were the author's wife I would sue him for divorce for telling the bright tricks of my childhood (they weren't really bright at all), but probably an end is gained.

"All in the Family" is almost a miracle of disappointment and dullness, since any reader coming upon a book about the life of the children at Oyster Bay would be agog about it.

The second Theodore Roosevelt did not inherit his father's gift of the pen. That one is forced to admit after years of hoping that he had. One must confess, however, that "All in the Family," which promised to be the very nicest book possible, is the worst of his literary output. F. B.

Old New England's Authors Are Revived and Examined

In "Writers of Colonial New England," the authors, Trentwell Mason White, and Paul William Lehmann have done an excellent service to all students of literature of the colonial period in the north. They have gathered in the forests of historical data about seventy or so writers, and brought them into the comfort of the fireside. The book is a literary survey with not only facts but the contemporary and present judgment of each author's work. Three of these authors are women. Mr. Lehmann is English master at the Chicago Latin school. There is a very commendatory introduction by Frank G. Allen, governor of Massachusetts.

Cradle of U. S. Republic Described in New Book

"Tidewater Virginia" by Paul Wilstach [Bobbs-Merrill] is a charming history of that little triangle of land which has been called—and rightly—"the cradle of the republic." In Tidewater Virginia, for the first time on this continent, while man exercised the right of suffrage, the first free school was operated. Incidentally, it was here that Negro slavery was first introduced in America. The greatest names of early American history had their roots there, and of the first ten Presidents of the United States five were born in Tidewater.

History of Donn Byrne First Told by Macauley

"Donn Byrne, Bard of Armagh," by Thurston Macauley (Century) is the first critical or biographical volume about a man who wrote one surpassingly beautiful book, "Messer Marco Polo," and died as the promise of more and as lovely things from his pen was growing, but not yet abloom. His latest novel "Field of Honor," almost was such another flower, but not quite. His biographer has given much space to the correspondence between Donn Byrne and editors and authors, thus throwing a clearer light upon his literary career in America.

"Piccadilly Jim" Revived; It's a Wodehouse Laugh

"Piccadilly Jim," by P. G. Wodehouse, was published in 1918 and the discerning said it was one of the funniest tales ever written. During the eleven years since then the discerning have been saying the same thing of every book P. G. Wodehouse has written. But they still talk about "Piccadilly Jim." So much so, in fact, and so ardently that there is to be a new edition of it. Sheer charity, we call that, toward those who were stupid enough to miss it in the first place.

Authors Recall Conflict Among U. S. Schoolmen

By Offering Life, Works of Stuart P. Sherman.

BY WALTER BUCHAN.

[Formerly of University of Illinois faculty.]

"Life and Letters of Stuart P. Sherman," by Zeitlin and Woodbridge [Farrar & Rinehart], two volumes.

In the midst of the present deluge of biographies—many of them done in the flat, with a very modern neglect of perspective—the three dimensional effect of these books is a rest and a delight. This achievement is perhaps the more remarkable because Dr. Stuart Pratt Sherman was for many years of his life a New England student, for nearly twenty years an Illinois professor, and for two years a New York literary editor—at first blush not exactly material for so rich a saga.

S. P. SHERMAN.

In these thirty years, however, he did a prodigious amount of work as apostle of democracy in education, of American character and culture, and of "the refreshing virtue found in any unusual display of energy."

To most of his friends and to all of his enemies this work made him the outstanding spirit in American criticism for the first quarter of this century. To the enemies created by his militant assertion of "an aristocratic principle of taste within a democracy" he was anathema, but inspiring.

When he died in 1926 he was only 45 years old; but he had been a storm center in American criticism for so many years that his "Life and Letters" etch a remarkably complete cross section of pre-war, war, and post-war thought, criticism, and literature. In them there is much of the still raging battle between the humanists and the humanitarians, the realists and the idealists, aristocracy and democracy.

Always more interesting than these battles of the bookmen, however, is the figure and spirit of Sherman. Whether he is tilting with the intelligentsia or poking fun at the pundits, preaching his idea of a state university, or refusing the presidency of one, he always is more significant than the living and growing ideas with which he is concerned. These ideas deal so basically and energetically with American life and character that they contribute materially to making the "Life and Letters" a remarkably American book.

BOOKS

Book Revives Pioneer Days of Kentucky

Miss Roberts Brings Beauty to Lives of Peril.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Great Meadow," by Elizabeth Maddox Roberts. [Viking.]

There is no question about the epic beauty of "The Great Meadow." It is like one of those large pictorial tapestries that take one so by the spirit back into the days of their weaving. It has color and majesty and beauty caught forever. It gives the same sense of infinite and infinitesimal pains.

Of its kind, this book undoubtedly is a masterpiece. One must admit that there are those to whom even great tapestries are cold, unbreathing things compared to some less conventionalized, more palpitant art of the period. To them this book is not all beauty.

"The Great Meadow" is a tapestry of the early settling of Kentucky. It is an heroic tale of great heroines and great heroes who faced life not at all as if life demanded heroism, but as if it called for only the day's living. It is an epic tale of a trek overland when danger hid behind every tree.

The children on the Devon coast in 1917 who cried when the moon shone, not for the moon, but because a moonlight night meant the terrifying screech of "zepps," had progenitors in the children of the early settlers of the wilderness to whom a lovely tree spoke not of beauty but of danger. "The Great Meadow" is a terrific and compelling story of a girl watching the murder and the scalping of her mother-in-law, of her husband's vow of revenge against the redskin who wore that scalp, of her fruitless attempts to keep him for herself and their child and their life, of the husband's leaving and the news of his death. The story tells of her marriage to his friend, the birth of their child, and the sudden return of the "dead" man and of her choosing, after the law of the wilderness, which man should be her husband. It is a plot that could have melodrammered all over the pages.

Miss Roberts has chosen not only not to make a melodrama out of it, but she has chosen to remove even the drama from it. That strange, soul uprooting situation is stitched into the tapestry just as the early peaceful, gentle days along Albemarle sound are stitched, no more fire in the colors, no more brilliance in the design. Both the peace of the farm, near enough to the Tidewater to know of its life, far enough away not to be touched by it, near enough to the wilderness to receive returning hunters and hear their tales, far enough to hear those tales as if they came from the lips of a returned Marco Polo, tales of wonders and terrors never to be known more intimately.

Therein lies the power of "The Great Meadow." It is of a key. It is a unity, an entity. And that entity is not the individual lives of any or all of the characters, but the "great meadow" itself, Kentucky, the flowering wilderness.

As a purely technical job, "The Great Meadow" is far and away the best thing that Miss Roberts has done. It has little of that intense, passionate inner beauty that "The Time of Man" had; although it is an "inner" book in the sense that the author records the mental and spiritual reactions of the characters rather than their physical ones, and it is an "inner" book in the sense that the factual pictures of the life on the farm, in the wilderness, in the fort are so subordinate to the spiritual ebb and flow that the reader does not realize how detailed that life has been made.

Never for a moment, however, is there any sense of the author's tripping on the rocky path of recreating a day, a spirit, long forgotten. The style is even of that period. Without being "quaint" in the sense that the Maritan Chapman style is quaint, it has all of the flavor of that day.

There are many who will find "The Great Meadow" difficult reading. It is obvious that the author draws a veil between her book and her readers. That intense, passionate understanding which some readers would like to have of those intense and passionate folk is not there. Whether Miss Roberts could have put it there or not is a matter which does not concern us. What does concern us is that she chose to do something quite otherwise. She set out to make a tapestry and she has succeeded perfectly in doing exactly that. To ask that a tapestry have the contemporaneousness of a film is to ask for one of the great novels of all time, and "The Great Meadow" is not that. It is a fine, a beautiful, a noble piece of work. That should be enough.

"The Great Meadow" was the choice of the Literary Guild for March, and celebrates the completion of the third year of that organization.

'Humanism' New Faith Is Described in Book by U. of Chicago Prof.

"The Quest of the Ages," by A. Eustace Haydon (Harpers) is the first book of Humanism, the new secular religion which denies the existence of God while endeavoring to maintain the best spiritual values of life.

Dr. Haydon is professor of comparative religion at the University of Chicago. In the preface of the book there is, according to Dr. Charles Francis Potter, pastor of the First Humanist society of New York, the shortest complete definition of humanism on record: "The shared quest of the good life."

John Haynes Holmes declares that the religion that Professor Haydon presents is without question the religion of the future. "Science has made a new religious outlook necessary," it is pointed out, and humanism is a statement of that outlook. Religious leaders of all denominations are interested in Dr. Haydon's conclusions and suggestions.

ELIZABETH M. ROBERTS.

Two Novelists Attend Party; Learn of Fame

Julia Peterkin Greeted by Texas Guinan.

We have had two distinguished visitors these last few days. Julia Peterkin and Thornton Wilder. Mr. Wilder came to lecture, Mrs. Peterkin to see Chicago for the first time. Mrs. Peterkin's introduction to this city was a station that would make Podunk ashamed of itself, and a black gentleman with a red cap who adopted her permanently when he heard her accent.

South Carolina was music to his ears. They were both beaming when I met her near the left hind wheel of the engine of her train. That afternoon Thornton Wilder, after a luncheon with the ladies of the Drama league, was going to a party given by one of the ladies of the drama, Miss Texas Guinan. He asked me to go with him, and we added Julia Peterkin to the party.

We arrived, two distinguished literary personages and one literary editor, in the midst of the feminine youth, the beauty and the intelligence of the theatrical profession, the assorted gentlemen whose careers or reputations made them eligible, and Texas herself, who, believe it or not, got the kick of the afternoon out of her two literary guests [as they did out of her]. She sat up most of the night before her trial [Volstead law] and read "Black April," she said, and she knew "Black April" and "Scarlet Sister Mary" almost by heart.

Most of the assembled beauty, youth and not so much youth or beauty found Mr. Wilder an attractive young man, who they vaguely realized was a writer, but they all knew Julia Peterkin.

"You know. She wrote that play Ethel Barrymore's going to do in black face, 'Black Sadie,' or something." She belonged.

It was a grand party. One dashing gentleman asked Mrs. Peterkin whether she lived in Chicago or not and she had to admit that she had just arrived. "Who do you know here?" he said.

"My best man friend is Mr. Sandburg," she replied.

"Well," he answered with great heartiness, "that's fine. We ought to get along, you and me. He's one of my best friends, too. And you know he's got the best clothing store in Chicago."

"I'm afraid," Mrs. Peterkin gently suggested, "that isn't my Mr. Sandburg. My Mr. Sandburg [meaning Carl] doesn't even press his trousers."

And that little romance was nipped in the bud.

Mrs. Peterkin has a beauty that is rich and memorable—without a hat she is superb. The way that her head is set upon her shoulders led a famous artist, who sat next to her at Harriet Monroe's dinner the next night, say to me, "I wish I could paint her." She would like to trade her eyes for Texas Guinan's, however, she said. We seem always to be disagreeing about her looks, Julia Peterkin and I. She envied Peggy Joyce in New York, you remember.

The material for her books [and her poetry, some of which she read at the Society of Midland Author's luncheon for her yesterday] is pure lode gold. She mines it right on her own plantation, Lang Syne in South Carolina, ten miles from a doctor and a policeman. "But, of course," she said, of "Scarlet Sister Mary," "she is real. She is one of my closest friends in the world. She will close my eyes when I die and fold my hands. That's how good a friend I feel she is to me."

Sister Mary has a daughter who is married to a man who owns one of the Harlem night clubs, but Mary isn't that kind of folks. She can't read, not out of books. There are too many other things in the world to read, she says, "to be botherin' with words out of books." She knows that "Miss Juley" wrote a book about her, but that don't make no never matter.

Mr. Wilder is becoming "a citizen of Chicago," he announced in his lecture, the first of April. This was a hurried sortie into and out of town. Last summer, he said, he was forced to choose between writing and teaching as a profession. "Did I choose wisely?" he asked me. I told him that although he might fancy himself as a teacher he might not consider that his choice had been permanently made when he promised to come to the University of Chicago to teach undergraduates.

Hibben's Story About W. J. Bryan Depicts an Emotional Age

BY HERBERT GORMAN.

[Author of "The Incredible Marquis."]

"The Peerless Leader: William Jennings Bryan," by Paxton Hibben. [Farrar and Rinehart.]

Between the perspiring old gentleman with the jaw like a steel trap who fought so doggedly for fundamentalism at Dayton, Tenn., and the embattled young silver knight of the west who nearly defeated William McKinley for the presidency of the United States stretches an epoch that well deserves to be called emotional.

William Jennings Bryan was one of the heroes of the emotional epoch. He was a peculiarly American hero, and because he was so indigenous Paxton Hibben's "The Peerless Leader" becomes more than the biography of an unusual individual. It is the history of an era as well. It is an examination and betrayal of the evangelical emotionalism that permeated religion, politics, and life in America from the days of reconstruction to the disillusionment following the great war.

The temptation to caricature Bryan is so strong in those writers blessed with a sense of humor (after all, some of his divagations were essentially funny), and Mr. Hibben gave such evidence of a wise sense of humor that it comes as a pleasant surprise to observe that Mr. Hibben has not yielded to this almost excusable weakness. He neither has vilified, deprecated, scolded, nor ridiculed Bryan.

Indeed, there is more sympathy here than anything else. If Bryan often was foolish, nearly always ignorant in the cultured sense, somewhat of a hill-billy in religious matters, prim minded, and dogged in his stupidity, he possessed as well other traits that lifted him above superficial ridicule. He was earnest and honest, an astute politician, a man of the people who was incorruptible, and, above all, a leader. He was a leader because he could dominate and sway hure masses of people. Therefore, he was important to his time and his period. It is this importance that Mr. Hibben weighs and assays and explains.

There was something of the Lincoln touch about the young knight who came riding [like Lochinvar] out of the west. Indeed, there are parallels between the life of William Jennings Bryan and the Great Emancipator that are curious and suggestive, and which seem to show that the Nebraskan possessed, perhaps, a Lincoln complex. Mr. Hibben was quite correct in indicating these parallelisms, for they serve to illuminate Bryan for us in a way that no other explanations can quite circumscribe.

It is most instructive to observe these likenesses and to meditate upon the shifts of fortune that canceled them at the very gates to the White House.

I might well say that this question of Bryan's peculiar failure, of his power to get so far and no farther, is the thesis of Mr. Hibben's biography, if a biography that is impartial may be said to possess a thesis. Perhaps it is better to say that this is the pattern of the book, that this is what a carefully documented account of Bryan's life reveals when all his divagations are studied and analyzed.

Mr. Hibben's book is, in a sense, a study of downright honesty in American politics and how far it can go. If certain aspects of it (and no small ones, at that) seem unbearably disappointing there are yet other aspects that prove on examination to be fair and of vast promise. The career of William Jennings Bryan, his early struggles and successes, his presidential campaigns, and his political sagacities, even his later years, when the evangelical strain corroded his wits, is an illustrating picture of the virtues and flaws of the republic. "The Peerless Leader" is a book that every man curious about the phenomena of his country should read and ponder.

CONGRATULATIONS—AND A LOOK AHEAD.

The local governments are again in a position to meet their pay rolls, thanks largely to the energy displayed in the solicitation of subscriptions to the Taxpayers' trust. The task which confronted Mr. Philip R. Clarke, who directed the campaign, and his associates was a large one which might have disheartened men of less courage and resourcefulness.

The money now in hand, it is estimated, will carry the local governments to July, when the 1928 taxes, which should have been collected last April, will begin to come in if the promises of the board of review are fulfilled. All of the July collections and more besides will be required to meet the warrants outstanding against 1928 taxes. The redemption of the 1928 warrants should serve, however, to free capital for reinvestment in later warrants, thus enabling the local governments to carry on for a few months more. Eventually, however, the basic fact must be faced that many of the governments, even after all the taxes due have been paid, will face deficits. These deficits exist because public officials who control expenditures have deliberately appropriated above income.

Officials of the local governments are committed to supporting legislation at Springfield which will not only provide means of meeting the deficits but, in addition, will prevent the recurrence of such a condition as now prevails. Of the two aspects of the program, we regard the second, the matter of prevention, as the more important. Administrations must be obliged to hold their expenditures in future within income. A responsible estimate of income, which should be no larger than that of the previous year, should be made the basis of appropriation and if, for any reason, income should fall below the estimate, appropriations must automatically be reduced to fit the receipts from taxation. Financial and criminal responsibility for excessive estimates of income should be fastened unequivocally upon one administrative official and responsibility for expenditure above income upon the same or another official who, in turn, must be given sole authorization to issue orders upon the treasury.

The other question of wiping out the deficits is somewhat complicated by dispute as to the definition of the word "deficit." As long as any one can remember, the city of Chicago has been meeting its bills of one year by borrowing against its revenues of the next. Most of the other local governments follow the same system in greater or less degree. In one sense, then, the city has a chronic deficit of about a full year's income. Its slate is never clean. Its income always goes to meet its borrowings of last year and it must borrow to meet its current obligations. But in addition to this kind of deficit there is another: the deficit due to excessive expenditures. Should all back taxes be billed this year and should the city in 1930 spend no more than it will receive from taxes in 1931, less interest, there would still be a deficit over and above the usual anticipations. This deficit may take several forms. It may show as borrowings from the city's trust funds, for example, or as unpaid bills or unpaid judgments. In any event it exists and this much, at least, of the public debt must be wiped out.

So far as the usual anticipations are concerned, there is more room for argument. Against the method of paying-by-borrowing it can be said that the taxpayers are saddled with an interest charge which is somewhat higher than the cost of borrowing through a bond issue, though ordinarily in the past the difference has not been great. On the other hand, if the local governments are to be placed upon a cash basis through the issuance of bonds, the bonding power of the local governments will be severely strained and needed public improvements may be delayed.

The principal objection to paying-by-borrowing lies in the encouragement it gives to expenditure beyond receipts. Estimates of income are inclined to be oversanguine because they are made by those who spend the money and can expect to prosper politically in proportion to their expenditures. The money to meet the appropriations made last January will not be received from taxpayers until a year from May, if the routine schedule of payments is restored. Actual receipts, therefore, do not act directly as a check upon expenses. If the present system of tax anticipation is not done away with it is important, at least, that it be safeguarded to prevent extravagance.

SCANDALOUS LAWSUITS.

Recent comment in this department on breach of promise suits has been given special emphasis by the sensational Brandon case. Actions of this kind are in fact invitations to juries to recognize the commercialization of irregular sex relations and fix high fees for them. In borrowed robes of injured innocence the "oldest profession" appeals to maudlin sentiment to underwrite its enterprise.

This form of action seldom justifies itself either from the standpoint of private justice or from that of public policy. It is not a shield for virtue. It gives the vicious a means of extortion, the disappointed or resentful a means of using the courts for the wreaking of private vengeance. It should be more strictly safeguarded from abuse, if retained in legal procedure at all.

MR. ROOT'S AMBIGUITIES.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania says he has studied the Root formula for American entrance into the world court, as a lawyer and as a member of the senate which adopted the reservations the United States offered the world as conditions, and that he doesn't know what it implies. He says the senate reservations stated the points clearly and the American terms were not acceptable to other nations. Mr. Root has produced something which is supposed to be the equivalent of these conditions, but which is satisfactory abroad where the senate provisions were not. Mr. Pepper says that to him the obscurities of Mr. Root's composition seem to contain jokers in every line.

The American government has signed Mr. Root's formula and senate action will be asked when congressional politics is less acute. It's significant that senators wish to be relieved of the need of carrying the world court back to their constituents for a decision. It has not had a general popular approval, although Republican administrations seem to be addicted to it.

It is well known that many advocates of the world court in the United States regard American entrance as merely the first step, to be followed by complete association with all European arrangements, and in this their hopes are the apprehensions of the opponents of the court. It is true not only that Europe has special interests with which the United States has no concern, but also that the United States has special interests with which Europe has much concern. Tariff and immigration restriction are two of them. Debt cancellation is another.

RADIAL ROAD PROGRESS.

Gov. Emmerson's comprehension of the needs of the great metropolitan region of which Chicago is the nerve center has been revealed more than once since he took office. It is one of the encouraging facts in our situation and we revert to it gratefully at this time in respect to the radial road relief so sorely needed. With the approach of spring the prospect of another motor season under the conditions which the Small régime's methods of political road building developed and permitted to develop is not pleasant, and we are hoping the governor will speed up the processes of relief. The improvement of radial arteries is, as we think the governor agrees, the first and most urgent requirement. The state's engineering plans may be well in hand, but local authorities representing local pressures and interests are moving slowly. Pressure in the interest of the general good would be helpful to break up indifference or shortsighted obstruction.

THE HAITIAN WARD OF FREEDOM.

Haitian spokesmen tell the commissioners of President Hoover's inquiry into the state of affairs in the republic that they want to be rid of the American experts. Assistance, they said, could be accepted, but domination was exasperating. That's human nature elsewhere than in Haiti. If expertness is to be taken to mean the administration of an office solely with a view to the work to be accomplished it is abhorrent to politics everywhere. It is contrary to the essential political requirements, which is the adjustment of the work to the advantage of the person who administers it.

The political system expels administrative competency as a foreign substance injurious to the tissues. It may be conceded that the marines could run Chicago considerably better than it is, and the Haitians might ask why the Americans don't try their own experts if they are so keen for such results. There isn't much of an answer to that except that we are keen for other people to enjoy them.

Haitian ruling classes, which would be ruling if it were not for American administration, may say that our standards are for export only. If left strictly to themselves they might produce some high grade corruption in high places, decorated now and then with manslaughter and assassination, with petty thievery, pilfering, and racketeering wherever possible; but they might ask how, this being the case, it offered a picture much different from that of conditions in the big brother republic. Are they alone to enjoy none of the benefits of democracy?

To this the only reply is that they must be patient. They must learn the principles of reliant freedom and competent self-government. They must grow up and when they have adult standards of tolerance, honesty, and intelligent suffrage, then they may be released to manhandle each other and gather in the profits of democracy.

Editorial of the Day

WHY NOT MAKE THE CHANGE?

[Detroit Free Press.]

If the friendship of Japan for this country can be materially enhanced, and the feasibility of arriving at a naval understanding with Tokio increased by revising the American immigration laws to put the Nipponese on a quota basis, the discussions reported to be going on between Senator David A. Reed and Tsuneo Matsudaira should be encouraged. The senator and the ambassador can, of course, accomplish nothing tangible or formal. Neither of them is in a position to represent his government. But an interchange of views may be helpful later on in bringing about a reconsideration of an American government action that may very well be reconsidered.

The number of Japanese who would be admitted to the United States under a regular quota allowance corresponding to those in force for other countries of the world would be so small that they would mean nothing whatever as a part of the whole population of the United States. At the most, only a few hundred would come in each year. But the appeasement of wounded feeling in Japan which would result might be of immense moment, and might have a material effect later on in matters affecting some very vital interests of the United States.

At present Japan is friendly to this country with a reservation. Why not remove the reservation, which means nothing to us from a practical standpoint, but which is a constant cause of smothered resentment in the island empire across the Pacific? Japan has always dealt fairly and even generously with America in making and keeping engagements. She is worth having for a whole hearted friend.

NOW, WE'VE ALL GOT TO BUY ADDING MACHINES—

to keep up with the testimony of the drys before the house judiciary committee in Washington. And what with the unemployment proposition and the installments on the automobile, the radio, the washing machine, the coonskin coat, and the mechanical piano it's going to be pretty tough.

But how can you make anything out of the testimony of the drys if you don't have an adding machine? And would an adding machine do any good? Why, Attorney Connelly, one of the star witnesses, must have hauled over seventeen tons of figures into the committee room on Thursday. And when Mr. Callahan of Louisville started talking about how prohibition had saved over one hundred thousand people from dying of cirrhosis of the liver or winter itch or housemaid's knee, and so on, he tossed figures right and left until they lay five feet deep all over the floor.

And still they come. Railroad trains loaded with figures for the dry testimony next week are gumming up traffic on all roads leading into Washington. Great gangs of workmen are shoveling the figures from the cars into coal wagons and hauling them to the house judiciary rooms as fast as possible, but with shifts working night and day they are away behind, and over nine thousand tons of statistics are still undelivered.

Something ought to be done about this. Or, anyhow, the drys ought to stop figuring until the committee can catch up with 'em.

NOTHING WILL MATTER.

And when your dreams are ashen, as are mine,

OR MAYBE VIOLET LIGHT FIRED THE FATAL SHOT? SHE WOULD.

Here's where we throw up our hands and beg for help, help! We've always insisted that we didn't want to be told how a story comes out before we had read it ourself. But now we're right at a most interesting place in Charles and Mary Beard's "Rise of American Civilization." Tom Jefferson has just got off his horse and hitched it to the White House fence (an old nursery tale for the hundred percenters to which Charles and Mary give the hollow hoot) and is about to be inaugurated third President of the U. S. of A. We can't stop reading this book now. It's too exciting. And, besides, we've rigged up a rope from the ceiling to hold the "Rise of American Civilization" clear of our tummy while we read it in bed, and so we're going along very nicely. But how comes the University of Chicago Press to tell us the name of a book that intrigues us mightily? But we haven't time to read it. We hope somebody else does and tells us who committed the murder, how did the detective run the thing down, and does he marry the daughter who was about to be electrocuted for the crime. The book is called "Ultra-Violet Light and Vitamin D in Nutrition." Oh, somebody read it quick and tell us if Vitamin D was the dead man, the murderer, or the detective. And how it all comes out.

AND NOW a brand new disease is loose again. This time it is "dislocated psyche." Anyway, it looks as though we would be able to learn to pronounce the thing before the next new disease comes along.

COL. LINDBERGH is taking seriously the claim made by his admirers that he is America's Prince of Wales. He went riding on a polo pony the other day and fell off.

LAGNIAPPE.

ANOTHER George Washington mansion has burned down in Virginia. We're beginning to believe that George moved every month and never occupied the same house twice.

THE WOMAN who received the "life for a pint" sentence over in Michigan has finally obtained permission for another trial. Better let well enough alone. Next time they may sentence her to be burned at the stake.

WE WERE JUST about to write a last line for this morning's column when it occurred to us that it might be a good idea to hold it back until Mr. Legge's federal farm board makes us an advance of funds to prevent any decline in the price of last lines. Anyhow, it seems to be a perfectly grand idea and we're going to try it. R. H. L.

FEEDING THE TEETH.

DRS. P. C. JEANS and J. D. Boyd say that in their experience decay of teeth in children has been brought under control. They do this by giving diets that are high in vitamins and in mineral elements. They took children whose teeth were decaying and stopped that process rather promptly. It was possible to watch the improvement in the quality of the tooth structure.

They are of the opinion that teeth decay not because of something that happened to the mother or to the child some years earlier, but because of something happening to the child day by day during the time when the teeth are decaying. They started with children whose habits, principally eating habits, were wrong, and, in consequence, whose teeth were crumbling. They changed their diets and made some other changes and put an end to the breaking down of the teeth.

The controversy over the question as to whether the tooth is a finished product, and, therefore, not changed by diet or other influences, has been a long and bitter one. Drs. Jeans and Boyd take position alongside Dr. Howe and the Mellanbys in this controversy.

In the discussion which this paper provoked it came out that some physicians do not regard mouth hygiene as a factor in the preventing of decay of teeth. Others had found the reaction of the saliva or other qualities of that secretion not to be a factor. One suggestion was that scurvy was an important cause of tooth decay, and, therefore, the important vitamin was that which acted as an antiscorbutic. The best known vitamin of this group is that which is found in orange juice.

Other speakers thought that the teeth of children would decay even though the diet contained ample orange juice. Most of the speakers thought that vitamins A and D were especially important in preventing tooth decay. One method which gave good results was giving irradiated ergosterol. There are several of these preparations now available. Physiologists are actively investigating them as agents for the prevention of tooth decay. Other agents which were thought to have some value were cod liver oil and cholesterol. Exposing the skin of a nursing mother to direct sunlight and to ultraviolet lamps was also found to be effective in preventing tooth decay in the baby at the breast.

TREATING TUBERCULOSIS.

Mrs. G. R. S. writes:

1. Please tell us about artificial pneumothorax in the treatment of tuberculosis.

2. Would the smoking of an occasional cigaret by a patient undergoing this treatment be harmful?

3. The patient I speak of has two small children, two and four years old. The children live in the same house, but are cared for entirely by their nurse. Two or three times a day they are allowed on the porch for a few minutes where the patient is. They are both unusually healthy and robust. Is there danger to these children? They spend almost the entire day out of doors.

REPLY.

1. This treatment was developed by Dr. J. B. Murphy thirty years ago. It consists in collapsing the affected lung by one means or another. Doing this collapses lung cavities and, in that way, drains them and promotes healing. It puts the lung at rest and this promotes healing. It is a valuable and a reasonably safe procedure in cases suitable for it.

2. I don't think so.

3. This is a reasonably safe compromise between sentiment and safety. It boosts the patient's morale and is reasonably safe for the children.

AUTOINTOXICATION.

H. S. writes: What is meant by autointoxication?

REPLY.

The term means no more than constipation, so far as our present knowledge extends. Overcoming constipation is the usual method of treating autointoxication. The term shows a tendency to disappear from common usage. Some day we may find that there is a condition of chemical imbalance resulting from overeating on the one hand, and underworking and lack of elimination on the other, and this condition may need a name. The need must wait upon the discovery of some simple, easily applied, and revealing test.

QUARANTINE QUESTIONS.

Mrs. R. writes: Will you please enlighten me on the law on scarlet fever quarantine? Are any members of a family in quarantine allowed to go back and forth to work? If they do, isn't there danger of carrying the scarlet fever germs to outsiders?

REPLY.

Quarantine laws and rules are enacted by state legislatures and city councils. Obey the laws and rules of your state and city. Many laws allow well members of a family who are not in contact with the case to go to work. This is safe enough if the law is obeyed in other particulars.

MUST LEAVE AND RE-ENTER.

Cicero, Ill., March 1.—[Friend of the People.]—An alien entered the United States May 28, 1924, illegally from Canada. Is he subject to deportation? What should he do to make his entry legal and become a citizen of the United States? C. Z.

A person who entered the United States illegally May 28, 1924, is not now subject to deportation for that reason alone. However, the only way he can become a citizen of the United States is to leave the country and effect a legal entry. He will have to apply to an American consulate in any foreign country for an appropriate immigration visa and, if he was not born in Canada, he will have to enter the United States under the quota of the country of his birth.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

MARCH 8, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—It is stated by officers who arrived here from Wilmington that on March 1 scouts from Gen. Sherman's army joined Gen. Schofield's forces near Wilmington. The scouts left Sherman's headquarters on Feb. 24, at which time he was 120 miles south of Fayetteville, N. C., and advancing 10 to 15 miles a day. There is little doubt he effected a junction with Schofield about March 2 or 3.

NEW YORK.—The Times' Washington special says: "Evidence is accumulating that Gen. Sherman has moved by the flank of Johnston's forces and placed himself between that body of rebels and Wilmington." Gen. Grant credits the report that Sherman and Schofield have united their forces at Fayetteville, N. C.

WASHINGTON.—The senate confirmed the nomination of the Hon. Hugh McCulloch to be secretary of the treasury, and he immediately assumed the office.

PHILADELPHIA.—The Bulletin has the following startling Washington dispatch: "A man named Thomas Clements has been turned over to the civil authorities by the military authorities, against whom the evidence is positive that he had all his plans arranged for the assassination of President Lincoln on inaugural day. He is in jail here."

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Washington correspondent says: "The famous senatorial drinking saloon, known for the last 15 years as the Hole in the Wall, was closed this afternoon and the sign over the door which read 'Exclusively for Senators' was turned wrong side out.

MARCH 8, 1900.

LONDON.—After a week devoted to remounting his cavalry, accumulating ammunition and supplies in abundance, and giving his infantry a thorough rest, Gen. Roberts took the warpath again. His movement was directed against the commands of Gens. Joubert, De Wet, Botha and Delarey, who had been concentrating their forces near Osfontein since the defeat of Gen. Cronje. Their total force is variously estimated at from 4,000 to 10,000 men. On the first attack Lord Roberts' cavalry flanked the Boers and the latter were severely defeated. They are retreating rapidly with Roberts' forces in pursuit.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Miss Karlene Theresa Ashbridge, stepdaughter of Mayor Samuel H. Ashbridge, was married to Schuyler Armstrong. It was a political wedding. To it was bidden every man in Philadelphia who had or has hopes to have political influence, and an invitation was equivalent to a present. There were $50,000 worth of presents.

LONDON.—Queen Victoria will visit Ireland in April and has ordered that all Irish soldiers shall wear shamrocks on St. Patrick's day. Both courtesies are bound to have far reaching effect. This will be only the fourth time the queen has been in Ireland. The privilege of wearing the shamrock will be one of the greatest favors that could be bestowed on Irish soldiers. Hundreds of times in the past they have been disciplined for wearing green on St. Patrick's day against orders.

CHICAGO.—Miss Pauline Herzog, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salomon Herzog, 1608 West Adams street, and Louis Herzog of Washington, D. C., were married at the home of the bride's parents.

MARCH 8, 1920.

EL PASO, Tex.—Joseph Williams, an employé of the American Smelting and Refining company's plant at Pedriciena, is a captive in the hands of Fancisco Villa, held for $50,000 ransom. In the battle when he was captured on a Mexico City-Juarez train ten of the bandits and nineteen train guards were killed.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson has flatly rejected the allied proposal to withdraw the agreement of Dec. 9, 1919, on the Adriatic settlement and reopen the entire negotiations with a clean slate with a view to effecting a compromise between Italy and Jugo-Slavia.

LONDON.—Large forces of bolsheviki have opened an offensive against the Poles on both sides of the Pripet region, a dispatch from Berlin says. The dispatch adds that the Poles repulsed the enemy with heavy losses.

CHICAGO.—The Rev. William C. Covert, D. D., celebrated his fifteenth anniversary as pastor of the First Presbyterian church, the oldest of the denomination in the city.

CHICAGO.—Frank H. Hitchcock, former postmaster general and former Republican national committee chairman, will arrive in Chicago today to become active field marshal for Maj. Gen. Leonard A. Wood in his campaign for the Republican nomination for President.

RED PARADES.

Chicago, March 5.—Why in the name of common sense are the Reds allowed to parade through our city? No possible good can come from these lawless displays unless the police club a little sense into the participants. These people are not trying to aid the unemployed or to benefit our social conditions in any way. Their sole purpose is to create dissatisfaction among the working class in order to gain a large following. With increased numbers these demonstrations will probably terminate in bloody riots, as some European cities have already experienced. To all appearances the police have their hands full trying to cope with the existing crime situation without having more hoodlums to contend with.

If communism in this country is not nipped in the bud it may grow to such proportions as to jeopardize our very freedom. This may seem far-fetched at present, but so did the likelihood of prohibition twenty years ago. The communists hold full sway in Russia and are seeking more fertile soil in which to sow the seed of bolshevism.

Their agents have quarters in our large cities, from which they spread seditious doctrine and contrive to enlist the radical minded. Rather than leave these instigators unmolested, trusting that the Red movement will not meet with success, the authorities should deport the whole villainous lot of them as undesirable aliens and as a national menace before they have a chance to undermine our independence.

ARTHUR HAGEDORN.

CHICAGO'S REPUTATION.

Chicago, March 4.—Why doesn't some public body interested in the welfare of Chicago get out a little circular convenient in size to insert in outgoing mail setting forth the facts about Chicago in respect to crime, etc., as compared with other cities? It could be stated in the circular that Chicago ranked twenty-first in crime among the big cities, first in health, first in child welfare work, etc., etc. A lot of interesting facts could be gathered together in a circular of this kind and millions could be printed very cheaply and delivered to leading mail order houses and other houses using the mails in a big way. These houses would be glad to distribute the circulars with their letters and circulars and would be willing to pay a nominal charge for the circulars. There are people—and their number is increasing—who hesitate to send to Chicago for anything and who have little faith in anything in or from Chicago. A few millions of circulars would be a big help in restoring the one time glory of Chicago in the minds of people who think of this city only in terms of how many murders and how many burglaries are being perpetrated here. We might, of course, remain indifferent to public opinion and think as the Roman tribune did when he said, "What has Rome to fear?" in reply to fears expressed on the floor of the Roman senate that the Celts [Britons] might invade their country some day. Chicago may remain indifferent too long, till we lose our prestige and trade.

PERCY GRAHAM.

AN ANALOGY.

Chicago, March 5.—I have noticed Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's savage attack on the world court, which, of course, coming from the daughter of her father, is entitled to great weight.

In 1905 Justice Miller, whose fame is that of one of the greatest jurists who have been members of the United States Supreme court, said:

The Supreme court of the United States has no army, no navy, no purse, no patronage and no officers except its clerks and marshals, and they are appointed by the President and senate, and yet its edicts are obeyed when it curbs the actions of the Presidents, annuls laws of congress or sets limits to the powers of the federal government itself . . . suggestive of the day when some great court of the nations shall sit at The Hague and pass down decisions by which the nations of the world will abide as complacently as the litigants before this tribunal to which questions now come from a tremendous stretch of territory as well as over the seas. That's all. JOHN M. GAINES.

FOR UNIFIED LOCAL GOVERNMENTS.

Berwyn, Ill., March 5.—President Comak of the county board has started a movement for the unification of our local governments and the movement has been approved by such men as President Elmore of the sanitary district, Coroner Bundesen, and South Park Commissioner John Bain.

Until 1831 the territory around Chicago east of the third principal meridian was in what was then Cook county. At that time there were few settlements which believed that they were destined to become greater cities than Chicago, but since then Chicago has distanced them all and the business has become centralized around Chicago.

President Cermak gives a hint of the real trouble when he says: "As a Democrat, I am not interested in adding Republican territory to a Democratic city." Since 1831 the Democrats have been trying to add jobs for Democrats and Republicans have been trying to add jobs for Republicans. Result: A division of political territory and added burdens to the taxpayers.

This matter should be handled by the taxpayers and not by the politicians or the political minded business men. A strong central government should be organized of the entire north end of the original Clark county, with a mayor and council to take charge of those matters which affect the entire area in the same manner, such as transportation, highways, waste disposal, water, police, etc.

The city should be divided into boroughs along county lines; a large county, like Cook, should be divided into several boroughs, along county township lines. Each borough should take charge of all local matters such as zoning, local improvements, fire department, street cleaning, etc.

Each borough should be organized by electing a borough council, with a president and other officers. This movement should be pushed to a successful end, but I am afraid that at this time it is only a political gesture and will not amount to much. It is a challenge to our civic organizations to do something worth while for our community.

GEO. E. SANFORD.

EIGHT HEARTS DOUBLED.

Chicago, March 5.—With reference to your article under the heading, "Eight Hearts Doubled," I can readily see the viewpoint of the person who made the absurd a bid. Eight hearts double with thirteen hearts in his hand, would enable one to make thirteen tricks by letting set one, doubled, making a score of 100 for the opponents. However, not to be overlooked is the score of 100 for the bidder would get for holding all the heart honors in his hand. This makes the score even.

But, on the other hand, were he to permit his opponent to get the bid for seven spades, the latter holding three spades in his hand, the score for the opponent would be as follows:

100 for spade honors in one hand,
63 for seven spade tricks,

assuming that he was not doubled. Were the opponent doubled he would gain an additional score of 113 points. But the question is, can one make a bid of eight with only seven tricks over the "book" in the deck?

HELEN A. RAHR.

COULD HE HAVE GONE TO HIT?

Valparaiso, Ind., March 5.—When your correspondent calculated that with only teen hearts in his hand he could afford to bid eight hearts rather than let his opponent bid seven spades he certainly did not overstate his case. He needed to have failed to count the 100 he would get above the line for a grand slam in addition to his 100 for all five honors. He would have come out 100 ahead of the bid of eight, doubled, and would have broken even on a bid of nine, doubled. Not until a bid of ten, doubled, would he be penalized in the score.

R. S. S.

THE ECONOMIC INTERPRETATION.

Chicago, March 6.—Could it be that Mr. Ford's satisfaction with prohibition is influenced by the evident preference for Lincoln autos shown by our prohibition enriched gangsters?

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house looking for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has followed her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Doc Brown, who is dead, had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little town. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother Steve. Jim rushes her to Steve's saloon where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe and others. As they reach the door Jim puts the lights go out and when the room is lighted again Shear is found crumpled up in his chair dead with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and some one had jostled her. In pushing out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested, but is later released. Jim is determined to find the murderer to clear himself. Ellen arranges a meeting to warn her brother against Dave Moss and Jim learns that Moss is trying to force her to marry his son Pete. He suggests that she marry him. They are quietly married and Jim goes on with his investigation.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

DAVE'S BRAND.

The doctor explained that the casts showed footprints of three different persons.

"How do you know that the track left by that boot was not made earlier in the day? How do you know it wasn't one of the others that was worn by this Blackbeard?"

"I will take your questions categorically, sheriff," Doctor Aubrey replied, in the precise way characteristic of him. "The answer to your first is that I have other tracks here showing the prints of the second and third men trampled out by one made by this boot. Please examine for yourself exhibits labeled 5, 6 and 7, to bear out my statement. The answer to your second inquiry is that this exhibit 3, the footprint made by the boot found tonight, as I have been told, at the home of Mr. Brown, was the only one pointing from the window. This must be an impression of the track made at the point where his foot struck the ground when he jumped from the window."

"More theory," Manders jeered. "You claim there were no footprints of the other two fellows that pointed from the window. Why not? Were the guys still waiting there when you sleuths arrived?"

Doctor Aubrey flushed. He was a man of dignity and he did not care to be mocked.

"The reason is quite clear, sir," he answered stiffly. "The muddy spot was only a small area made by water draining from the roof. When the other men stepped back from it they left no footprints that could be deciphered."

"I see." The face of Manders was hard and expressionless as a block of wood. "What's your idea, gentlemen—that I should arrest Mart Brown and charge him with this murder?"

"Why not send for him and see what explanation he has to offer?" suggested Roundtree.

"All right. I'll do that. Now."

The sheriff stepped to the door and called a colored boy who was passing.

"Yessah?" the boy asked.

"Take a message for me to Mr. Mart Brown at the Green Parrot. Ask him to come and see me right away." Manders tossed the lad a quarter.

"Yessah. I'll shorely do that, mistah," the boy promised.

The sheriff came back into the room. "What about the other fellows outside, gentlemen? You're not going to tell me you don't know who they are, are you?" he scoffed. "Not going to admit there is anything you haven't found out about this case?"

Jim looked amiably at the sheriff. "We're only amateur detectives, Mr. Manders. You've had more experience than we have. Maybe you can help us out. Maybe you can tell us who one of the other men is, or both of 'em."

"Maybe I can, and maybe I won't." Hardeyed, the officer looked at him with sullen annoyance. "It's just possible I've got a line or two on this thing that you haven't."

"I'll bet you have," Jim agreed. For one flitting instant the young man's glance swept over the boots of the sheriff and observed anew an interesting detail concerning them. "I'll bet you could give us spades. You don't get us right. Speaking for myself, I don't aim to butt in on yore business. Point is I won't lie down with a charge of coldblooded murder against me. I aim to see my name cleared, as I told you before. Prove we're wrong about Mart Brown, an' it'll suit me fine. I'm human. It won't hurt my feelings if you can tie the Shear murder on my enemies. You know who they are as well as I do."

"But you can't keep out of it. You've got to horn in and try to hang it on some one else. Listen to me, young fellow. The Browns didn't do this. I don't care what evidence you work up. But you're smart. Nobody can fool you. So you overlook the only clew worth a damn in this whole business." The sheriff spoke with a cold but savage anger.

"And what's that?"

"Are you sure the ace of spades is that clew? Some one standing outside shot out the light. How do you know that's not the real clew?" Jim asked.

The sheriff flashed a swift look at him. "Where do you get that—about some one outside shooting out the light?" he demanded.

"I knew it from the first, because nobody inside could have done it without being seen. But Steve Lawson saw an arm and a flash. He started to tell you so the night of the killing, but Buck Roe gave him a look an' he stopped. Later he told his sister."

"What does that prove?" Manders asked.

"That some fellow standing out there was in cahoots at least with the killer, if he didn't do the job himself."

"That may have been because he wanted to hook it on me."

"Or it may have been because he knew who was out there. Fits in exactly with what I claim. Young fellow, find out why that ace of spades was pinned to Shear's body and you'll know why he was killed."

"I judge you know more about that than you are telling," Jim said.

"I'll tell you two things. The first is that the old road brand of Dave Moss is an ace of spades. He doesn't use it now, but he was using it in the old days. The second is that the show at the Elkhorn is right interesting this week."

Pendleton slapped his great thigh with a hand like a ham. "By jinks, the ace of spades was sure enough Dave's road brand in the old days. I'd plumb let that slip my mind."

"Course that may not cut any ice here, Harrison," Garrick spoke up. "Prob'ly a coincidence, wouldn't you say?"

The sheriff pushed his point aggressively. "Say it was more than a coincidence. Say it was a sign the members of the gang used with each other. Say it was a sign the members of the gang used with each other. Brand. Say it was a sign the members of the gang used with each other. What if old Dave figured Shear was breaking away from him and knew too much? Wouldn't he maybe hit two birds with one stone—kill Shear and leave the ace of spades as a warning to some other fellow in the gang who might be figuring on cutting loose from him?"

"Something to that," admitted Roundtree after a moment's consideration. "If's the sort of trick old Devil Dave would pull to scare some weak-kneed pilgrim he'd tricked into joining the gang."

"If we could find that wabbly pilgrim," Jim suggested. "Who runs with his crowd, except the boys an' Buck Roe?"

"There's a lad called Slim Rogers and another named Tim Henry," the officer said. "Off and on they are with the Moss crowd. So are other riders. It's a loose organization. Likely enough some of the lads have done nothing worse than some brand blotting."

"Dave is a wily old wolf full of mystery," Pendleton said, frowning at the table in absentminded thought. "They'll know only what he wants 'em to know."

Jim said nothing, but his eyes sparkled with light. Manders might be right in saying that the ace of spades was the essential clew. But there was apparent certainty that it pointed to the Moss gang. It might be a gesture of old Dave, a warning to subordinates of what they might expect if they did not come to heel when he whistled.

Good Morning!

"Quick!" cried she. "My bag of adjectives . . .!"

Not enough! Too bad! Not nearly enough adjectives in the bag properly to describe the compelling charm of the screen operetta featuring Dennis King, which has been adapted from the stage version in which he was so justly famous. So—we must just do the best we can with what we have.

"The Vagabond King" is a storm of tempestuous action. It is a glorious sunset of color. It is a whole June garden of emotion, thrill, beauty, whimsy, poetry, and music. (Piece all that together and see what you have.)

The central figure of all this is, of course, Mr. Dennis King, who, as Francois Villon, king and idol of the vagabonds of Paris, is a dynamically romantic personage. His first lines are spoken a bit self-consciously and theatrically—but only the first ones. From that time on he enslaves you as he strides, sings, loves, laughs, fights, conquers, and, in the face of death, tells a royal rapscallion what he thinks of him. (No man has any business with as many dimples as Dennis King possesses!)

The time of the action is, as you know, if you read "If I Were King," by Justin Huntly McCarthy, or saw the stage production, the fifteenth century, and the vacillating, eccentric King Louis XI. totters on a wavering throne while the Duke of Burgundy and his men surround Paris and scornfully await an imminent hour when the throne shall be compelled to surrender.

Through a whim of fate, Villon, the ragged poet, roué, and dreamer who has declared he would be a better king than Louis, becomes grand marshal of France for seven days. On the eighth he is to hang!

Seven days—one hundred and eighty-eight crowded hours . . .! Crowded with what? Let the picture show you! Do he and his followers save France? Ah—DO they . . .!

You will NEVER forget Mr. King as Villon. Miss McDonald, as the king's sister and the lady who gives the hero "only a rose," is charming and sings melodiously, though I do believe Lillian Roth as the tavern girl who adores and dies for Villon is the better actress. O. P. Heggie is fine as the cackling, malicious king. Warner Oland makes a good Thibault, and all other rôles are mighty well portrayed. Direction and photography are beyond criticism.

Villon's "vagabond army" is a delight and a revelation. Hollywood, usually on the search for physical pulchritude, went to the other extreme in seeking types for this crowd of ragged cutthroats. Highways and byways were combed for them—and the types had to be more than that. They had to be intelligent enough to respond to direction, musical enough to follow a tune, and to possess some sense of rhythm. Not such an easy task, would you say? Well, it's been done up brown.

You will see some startling sets and camera effects in this picture, which, as a whole, will strike you as one of the most unusual and stirring productions you have ever witnessed.

THE CAST.

Walter Fairchild.....Conrad Nagel
Florence Wendell.....Lila Lee
Gilbert Gaylord.....Hurh Hustler
Mrs. Rhodes.....Mary Carr
Junior.....Freddie Burke Frederick

This film is an adaptation of "All the King's Men," by Fulton Oursler. It is interesting because of its acting, direction and staging despite the fact that the story is trite and the arguments labored.

The plot concerns itself with a young woman who marries a widower with a small son, whom, against her will, she resents. In time she has a baby of her own. Her little one, in its turn, is not wanted by a man for whom she has decided to leave her husband.

What do you suppose happens, then?

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

After studying more than a score of books by psychologists, sociologists, philosophers and reformers on the subjects of love and marriage, the Presbyterian commission on marriage, divorce and remarriage, meeting behind closed doors yesterday, decided that the old fashioned morality was more effective than "the new doctrine of self expression."

The commission—six ministers and five elders—appointed to study marriage problems and report to the general assembly meeting in Cincinnati May 27, met in the La Salle hotel in a one day session. The purpose is that the general assembly may give to the church "a clear deliverance on the subject of marriage, divorce, and remarriage."

Despite the churchmen's disagreement with the authorities they have been studying, who included Havelock Ellis, Count Hermann Keyserling, Ben Lindsay, and others, as expressed by the commission chairman, the Rev. Ralph M. Davis of Erie, Pa., the commission will recommend a slight alteration in the present Presbyterian stand on remarriage, he said. The plan is to leave more to the minister's discretion.

At present Presbyterian ministers may not marry couples when either party has been married and divorced, unless the divorce was granted on grounds of infidelity or "irremediable desertion." The decision of the commission, to be included in a report to the assembly written by Mr. Davis, was:

"It would seem that the New Testament justifies divorce on at least the two grounds now recognized in our standard. . . . However, it would seem impossible to standardize the conduct of ministers of the church in regard to this matter, for each case must be studied on its own merits."

Mr. Davis, in summarizing the trend of discussion, said some of the members were "very progressive," but that as a whole they agreed that the church must wage war against "that doctrine of self-expression, that preachment of the new reformers who would let human nature have its own way."

"I believe that 99 out of every 100 divorces are caused by that scarlet letter 'A,'" said Mr. Davis. "A man falls in love with a woman who isn't his wife, or a woman with a man. It's human nature, it is said. Well, what can we do? Drive human nature with a tight rein!"

A recommendation that young people in the church be taught "preparation for marriage and sex living, preparation for homes and the literature of the church" will be included in the commission's report.

Mr. Davis said that he could not reveal the commission's stand on birth control.

That there is no substitution for the institution of marriage, and that divorce has not seriously threatened its stronghold, was agreed last night by two speakers who discussed the subject, "Should Divorce Be Made as Easy as Marriage?" in the Illinois Women's Athletic club. It shouldn't and it couldn't, they also agreed.

Collapse of the old public respect for church and state, and the machine age's taking women from their "real sphere" were given by Dr. Horace Bridges, Chicago Ethical society leader, as two reasons for increasing divorces.

"A new sophistry, a desire to experiment, and a certain destructive cynicism, which is one of the accompanying evils of the attitude of facing facts, are responsible for a large number of divorces," Prof. James Todd, sociologist of Northwestern university, the first speaker, said.

High School Girls' Health Is in Danger, City Educators Told

School officials were urged to take a hand in preventing the increase of tuberculosis among high school students, especially girls. That was the message of Miss Katherine Connelly, New York, director of high school education for the National Tuberculosis institute. Miss Connelly addressed high school deans, principals and health workers from Cook county yesterday at a meeting in the Woman's City club.

"In spite of the decrease of tuberculosis among all other groups it is slightly on the increase among young people of high school age," Miss Connelly declared. "The reason is not known, but many believe that high school students are not living in a hygienic manner. The tuberculosis death rate for girls is twice that for boys."

Mental anxiety and constant excitement were named as contributing factors in the tuberculosis increase. Other poor health habits included insufficient sleep, carrying school programs that are too heavy, taking part in extra curricular activities; employment outside school hours.

Children of Dead or Maimed Comrades, Legion's First Care

It is the American Legion's first obligation to see that the children of disabled or dead comrades are not neglected, John Crowley of Boston told the child welfare conference of Area D of the American Legion yesterday. Delegates from several midwestern states are attending the sessions, which will close today at the Stevens hotel.

"If we can make conditions better for all children, so much the better," the speaker said, "but our first responsibility is to keep faith with those for whom the war will never be over—those in hospitals."

The quiet growth of the Legion's welfare department since its creation in 1922 was described by Mrs. W. H. Morgan, member of the national child welfare committee of the Legion auxiliary. She told of the orphans' homes and the child caring service carried on by the Legion's welfare workers. Where possible, she said, the children are kept in their homes. The workers recognize the obligation to all children of this country, and also emphasize the patriotic side of welfare work.

Chicago, Great Central Culture Exchange, Revealed

The cultural side of Chicago life is revealed in statistics made public yesterday by the Association of Commerce. During 1929 the Chicago Art institute had 1,006,132 visitors, a new high record, while the public library in the same year lent more than 14,000,000 volumes, a figure said to be unequaled by any city in the world.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

If you were wealthy and independent where would you like to live?

The Answers.

Miss Adelaide Costello, 7700 South Peoria street, stenographer — California. That's where it's summer most of the time, where you wouldn't have to be worrying about bad winter, where there is lots of warmth and sunshine. Then I could motor, swim, and dance, and otherwise enjoy myself the year around.

Thomas C. Banta, 19 South La Salle street, Y. M. C. A. membership committee — That's a difficult question to answer. I like the west coast pretty well, especially Portland with its attractive surroundings and climate. I lived in Portland for six months last year.

Miss Joy Lloyd, 4833 North Paulina avenue, home girl—I just came back from Jacksonville, Fla. There's no place like Jacksonville in the winter. In motoring back and forth I would stop in Chicago to do my shopping.

Frank Noe, 1123 North Sacramento avenue, contractor — I would live in Chicago. I have done a great deal of traveling—New York and throughout the east. But always when I get back to Chicago I am perfectly satisfied with it. Probably no other city combines so many good points.

Miss Dorothy Imme, 8109 Justine street, stenographer — If I had lots of money and could do as I pleased I would travel and travel until I was ready to settle down in one place. That one place, I think, would be somewhere in Florida; I am quite sure I would prefer Florida to California.

Mr. Stock's Concert Presents Novelties by Two Italian Composers

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Stock's program selections for the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon were about as interesting as the performance itself. They settled into a discussion between composers who had a good deal to say, other composers who had less to say, and the fact that as far as general results were concerned, it mattered little whether they said it in the older, clearer idiom or in the contemporary dialect of modernism.

Two of the works, both Italian, were new here. One was Ildebrando Pizzetti's "Concerta dell'Estate," the second Vincenzo Tommasini's "Preludio, Fanfara e Fuga." In addition there were revivals of Leo Sowerby's "From the Northland," Mr. Stock's own string orchestra setting of Bach's chorale-prelude, "O Mensch, bewein dein Suende gross," and two of the most exciting moments of Wagner's "Die Walkure."

Here were many manners of composition. The Wagnerian excerpts, the introduction to the second act and the Ride of the Valkyries was as exuberant and young and full of life as they were on the day that Wagner wrote them down. The Bach piece, long phrased and leisurely, the Pizzetti Summer Concerto, disdaining the help of programmed significance; the Sowerby suite, more definitely programmed and in perhaps the most modern idiom of all, had something to contribute to music. Consequently four distinct differences of style made little difference in their receptivity.

On the other hand the Schumann Serenade had little beyond a certain mild prettiness—it might make a good ballet of the old school—and the Tommasini Prelude, Fanfare, and Fugue would seem to have been incited mainly by a desire to put notes on paper. So those two, one conventional, the other contemporary, made very little difference either. Seldom has there been a clearer indication that the first duty of the composer is to write music. If he has done that his manner is of secondary importance.

There is reason to believe that the Pizzetti work can, with little trouble, find a permanent place in the orchestra's repertoire. It has melody, color, imagination, in fact, most of the qualities that make the hearer pay attention to music when it is played and remember it afterwards. And practically everything that is to be said of it is also to be said of Mr. Sowerby's suite. This is programmed nature music, but it is music.

Congratulations are due Mr. Stock and the orchestra, especially for these two and the magnificent glories of the Wagner excerpts.

World Unready, Expert Says, for Perfect Child

Faultless Parents, Also, Declared Lacking.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Lest they take themselves too seriously after two days of absorbed attention to expert opinion on the trend of childish minds, educators, social workers, and mere parents were whimsically admonished at a dinner last night at the Palmer house. Any child, they were told, reared by the tenets of the most advanced scientific thought would be as comfortable in life as a fish out of water. For the world, said E. C. Lindeman of the New York School of Social Work, father of four, is far from ready to receive such a prodigy.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago presided at the dinner meeting closing the second day of the conference of the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education. Hundreds who have followed the discussions on the emotional life of the child, the general topic, gathered to hear the comments of two eastern authorities—Dr. Lindeman and M. C. Winternitz, member of the institue of human relations at Yale university.

"An adult never can live in the atmosphere of a child," Dr. Lindeman assured his audience. "The problem is that of adopting and adapting scientific knowledge, gleaned by experts under laboratory conditions, to the actual conditions in individual cases, and of exercising judgment in the application. Expert knowledge is a fine thing, but it may be as well to bear in mind that experts do not always agree.

"It has occurred to me to wonder whether in this country the unusual preoccupation with children and their problems is not a symbol of the bankruptcy of adult American life? Isn't it possible that the amount of study devoted to children is in an attempt to create in the lives of our children interests that we have failed to find? We have spent many years trying to bring the lives of children into a working relationship with scientific knowledge.

"While we are teaching children to be individualists, what kind of a world is it into which they will go to apply that teaching? Isn't this, after all, a collective world? A man said to me lately that behind every great movement was one man and one brain, citing examples from Napoleon down to the late E. H. Gary. I asked the group in which we sat to tell me who was president of the DuPont de Nemours corporation, of the United States Steel corporation, and of other great concerns. Nobody present knew—because leadership has become composite, and while somebody still holds those offices, they are of far less importance than formerly because this happens to be a world in which leadership can become composite.

"Is it wise to teach a child to believe that democracy is great, and then to have him come home and find his own family ruled by an absolute autocrat?

"I do not believe in retrogression. Conditions change and we must change with them. Homes today in which the greatest tragedies occur in this field are those where the parent persists in preserving the old fashioned methods, and the younger generation rebels against it. This is the seat of greatest tragedy."

Emotional problems of adolescence, storm center of innumerable conflicts with parental authority, were interpreted by Augusta Bonner, a director of the Judge Baker Foundation at Boston, on the afternoon program.

"Adolescent boys and girls," she stated, "want various things with a great yearning. It may be a girl's desire to use rouge, disapproved by her father, who thinks her too young for such adornment, or a strand of beads, or her insistence on silk stockings or high heeled slippers. To the adolescent mind these things are symbolical of certain phases of their own ego. They are the means of awakening other people's appreciation of themselves—a natural and normal instinct of that period of the development."

At two other hotels meetings were in progress yesterday on the topic of child welfare. The midwestern regional conference of the Child Welfare League of America was in session at the Auditorium. The Chicago Association of Child Health Study convened at the Drake.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

Veteran of Alteration Department Favors Women's New Styles

After altering many kinds of garments for women during the last half century, Miss Rose Anderson, 521 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, has reason enough, she believes, to cast a vote in favor of the present feminine styles. Miss Anderson is observing her 50th anniversary as an employé of Marshall Field & Co. today.

Starting at 13 years of age as an errand girl in the dressmaking department, Miss Anderson was transferred after five years to the alteration department. There she now is assistant in charge. She has seen her section grow from one with 25 employés to 258.

"Today's styles are certainly more attractive," declared the veteran seamstress, who has had her trials with bell skirts and balloon sleeves. "I can remember when a woman had to have the braid on the bottom of her skirt replaced every week or so because it became frayed and worn from scraping along the sidewalks and streets. And there was nothing more freakish than those funny puff sleeves."

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Rice and Beans.

Some years ago, in some recipes sent to me by an old fashioned and even primitive cook, the statement was made that the recipes contained the "stiff foods," which in this case were red beans and rice, two of the most dependable of world-wide foods. On either one of these foods whole races of people have lived. If we were trying to choose which was the more complete for a diet, we would choose red beans, because they contain protein as well as starch, and have more of the qualities that are in green vegetables than has the rice.

The terms "stiff foods" may be slightly amusing if we look at it from the standpoint, say, of a too stiff breakfast muffin. A too stiff cereal can be ameliorated with milk or cream, while the muffin can only be buttered and not essentially thinned. The latter foods are sometimes so stiff that it would almost seem as though we needed a spring in our throats in order to swallow them.

But there is a fundamental idea in this phrase after all, because in this case it means worth while characteristics. Rice in particular can be a highly esthetic food. We may and should put it into the finest menus more than we do, and lately I have been trying nearly all the possible ways of cooking it and have some new conclusions.

One of the easiest and best ways, but not "the" best, is to wash a cup of rice, put it in the kettle of the double boiler, pour over it two cups of rapidly boiling water and have the water under the kettle boiling. Add the necessary salt, cover closely, lower the fire under the boiler so that there will be no steam streaming out. Keep the water boiling, and cook for three-fourths of an hour or up to an hour so that not a single grain will have a bone in it, and each grain will stand out by itself. Finally, take off the cover and let it dry out about 10 minutes before serving. Now we may serve it with the meat gravy, or with plain butter as a vegetable, or we may use it for a dessert. What is left over can be used in various ways.

Mrs. Bevans Urges You to Enjoy "The Hums of Pooh"

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A book on the care of babies by Miss Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom, a noted authority on the subject, can be had at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 50 cents, or by mail for 65 cents.

Do you know Pooh?

Do you remember how he used to hum "The more it snows—tiddlely-pon, the more it goes—tiddlely-pon, on snowing . . ." etc.?

In case you've forgotten, A. A. Milne and H. Fraser Simson and E. H. Shepard have put down the hums of Pooh in black and white, and E. P. Dutton of New York have printed them. They cost $2.50.

In other words, we have in book form with music and pictures, "The Hums of Pooh."

Now, I can't advise, with wise demeanor, at just what age children will enjoy "The Hums of Pooh." There are grown ups who love Pooh quite as much as the children, and they will love this book. There are 9 and 12 year olds who savor the funny, serious, ridiculous, lovable characters that have appeared in the various Milne books—and they, too, will love the "Hums of Pooh."

I do think this—that the songs will mean more to those who know Christopher Robin and Piglet, and Pooh, and Kanga, and Rabbit's friends and Relations than to those who have never heard of them—though Mr. Milne gives an introduction to each one. Also, I do think it would be too bad to give these songs to very young children just as it is too bad to give the Pooh books to very young children. Some they would "get," but most of the songs have a quality that it seems to me needs, at the very least, 7 or 8 years of living to be appreciated.

"The Hums of Pooh" are very simple, because Pooh was a bear of very little brain. But there is something about them so individual and engaging that as a song book this cannot be put in any category, just as Pooh himself cannot be put in any category. As the old platitude says, "He must be known to be appreciated."

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — The modern tendency is to unify the mode. Smart women in Paris build their chic reputations by wearing things of matching materials. Almost everything, that is, but not quite! Knowing where to draw the line in the matching game is what sets the final seal upon style supremacy. It is very smart to seem careless. Of course, the apparent carelessness is really the result of concentrated study, but that mustn't appear in lines upon the ensemble or the marble brow.

In the fall, it was the thing to match your handbag to the material of your costume, your gloves to your scarf and hat, your handkerchief to your blouse, etc. Now it's better to match your handbag to your leather belt and your stockings to your skin. Hats, though, may be smartly cut or knit from the fabric of your costume, and if shoes are not of identically the same material, they are apt to be of the same leather printed in the same pattern. The little chameleon is the accessory ideal for 1930. Straws are woven to imitate tweeds. Silks, leathers, tricots, are all camouflaged till they can pass for each other.

Jane Regny, who made this girlish suit, is one of the Paris creators who uses only exclusive and handmade materials. This chic example of her art is hand knit of black and white wool. The simple jacket has two flapped patch pockets and a little hidden breast pocket. It is collarless, but its straight fronts turn back into revers. The little inside blouse is of grayish-white crêpe de chine. Its little round split collar is worn outside the coat.

A black leather harness belt at the natural waist keeps the coat closed, or joins the simple skirt to the blouse when the coat is laid aside. The little round bonnet is knit of black and white to match the suit and fits the head. It is finished with a plain black band and then a plain white one. The shoes are of printed leather in black and white exactly like the tricot.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of paintings by Grant Wood are now on view at the National Academy of Art, 230 East Ohio street. Mr. Wood has exhibited in Chicago before and he is well known for his murals and for his beautiful work in stained glass. He may go down in history as the creator of the largest stained glass window in the United States. That is the memorial window in a church in Cedar Rapids. He designed it, however, and carried through the execution of it in Munich.

A number of paintings in his current show are of houses and streets in Munich. They bring forcefully into focus the marvelous cleanliness of that Bavarian city. A little after the war it was one of the dirtiest cities on earth. My impression of it then was a hot wind blowing infinite quantities of paper and dirt into the unsuspecting traveler's face. Since then the city has been put in order. If one throws a street car ticket stub into the street one is fined two marks. Other fines for other carefree solving of the problem of disposal of unwanted trash are in proportion. When this corrective measure went into force it did not take the people of Munich long to clean up their streets.

Chicago could try the same and then we should have no more disorderly Monday mornings in summer with papers blowing all over our parks, our streets would probably be a great deal more attractive, and our civic money chest would be a good bit the richer.

To return to Grant Wood's paintings, they are small and colorful and gay. The "Corn" is the most vibrant scrap of enthusiastic painting present. The three landscapes of stream and woodland in autumn are delightful. The still life of flowers, "Calendulas," is a trifle fretful, and that called "The Quimper Madonna" is a little ponderous. The two paintings of preëminent value are "Door at Freigneux" and "Indian Creek," but taking the paintings as a whole they have a decidedly pleasant flavor.

The exhibition will run through March.

Business Girl Rejects Recent Statement of Altar-Shy Man

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In reply to the man who explained his sex's altar shyness as due to girls expecting too much money, Gertrude says:

"Maybe we working girls do marcel, powder, rouge, and try to dress becomingly and stylishly. If we didn't, would one of the men who complain that we are luxuries give us a second glance?

"I wonder if these same men ever take a look behind the scenes. Every cent in our pay envelope does not go for luxuries. I, for one, maintain a home for my mother. Surely, living according to a moderate standard and dressing neatly cannot be called luxury.

"Some of us do receive good salaries, it is true, but usually not until many years of hard work have been done. There are many girls doing exactly what I am doing, and we do it happily and cheerfully.

"Have these men ever stopped to think that a girl who can juggle a salary to cover living expenses for herself and perhaps for one or two dependents and manages to dress well and to save a little something, might be a good manager of his home and of his salary?

"It is my opinion that these altar shy men are not meeting facts face to face. They may be plain afraid to tackle the proposition, and use the extravagant girl excuse to vindicate themselves. I don't believe there is a girl who would not prefer her own home with the right man. But our quest goes on for one who measures up to our ideals and expectations in character rather than in mere financial standing.

"While I was running off these lines another business girl came in. She has been unusually successful in her work, and after reading the article which provoked this letter of mine she made the remark: 'Show us the men we can love and we will take them if they earn only two dollars a week.' Rather strong, but a reflection of our true feelings, just the same."

Now, boys, you will have to think up a good argument against Gertrude's sound logic or forever hold your peace about girls' extravagance keeping you out of matrimony.

Rouge Needs Touch of An Artist, Not Dauber's Heavy Hand

by Gabriel Tarde

The commonest mistake made in putting on makeup is made by dry rouge users who rub it on too solidly and too heavily. It is not particularly that you fail in fooling people about your color that is complained of, for I don't think any woman is above suspicion, even though her bloom is nature's own. What the heavy dauber does is to fail to give the impression of artistry, and that, as good complexions are now judged, is the crime, not the false color.

Another thing she does is to put her rouge on always with a circular motion, usually a very wide circular effect, when she doesn't plaster the entire cheek with art's greatest gift to women.

I suppose the real reason for most of this barn door lack of artistry is the hurry with which it invariably is done. It is the last minute rite, therefore the least important, it would seem.

Now, the average face is just too nice for such slapstick measures. In selecting dry rouge, in the first place, don't, unless you are the rare type to which it is becoming, go in for the brick dust shades. The blood hues are better. And for experimental work in applying I would suggest purchasing one of those rabbit foot brushes theatrical people are addicted to, and try brushing the rouge on lightly and in a path running from the cheek section near the base of the nose (not too near) and up toward the temples. But brush lightly.

Then, when you have the trick of the deft, light touch, you can use your regular rouge pad more cleverly. Of course, you may not need the rabbit's foot for rouge luck. Just brush the pad over and up the cheek the same way. Do the work in a good light, turning for a clear profile view, too.

Lips, somehow, are forgiven their heavily laden color, I suppose, because they are not so disfiguring as a cheek upon which a loud, hectic circle of rouge stands out like a signal light.

The powder, you understand, is applied over the entire face before the dry rouge is laid on. With the light application of rouge, then, you do not have to go back over the rouge job with the powder puff.

Honor Harding, 25 Years Leader U. of Illinois Bands

Urbana, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—Prof. A. A. Harding, who has directed the University of Illinois bands for 25 years, celebrated his silver anniversary by conducting the concert band in its 40th annual concert tonight. Afterwards he was given a huge silver loving cup from the present members of the band. President David Kinley praised Prof. Harding during the concert intermission in the presence of many notable band directors and composers from over the country.

The band was conducted in two of its numbers tonight by the men who composed two of the famous numbers dedicated to the university and the band, Harry L. Alford of River Forest, composer of the "March of the Illini," and Karl L. King of Fort Dodge, Ia., composer of the "Pride of the Illini" march.

Bishop Griswold Takes Place as Head of the Chicago Diocese

The Rt. Rev. Sheldon Munson Griswold, suffragan bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago for the last thirteen years, became bishop of Chicago yesterday as successor to the late Charles P. Anderson. Having received the approval of a majority of the house of bishops and standing committees of Episcopal dioceses of the country, Bishop Griswold automatically became the head of the local diocese.

A total of 114 bishops had approved his election, Episcopal headquarters, 664 Rush street, announced.

Bishop Griswold will be formally elevated to his new office at ceremonies expected to take place in about ten days. He is the fourth bishop of Chicago in the nearly 100 years' existence of the local diocese.

Cornelia Lunt, at Nearly 87, to Be Honored

BY THALIA

Miss Cornelia Gray Lunt's birthday on March 19 is of far more interest than the average natal anniversary. For one thing, she will be 87 years old this month, and for another, she is one of the oldest living persons born in Chicago.

Her father was the late Orrington Lunt, founder of Evanston. Besides these genealogical details, Miss Lunt is distinguished, as hosts of friends all over the world can testify, by a most remarkable and beloved personality. She is extraordinarily active and interested in all manner of young things and people.

Evanston always turns out to wish Miss Lunt well on her birthday, and there always is a steady stream of friends entering Anchorfast all day long, bearing gifts and greetings.

She used to give large birthday parties, but of recent years she has not planned any such gatherings but receives informally. This year, the Evanston Chamber of Commerce has asked her to be its special guest at its weekly meeting on Monday, March 17.

Miss Lunt is a veteran traveler. It is her custom to set off for Europe in the summer so that she avoids this climate, hostile to her hay fever, a plan she intends to follow this year, also.

The Woman's guild and auxiliary of Christ church in Winnetka is arranging an exhibition of summer household fashions to be shown next Monday. Samples of hand made luncheon, bridge and breakfast linen sets, guest towels, beverage napkins, and blanket covers will be included in the display. Several members of the guild are to arrange tables for luncheon and breakfast, and thus show the work to best advantage.

Mrs. William S. Elliott and Mrs. Rollin D. Wood are to be in charge of a sale of pottery. Mrs. Robert N. Golding and Mrs. William S. Rankin are to arrange quartet tables in pastel colorings. Mrs. Robert S. Laird, Mrs. Ernest Ballard, and Mrs. Robert C. Biddle are to set breakfast tables.

Orders will be taken and filled by the sewers of the guild. A new department has been organized to make decorated boxes. Mrs. John W. Miller is in charge with Margot Atkin, Betty Pain, and Judith Walsh helping her. The committee has evolved the idea of decorating boxes with snapshots and photographs.

The Lake Shore League of Women Voters is to hold a study class and discussion of Cook county government on Monday from 10:30 to 12:30 o'clock in the apartment of Mrs. Samuel Weis in the Drake hotel. Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, fourth vice president of the National league, is to conduct the class. Miss Paula Wilms of 999 Lake Shore drive is chairman of reservations.

The Arts club has sent out cards for an illustrated lecture by Thomas Munro on "Modern Art and the Old Masters" on Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Charles T. Boynton of Highland Park and her daughter, Miss Edith Boynton, have just arrived on the French Riviera, according to word received by members of their family here. After about a month Mrs. and Miss Boynton will then go to Rome, and later to Spain.

Mr. and Mrs. David A. Crawford of Evanston are being congratulated on the birth of their second son, Edward Webb Crawford, on Tuesday at the Presbyterian hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Uri B. Grannis returned to Lake Forest yesterday after a holiday in the west. Mrs. Grannis, with Mrs. J. Finley Barrel, spent the early part of the winter at La Jolla, Cal., and later joined Mr. Grannis for several weeks' sojourn at Pheonix, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Strotz of 1250 Astor street will leave on Monday to spend several days in New York before embarking on a West Indian cruise. On their return they plan to visit Mrs. Strotz's mother, Countess Filipponi, at Palm Beach. The Paul Butlers are guests of the countess now and probably will come back to Chicago with Mr. and Mrs. Strotz in late April.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clarkson of 14 West Elm street are at Hot Springs, Ark., for a stay of several weeks.

Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair, who has been visiting with relatives and friends here since shortly after Christmas, sailed on Tuesday on the Compte de Grasse for Paris.

The Warren Crawford residence in Winnetka is to go on sale this spring, and the Crawfords are planning to move in town to establish a permanent residence. They have purchased a co-op apartment at 1206 Astor street, which they will not occupy until next season, however. Meanwhile, they will take temporary quarters.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Janet Tietjens, daughter of Mrs. Cloyd Head [Eunice Tietjens] of 154 East Pearson street, to Chester Hart, son of George D. Hart of 1158 South Clinton avenue, Oak Park. Miss Tietjens is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where she is now engaged in post-graduate archaeological work.

For the last two summers she has accompanied the archaeological expeditions sponsored by the Museum of New Mexico to excavate pre-Spanish Pueblo remains. Mr. Hart is an architect, having received his training at the University of Chicago, and at the architectural school of Washington university. The announcement of Miss Tietjens' engagement is coincident with her debut as an author. "The Jawbreakers' Alphabet," a volume of children's jingles written in collaboration with her mother, has just been published. The wedding date has not yet been set, but probably will be this summer.

Lives Are Prolonged, but Jobs Are Scarcer, Conference Verdict

While the average life is longer, the percentage of persons over 60 years of age still gainfully employed steadily is declining. The problem of outworn and dependent workers is becoming increasingly acute.

That was the consensus yesterday at a meeting of representatives of labor, industry, philanthropy and social science at the University of Chicago. The session was under the auspices of the Deutsch Foundation and the school of social service administration. There will be another meeting today.

Miss Florence E. Parker of the bureau of labor statistics at Washington pointed out that only 80,000 persons can be cared for in the old people's homes now existing in the United States. Ninety per cent of these homes, she said, have waiting lists. Other restrictions and high entrance requirements keep many needy persons from some of them, she said.

Perry A. Fellows of Detroit, vice president of the Society of Industrial Engineers, told that a recent survey showed 80 per cent of the industrial managers are agreed that industry must meet the question of limiting ages of workers, but are divided on the solution of the restaurant problem. Only one in every five industries has fixed an age limit, he said.

The obilition of alms houses and the establishment of hospitals to care for those who have chronic diseases was recommended by Dr. E. P. Boas of Mount Sinai hospital, New York. He said alms houses are little more than boarding places, with no provision for treating the sick.

Prof. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago, who presided at the conference, presented statistics to show that in 1890 seventy-four per cent of the men over 65 were gainfully employed, while in 1920 the percentage had dropped to 60 per cent.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS

This dress shows a wrap around treatment with side drapery that combines with the surplice bodice to give the figure graceful length. The normal waistline is indicated by seaming that makes the close fit through the hips and the molded line of the body more noticeable. The neckline with its surplice vestee is generally becoming. This design would be very smart made of a novelty silk and wool crêpe in dark plum tones, while the shawl collar of plain faille crêpe in a blending tone and the vestee in white piqué will give a smart finish.

The pattern, 3,279, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

SENATE CHANGES MIND ON CEMENT; VOTES FOR DUTY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—While coalition leaders continued to protest against eleventh hour tariff log rolling and vote trading the senate again today reversed itself, putting cement back on the dutiable list. An amendment to impose a duty of 4 cents per 100 pounds, proposed by Senator H. F. Kean [Rep., N. J.], was adopted by a vote of 45 to 37. This was a reversal of the action of Jan. 21, when the senate in committee of the whole, by a vote of 40 to 35, restored cement to the free list, as in the present law, eliminating the house bill rate of 8 cents per 100 pounds.

Senators James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], W. B. Pine [Rep., Okla.], R. F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], and M. F. Tydings [Dem., Md.], who voted previously to put cement on the free list, supported the 6 cent duty. Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], one of the radicals, after first voting against the Kean amendment, changed his vote, in order to be able to move for a reconsideration.

Nye for Reconsideration.

Senator Nye, who was one of the five radicals who voted for a higher duty on sugar on Wednesday when support of oil and lumber senators made possible a reversal of action in that controversy, served notice that he also would move for a reconsideration of the sugar vote.

The North Dakota senator told the senate that while he had consistently supported an increase in the duty on sugar and believed a higher rate to be justified, he was unwilling to become involved in the oil, lumber and sugar combination with any political consequences which might result from it. It was made evident that the other radicals had brought pressure to bear upon Senator Nye and that they have not yet given up hope of smashing the new combination. A shift of five votes would make possible reversal of the action by which the duty on Cuban sugar was increased from 1.76 to 2 cents per pound.

The 45 senators who voted for the 6 cents on cement included 36 Republicans and 9 Democrats. The 37 senators against any duty included 24 Democrats and 13 Repuolicans.

Glenn and Deneen Paired.

Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] voted against the duty, being virtually the only Republican who is classed consistently with the regulars, to do so. Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] was paired in favor of the duty.

The senate remained in session tonight, taking up amendments to the earthenware schedule. By a vote of 30 to 27 the senate restored the house rate of 10 cents per dozen pieces and 45 per cent on plain earthenware and crockery.

The senate also concurred in a committee amendment approving a duty of 50 per cent instead of 10 cents per dozen pieces and 50 per cent on decorated chinaware.

Thos. Masaryk 80 Years Old; Czecho-Slovaks Honor Him

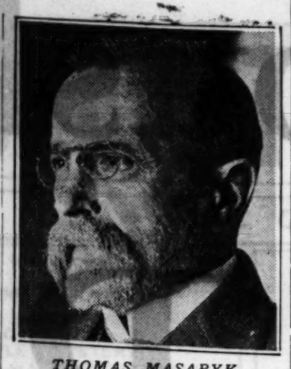
BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, March 7.—A quiet little man, whose father was a cab driver, and he himself a blacksmith's apprentice in his youth, was hailed as a second Abraham Lincoln by his people here today.

It was the celebration of the eightieth birthday of Thomas Garrigue Masaryk, president of the republic of Czecho-Slovakia, and this 1,000 year old capital of Bohemia went wild about it.

Prague has not seen such scenes since 1918, when the Czecho-Slovakian national assembly threw off the yoke of the Hapsburgs, proclaimed Czecho-Slovakia a republic and named Prof. Masaryk its first president.



THOMAS MASARYK.

A good share of the 6,000,000 Czechs who rule this heterogeneous post-war nation of 13,000,000 people seemed to have flocked to Prague, which was bedecked with flags. In their costumes they paraded the streets, singing folk songs and shouting at the top of their voices:

"The people love Masaryk because he loves the people."

It was not the voice of a united nation, however. None of the republic's 1,000,000 Hungarians cared to come to the capital, nor did the Ruthenes, nor the more rabid of the 3,500,000 Germans. But the rancor of the nation, composed of antagonistic minorities, was forgotten, at least at Prague.

100 Cannon Shots Start Fête.

A salvo of 100 cannon shots started the festivities this morning. Later there was a gigantic parade and a review of troops. This evening there were gala performances in all theaters.

In the historical royal palace, which was built by the Hapsburgs, President Masaryk, looking as vigorous as a middle aged man, received the diplomatic corps. Later he addressed both houses of parliament. Quoting Lincoln's Gettysburg address, he declared that democracy must be carried out by Czecho-Slovakia, and this meant adequate representation of the nation's minorities. He admitted that one of the most pressing problems of the Czechs was working out an accord with the 3,500,000 Germans whom the peace treaty had attached to the country.

"These Germans form an integral part of our nation, and they must be allowed to take their rightful part," he said.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PORT AU PRINCE, March 7.—The Catholic church of Haiti, after discussion among its five bishops, officially aligned itself today with the opposition forces against American occupation.

The attitude of the church was made known to President Hoover's commission investigating conditions here through a formal statement read by Archbishop Conan to all five American representatives when they paid a ceremonial call to the archbishop's palace. Practically all the clergy of Haiti, which is overwhelmingly Catholic, are of white and French birth. The archbishop in his statement pointed out the fact that the clergy are loath to participate in political issues because they are foreigners, but he declared the people's sufferings are their own, and Haiti, jealous of its liberty, had not had true independence since the entry of American forces in 1915.

"Church Will Rejoice."

"The clergy will rejoice with all its heart when the present situation is ended," said Archbishop Conan, "and we will joyfully chant a Te Deum in solemn thanksgiving. Ministers as we are of the church, which teaches that occupation of a free country by another country is an abnormal, sorrowful thing which all should seek to end as soon as posible, knowing, moreover, as we do, how this beloved people suffers in national dignity by being held in tutelage, with all our hearts we make our own their sufferings, their complaints, their hopes."

The action of the clergy is particularly interesting, since President Borno is an active Catholic and the clergy personally speak very highly of him. The Catholic church of Haiti, however, feels that it has suffered many disadvantages as a result of the American occupation. Catholicism is the official religion of Haiti, and by a concordat entered into by the Haitian government with the Holy See in 1860, the Catholic church had a voice in all education. Under the American occupation, however, American directed schools have been supplanting government schools to some extent.

Masons Also Join Move.

By an odd coincidence the statement of the Catholic position was followed in only a few hours by an official declaration of the Haitian Masonic order demanding American withdrawal and a return to representative government.

This declaration was made at this morning's open hearing by Emanuel Rampy, grand master of the order in Haiti. He declared he spoke in the name of Masons, who have 74 lodges and 200,000 members in all parts of the country.

DIES OF INJURY IN BRAWL.

Pedro Esponsa, 36 years old, died yesterday in the County hospital of a skull fracture suffered in a fight on Feb. 23 at 707 De Koven street. Esponsa lived in a camp in the Proviso yards of the Chicago and North Western railroad.

HUSBAND CUTS WRISTS OF WIFE ASKING DIVORCE

Her wrists slashed by her estranged husband, Mrs. Sananta Strom, 29 year old nurse at the Berwyn hospital, was in a critical condition from loss of blood last night. The husband, Michael Strom, 32 year old truck driver, who slightly cut his own wrist, was locked up by Berwyn police, charged with intent to commit murder.

Mrs. Strom, who filed suit for divorce two weeks ago, called at her husband's home, 1270 Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, yesterday, to pack her clothing. She was in the bathroom gathering her linen and cosmetics when Strom entered. After a few sharp words Strom took his razor from the cabinet and slashed her left wrist.

"Here, finish the job," his wife said, baring her right arm. He accepted the dare, then slashed his own wrist and called the police as Mrs. Strom fainted.

Gus Radkovitz, 20 years old, 5040 South Carpenter street, was being held at the Rogers Park station last night for investigation in connection with several robberies after he had been captured through the pluck of Miss Dorothy Carlson, an employé of a bakery at 1504 Howard street. Miss Carlson recognized Radkovitz as the man who had robbed a truck driver earlier in the day and trailed him to a fruit store, where he was captured.

RAIDERS SEIZE WINE VALUED AT $1,000,000

Sacramento, Cal., March 7.—(AP)—Nearly 200,000 gallons of wine, valued at approximately $1,000,000, was confiscated today by federal prohibition agents in a raid on the Silva Brothers bonded winery, 12 miles east of here.

Manuel I. and King Silva, brothers, were taken into custody and subsequently released on $5,000 bond each by United States Commissioner John Q. Brown Jr. The federal operatives declared the arrest and seizure of the wine resulted from receipts of numerous complaints regarding alleged illicit sale of wine to unauthorized parties.

The raiders padlocked the doors leading into the warehouse, where the vats, of 2,000 gallon capacity each, are stored.

SHIP AGROUND OFF HATTERAS; CREW IN PERIL

Norfolk, Va., March 7.—(AP)—An unidentified three masted schooner was blown ashore tonight near the Creeds island coast guard station, seven miles south of Cape Hatteras, division coast guard headquarters was advised. The message stated that the vessel was in the breakers and the only hope of rescue for the crew was by breeches buoy, as heavy seas driven by a southeast gale were breaking over the craft.

DR. COOK, AT 65, READY TO LEAVE PRISON TODAY

Leavenworth, Kas., March 7.—(AP)—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, whose career as physician, explorer, author, lecturer and oil promoter was interrupted by a 14 year sentence to Leavenworth prison, is prepared to face the world again at the age of 65.

A recommended parole was approved today by the attorney general at Washington. As soon as it is received here, probably late tomorrow or Sunday, the man who won instant fame and later condemnation by his announced discovery of the north pole in 1908 will be released.

Convicted of using the mails to defraud in connection with an oil promotion scheme at Fort Worth, Tex., Dr. Cook has served nearly five years of his sentence. He also spent 14 months in jail while waiting for a decision on an appeal.

He has edited the prison publication, the New Era, and has expressed a desire to continue his writings. It has been indicated he may devote some time to defending his claim of being the first explorer to reach the north pole.

ESSEX CHALLENGER WEEK

DETROIT TO CHICAGO—FOUR HOURS THIRTY-TWO MINUTES

Chicago's chief contribution to the events of Essex Challenger Week was in lowering all time record between Detroit and Chicago for any kind of transportation except airplane. Average time for 273 miles—just 60 miles an hour. Best previous automobile record beaten by 1 hour and 8 minutes. Michigan Central's crack train, The Twilight's, time was lowered nearly one-third, or by 1 hour and 28 minutes. This marvelous feat established for Essex outstanding reliability at sustained high speed. Let us show you other equally remarkable records in economy, reliability and fast getaway.

In every part of the United States and Canada more than 5,000 Essex cars participated in Challenger Week. Average speed established above 70 miles an hour. Average economy shown in every sort of performance in excess of 20 miles to the gallon. Reliability—over 1,300 miles in 24 hours. Brake tests exceeded police safety requirements by 40 per cent. Fast getaway from standing start to 50 miles an hour in 11 seconds; to 60 in 15½ seconds; to 70 in 24 seconds. These are but a few high spots attained in the wonderful results and records of Challenger Week.

ACCELERATION—Tuesday, March 4, hill climbing test, climbed Snake Hill between Naperville and Downers Grove, started at the base at 5 miles an hour in high and crossed the peak at 25 miles an hour with Mr. R. V. Hamilton, representative of the Downers Grove News.

ECONOMY—Monday, March 3, 1930, made economy test from Downers Grove to De Kalb, Ill., and back, 90 miles, an average of 22 7-10 miles to the gallon of gasoline, with a representative of the Downers Grove News, Mr. R. V. Hamilton.

Come take a ride yourself. Know by personal experience what this brilliant New Essex Challenger can do. Its exploits of Challenger Week have swept the country. They were so widely followed and aided by public participation that we are continuing the invitation to Ride—Ride—Ride!

Every locality now knows Essex for the accomplishment of some great feat. Hills seldom attempted in any car were climbed by Essex in high gear. Remarkable economy proofs were established. New acceleration marks were made. Intercity records for automobiles and for crack trains were lowered. Even many of the famous records set by the previous Essex Challenger were shattered.

Most important of all—Challenger Week convinced tens of thousands that Essex represents the greatest dollar for dollar value in car satisfaction that the industry offers. They are talking about it everywhere—about its beauty—its comfort—its brilliant performance and economy. They are convincing others. They are sending others to ride. They are making YOU want to ride before you buy any car. We will gladly give you a personal demonstration of any of these proofs which Essex has established.

ILLINI HURDLER TIES RECORD IN BIG 10 TRIALS

SOX SCHEDULE 8 MORE GAMES WITH GIANTS

Kamm Goes to Work

A TELEGRAM from Willie Kamm, received at the offices of the Chicago White Sox yesterday said the star third baseman was "leaving San Francisco tomorrow to join the team at the training camp."

Kamm had been described as one of the Sox holdouts. The telegram made no mention of contract terms, but indicated Kamm was ready to get back in a Sox uniform.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 7.—Secretary Harry Grabiner of the Chicago White Sox today announced that the Sox and New York Giants have added eight games to their interleague spring series. The added games bring the total Sox-Giant contests to 25, which is said to set an all time record for spring games between clubs of the American and National leagues.

The scheduling of the extra games prepares the way for an unusual situation, in that the White Sox will play the Giants in more games than will the Cubs, the National league calendar calling for but 22 Cub-Giant contests.

Seven of the eight added games will be played at the Texas league park in San Antonio and the other in Kerrville, Tex. Two of the games are to be chazity affairs—the one at Kerrville to be under the auspices of the American Legion and one here for the benefit of the Catholic orphanage.

Also Books San Antonio.

Mr. Grabiner also booked a game with the San Antonio Texas league team here March 25, bringing the total number of exhibition games to be played by the Giant and Sox first teams to 35.

March 11, 12, 13, 15, 16, and 18 at San Antonio.
March 19 at Kerrville.
March 29 at Fort Worth.
April 7 at Evansville, Ind.
April 8 at Indianapolis.
April 10 at Fort Wayne.
April 11 at Toledo, O.
April 12 and 13 at Chicago.

University of Texas, March 17; San Antonio, March 25; Waco, March 28; Dallas, March 31 and April 1; Fort Worth, April 2 and 3, and Little Rock, April 4, 5, and 6.

Manager Donie Bush has announced no changes in his plans for the opener with the Giants at Houston.

Frasier Starts Today.

Vic Frasier will start and will pitch for three innings, then Ed Walsh will do his stuff for three innings. The finishing pitcher will be determined somewhat by the score as the game nears the finish, but either Ted Lyons or Ted Blankenship will be the selection.

The death of Alphonse Thomas Sr. in Baltimore yesterday, made the date of Tommy Thomas' return uncertain. Because of certain matters pertaining to his father's affairs, it was thought possible that Tommy would not return to camp before ten days.

SOX STAND PUZZLES ART.

Dallas, Tex., March 7. —(AP)—Arthur Shires, now in the depths of gloom, sadly eyed the Dallas, Tex., league Steers workout today and remarked that he couldn't see why the White Sox could expect him, one of the world's greatest drawing cards, to toil this season for a smaller stipend than some of the Texas league athletes he was watching.

Shires declared he had given up a good paying proposition in winter exhibition fighting [in the ring] in order to please the Sox magnates. He opined that on top of that big sacrifice on his part, he received a minor league contract.

So, Art is going to turn to other fields, according to reports. First, however, he is making a trip to McKinney, Tex., to express appreciation to Art Largent, Sox fan, for past favors.

Carroll Beats Ripon, 35-26; Ends Season Undefeated

Ripon, Wis., March 7.—[Special.]—Carroll college ended its season undefeated in the Big Four basketball conference by virtue of a 35 to 26 victory over Ripon tonight. The Pioneers led at the half, 19 to 13.

RUTH REJECTS $80,000 OFFER FOR TWO YEARS

Babe Asks $5,000 More than Ruppert's Bid.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 7.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth and the New York American league baseball club each took one stride nearer a working agreement today. But the clubhouse conference between Col. Jacob Ruppert and the Bambino, the third business meeting they have held this year so far, adjourned without a handshake.

What will be, if agreement is reached, the highest playing salary in baseball history, still is only a hypothetical number. Today Ruppert offered Ruth a two years' contract for $80,000 a year, a $5,000 increase over the top figure previously stipulated by the club.

Ruth's concession was to reduce the time term of the contract. He wants two years instead of three, but kept the figures fixed at $85,000 annually. One more step like today's by either side means an agreement, but neither side showed any disposition to advance either a nickel or minute beyond today's limit. Prospects tonight point to Ruth's proved talent as an autograph writer being confined this month to signing baseballs.

"That's the best offer we can make," said Ruppert. "That's our last word. What happens now? I don't know."

"I don't see why Colonel Ruppert should quibble about a mere $5,000," said the Babe. "I'm willing to take it for two years instead of three, but it has to be at my figures."

The moot point as to the Babe's appearance in Yankee exhibition games without being signed to a contract was answered in the affirmative by both sides.

"Sure, I'll play," said Babe when asked if he would grace the Yankee lineup in tomorrow's game with the Braves.

Both Sides Thoughtful.

"Baseball rules allow us to have unsigned players in our lineup until the season opens," stated Ruppert.

Both sides of the impassé appeared thoughtful under cross-examination, not to say moody. Both Col. Ruppert and the Babe seemed to consider the opposite side the slightest bit unreasonable.

The conference happened about 1 o'clock today, just after a scheduled six inning intra-camp game had been called at the end of the third on account of a small tornado.

43 TEAMS START PLAY; U. S. CAGE TITLE AT STAKE

Kansas City, Mo., March 7.—(AP)—Forty-three teams tonight had entered the national A. A. U. basketball tournament. Ten quintets are scheduled to meet tomorrow night in preliminary games designed to reduce the field for the start Monday morning.

Hall Defeats Williams for Florida Net Title

Palm Beach, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., today won the Florida men's tennis singles title by defeating R. Norris Williams, New York, former captain of the American Davis cup team, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4.

Illini Gridder Suffers Leg Fracture; Out Six Weeks

Lafayette, Ind., March 7.—[Special.]—Seeking the first perfect Western conference basketball record since 1919, Purdue's championship five will make its final appearance of the season here tomorrow night against Chicago. With nine straight victories the Boilermakers already have clinched the title.

In addition to closing a great season, the Chicago game will bring to an end the collegiate basket careers of Purdue's great trio—Charles Murphy, Glen Harmeson, and Herman Boots—who in three years of competition have played on teams that have brought the Boilermakers an undisputed title, a share in another, and runnerup honors.

Chicago's new lease on life, most evident against Illinois, has dispelled all thoughts of a pushover game. Coach Lambert plans to start the same combination that has carried the burden for Purdue.

GRIFFITH WINS; FRIEDMAN NEARLY K. O.'S HIM IN 7TH

Boston, Mass., March 7.—(AP)—Tuffy Griffith of Chicago barely escaped being knocked out here tonight while he was outpointing Fritty Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, in the Boston garden's 10 round feature bout, in a sizzling, slugging set-to. In the seventh Friedman's hard lefts to the body had Tuffy in distress, but the bell sounded before the Boston boy could put over a finishing blow. Griffith weighed 184½ and Friedman 182.

EDDIE SHEA BEATS SMITH.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 7.—The abuse heaped on Charley Grimm's Rebels yesterday in the first of the intra-camp games was repeated by the Cub regulars this afternoon in the show that polished off the entire outfit for the opener of the exhibition campaign tomorrow at Los Angeles. In the combat today, the Rebels were handed the short end of a 6 to 5 count, but they didn't accept it as final until after they had staged a ninth round rally that gave young Malcom Moss, hurling for the regulars, something to worry about.

Although returned victors, the regular team was guilty of a few things that caused Manager McCarthy to become a bit crisp in his sideline comment. The boss was amazed by a series of four errors committed in the opening round. Because of the weak defense, the Rebels were able to amass three runs at the kickoff, but they lost the advantage almost immediately because of Guy Bush's ineffectiveness.

Bush Is Ineffective.

Bush, at his own request, labored through five sessions in the Rebels' cause and was actually bearing down. The heavy men of the regular cast bumped him for two runs in the first round. He was whacked for two more in the second because the opposing hurler, Sheriff Blake, doubled with two on. Mr. Bush took another slight jolt in the third when Tolson spanked a homer to right. Heathcote's homer off Rookie Nelson in the seventh produced the regulars' last run.

Blake's warmup against the Rebels also was of five rounds in length, and it would have been marked by unusual success if his co-workers hadn't put on that comical first inning. Only two blows, one by Grimm, the other by Beck, were made in this chapter, but scoring was easy because of wild throws by Bell, English, and Zack Taylor, and fumble by Tolson. Blake yielded only two more hits.

Moss Proves He's Wild.

Moss, the collegiate southpaw who followed Blake, showed plainly that stories of his wildness are based on fact. He looked like a past master in his first session, the sixth. Then the Rebels mussed him up and he escaped in the seventh with two on the bases. He got away in the eighth after filling the bases with only one out. But in the ninth Cuyler singled and Grimm clouted a homer, leaving the Rebels one shy of a tie. This upset the dapper fellow so completely that he walked three men, but a fast double play, started by Hornsby, put a damper on the rally.

For the first of the exhibitions at Los Angeles tomorrow McCarthy isn't going to assign Cuyler to the lead off berth. The top place will be occupied by English with Grimm, the one left handed hitter among the regulars, following. Behind this pair wil be Hornsby, Wilson, Cuyler, Stephenson and Bell in the order named.

IN GOLF FINAL

Misses Orcutt, Van Wie Reach Tourney Final

Miss Orcutt beat Miss Collett, 2 and 1, ending the match with a par 4 on the seventeenth green. Miss Van Wie's margin over Miss Hicks was 3 and 2. The victory places Miss Van Wie in the position of being able to gain permanent possession of the Mrs. W. R. Kenan Jr. cup, while Miss Orcutt will be playing for her second leg on the trophy.

The meeting between Miss Van Wie and Miss Orcutt tomorrow brings these two luminaries together for the second time during the winter season. They were the finalists for the Florida state crown at Palm Beach two weeks ago, and Miss Orcutt was the winner on the 20th hole.

Uzcudun Settles with Trio of Ring Pilots

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, peacefully settled his differences today with a trio of former managers—Al Mayer, Bertye Perry, and Arthur Soules. A division of the profits of Uzcudun's bout here with Otto Von Porat had threatened to result in lawsuits. The controversy was settled, Paulino said, by awarding the three former pilots 10 per cent of his share in the receipts of that match.

Rochester Beats Cleveland Pro Five; Increases Lead

Rochester, N. Y., March 7.—Rochester defeated the Cleveland Rosenblums tonight, 22 to 15, in an American Basketball league tilt which advanced the Centrals' margin on first place to one and one-half games. Rochester led most of the action, being behind but twice at 8 to 7 and 10 to 8. The first half closed with the home club on the long end of a 14 to 10 count.

MORTON DEFEATS ROOSEVELT FIVE IN DISTRICT MEET

Harrison 33 to 29 Victor Over Marshall.

The first lap in the race for the Illinois high school basketball championship will end tonight with the crowning of district champions in fifty-six district centers. Semi-final games will be played this afternoon. The district winners will journey to eight sectional meets next week to compete for the right to enter the final round opening March 20 at the University of Illinois.

Harrison Tech, present west section champion of the City league and winner of the district tournament at La Grange last year, entered the semi-final round yesterday by defeating an old rival, Marshall, 33 to 29. Marshall led at the quarter, 6 to 0, and the half, 16 to 8, but the Techs overtook them in the third period. Capt. Eddie Odron of the Harrison lightweights starred with 10 points, while Sam Kleinberg and Oscar Tucker of the Marshall lights led the losers.

Morton, Suburban league champion, scored its second victory in the La Grange meet by defeating Roosevelt, north section titleholder, 27 to 18. Rubado led the victors with eight baskets. Bensenville and Riverside scored second round victories over La Grange and Hinsdale. Harrison will meet Bensenville today, while Morton and Riverside clash in the second semi-final.

Bill Haarlow's twelve points featured in Bowen's 18 to 11 victory over Hyde Park in the Joliet district meet. Waukegan, favorite in its own tournament, entered the semi-finals by trimming Des Plaines, 34 to 16. New Trier of the Suburban league was eliminated by Libertyville, 18 to 11, after one of the best games of the Waukegan tournament. Lineups:

Balk Plan for Harness Races in Lincoln Park

A group of north side business men, headed by Dr. Anson Cameron, 30 North Michigan avenue, recommended yesterday that a 20 acre tract in Lincoln park be set aside and converted into a half mile race course. Dr. Cameron's group proposed to conduct harness races there once each week without wagering or purses.

But later yesterday Sheldon Clark, acting president of the park board, recommended that the request for a Lincoln park race track be denied. His recommendation was adopted.

Hawks Lose Wentworth; Meet Pirates

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Now that the business of deciding who is to participate in playoffs for the Stanley cup is over and the Chicago Blackhawks are assured of at least one shot at the world's championship, they can settle down to the unfinished business of beating the New York Rangers out of second place. They start on that tonight, playing the Pirates, while the Rangers engage the wily Les Canadiens at Montreal.

In their final drive for second place the Hawks will be without the defensive services of Marvin Wentworth, who was left in St. Luke's hospital when the Hawks departed for the east yesterday to play Pittsburgh in Fort Erie, Ont., tonight. Wentworth is suffering from catarrhal jaundice and will be out for the rest of the season, but may get into the playoffs. Incidentally, Lionel Ritchman, best defense man of Boston, against whom the Hawks play two of their remaining games, also is out with a broken jaw.

Playoffs Start March 20.

Places for the first playoff games cannot be determined until the final standing of the teams is decided. If the Blackhawks finish in second place the first game of the playoffs will be at the Stadium March 21 and the second in Canada March 23. If the Hawks finish third their first playoff game will be in Canada March 20 and the second in Chicago March 23.

Proximity of the playoffs, which start March 20 and run into the first week in April, brings up the division of the "spoils" for which the hockey players have been working since Nov. 14. The division of money on the playoffs is similar to the world's series in baseball, yet, since the limited seating space of hockey arenas makes the total gate less than baseball, the winners of the Stanley cup will get far less than the baseball players. Benton's Bruins, last year's world champions, collected approximately $1,200 each.

Four Series in Playoff.

Inasmuch as there are four series in the hockey playoffs, the division becomes somewhat complicated. But the players' split is so arranged that it is to the advantage of any player to win each series in the fewest number of games.

All players' pools are split 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser. In the series A, between the two first place clubs in each division of the league, 45 per cent of the net proceeds [receipts less expenses such as rink rent, traveling expenses, etc.] go to the players, 15 per cent to the league and 20 per cent to the club for the first three games. The proceeds of the fourth and fifth games, if necessary, are split 40 per cent to each club and 20 per cent to the league.

In the B series, between the two second place clubs, the net proceeds are split 50-50 between the players and the league, the clubs getting nothing, and this split also holds true for the C series between the third place clubs.

How Final Is Divided.

In the D series, between the winning second and third place clubs, which is decided on a basis of two out of three games, the players and league split 50-50 on the first two games. On the third game, if necessary, each club receives 40 per cent and the league 20 per cent.

The final for the Stanley cup, series E, is similar to the series D split, except if a third game is necessary, the league and each club share equally.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., March 7.—The performance of Lee Sentman, who tied the meet record for the 70 yard high hurdles, featured the trials of the annual indoor track and field championships held tonight at the University of Minnesota field house.

GEORGE SIMPSON.

In the second heat Sentman broke the tape in :08 7-10 seconds, which tied the indoor record made by H. E. Hayden of Chicago last year. The Orange and Blue athlete has tied several world's hurdle records this year and he is expected to smash the meet record when the finals are held tomorrow night.

Trials in four events were held and each of the Big Ten schools qualified athletes for the finals. Ohio State and Wisconsin topped the list with six each. Michigan will have five representatives in the finals while Illinois, Chicago, and Indiana qualified four each.

Rule Out Broad Jump.

Iowa, which was given an excellent chance to win team honors, was dealt a hard blow this afternoon when the athletic directors voted to rule out the running broad jump. A. A. Stagg of Chicago cast the deciding vote against the event. Edward Gordon of Iowa was picked to win, as he was a member of the last American Olympic team.

George Simpson of Ohio State and Eddie Tolan, are expected to crash the meet record of :06 2-10 seconds in the final of the 60 yard dash. Each stepped the distance tonight one-tenth of a second under the meet record held jointly by Simpson of Ohio State and J. A. Timm of Illinois.

Orval Martin of Purdue, Letts of Chicago, Moulton of Iowa and Goldsworthy of Wisconsin should put up a great struggle for first place in the half mile. The Cardinal athlete may be withdrawn from the race to run in either the one or two mile events.

The qualifiers:

60 YARD DASH—Simpson, Ohio State; Useman and Paterson, Illinois; Tolan and Campbell, Michigan; Odom, Purdue; Ford, Northwestern; East and Root, Chicago; Koenig, Indiana; Haas, Minnesota; and Henke, Wisconsin. Best time, by Simpson and Tolan, :06 2-10.

70 YARD HIGH HURDLE—Sentman and Rodgers, Illinois; Black and Peterslize, Ohio State; Hayden, Chicago; Brandt, Zeize, and Ogara, Wisconsin; Hatfield, Indiana; Potter, Michigan; Saling, Iowa; Laroque, Minnesota. Best time, by Sentman, :08 7-10. [Ties indoor conference record made by Hayden of Chicago in 1929.]

880 YARD RUN QUALIFIERS—Martin, Purdue; Heints, Ohio State; Letts, Chicago; Weisger, Minnesota; Moulton, Iowa; McLoughlin, Michigan; Goldworthy, Wisconsin; Wolf, Northwestern. Best time by Goldworthy, 2:00 3-10.

440 YARD RUN QUALIFIERS—Strother, Ohio State; Brown and Pierre, Indiana; Henke, Wisconsin; Hampton, Illinois; Russell, Michigan. Best time [by Hampton], :51 3-10.

NOTRE DAME LEADS

Notre Dame, Ind., March 7.—[Special.]—Taking three first places in six events, Notre Dame led the qualifiers in the Central conference meet in 440 and 880 yard runs here tonight.

Alex Wilson and Capt. Joe Abbott won their heats in the 440 and Brant Little took first in one heat of the 880. Marquette also placed three men, getting a first, a second, and a tie for second.

Siak of Marquette and Dutt of Western State Normal finished in a dead heat for first honors in the third heat of the 440 yard dash. Summaries:

440 YARD DASH [first heat]—Won by Wilson, Notre Dame; Lewis, Detroit, second. Time, :53 3-10.

440 YARD DASH [second heat]—Won by Abbott, Notre Dame; Gordon, Miami, second. Time, :53 4-10.

440 YARD DASH [third heat]—Siak, Marquette, and Dutt, Western State Normal, tied for first. Time, :53 1-10.

880 YARD RUN [first heat]—Won by Pete Walter, Marquette; Gaines, Western State Normal, second; Yeager, Detroit, third. Time, 2:02 4-10.

SANDY FORD IS MIAMI VICTOR; ROBERTSON UP

Miami, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—The second place jinx that has been following Sandy Ford all winter finally was broken today, when the big four year old gelding carried M. Shea's silks to victory in the Everglades purse at Hialeah park.

Previous to today's sparkling effort, the son of Sand Mole had finished second in three of his four starts, since leaving Bowie in Maryland last fall. Today Jockey A. Robertson hustled the big horse into the lead at the start of the mile and sixteenth journey and at the finish he was a length and a half in front of J. McGee's Fairy Maiden. The latter beat Golden Auburn five lengths for the place.

Walter J. Salmon's Annapolis was made the hot favorite at 9 to 5 but the son of Man o' War was never dangerous, finishing last in the field of five. Sandy Ford was a heavily played second choice at 11 to 5. He stepped the route in 1:44 3-5.

GRAY, HOLDOUT PITCHER, JOINS BROWNS IN CAMP

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—Pitcher Sam Gray, a holdout, and a hard wind reached the St. Louis Browns' training camp here today. Gray had his first workout, while the wind shortened the practice grind for the other Browns. Gray's arrival reduced the absentee list to five. Manager Killefer said he would use Holloway and Caldwell both right handers, in a milk fund charity game here Sunday.

PHILLY REGULARS REPORT.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—Four regular Phillies, Don Hurst, Denny Southern, Barney Friberg and Cy Williams, reached the training camp today, but it was the failure of other regulars to arrive that caused most little chatter. Reports here were that Freddie Thompson, captain and second baseman, has not come to salary terms with the club, but Manager Shotton said he thought the speedy second sacker would be here in a day or two. Tommy Thevenow, shortstop, also was expected today but failed to arrive, and there was no further news of Chuck Klein.

INDIANS' ACE JOINS SQUAD.

New Orleans, La., March 7.—(AP)—Wes Ferrell, former holdout pitcher, arrived at the Cleveland Indians' training camp today. In five minutes of practices showed as good a pitching arm as any twirler in camp. He said he had been practicing during the winter. Wes and Manager Peckinpaugh held a long conversation this morning from which both emerged smiling. Peckinpaug made it plain that he was certain the difference of opinion between Ferrell and the club regarding the youngster's worth would not affect his pitching.

BELL TO START FOR CARDS.

Bradenton, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—Herman Bell will be Manager Gabby Street's mound selection when the Cardinals meet the Athletics in the first of a four game series beginning at Miami tomorrow afternoon. Street made the announcement today. Bell probably will go three innings, as it is Street's intention to use three pitchers in the early exhibition games. Others likely to see service are Fred Frankhouse, Jim Lindsey, Andy Messenger, Al Grabowski, and Mace Brown.

BOLEY'S ARM WORKS.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—Due to a fresh breeze that blew across the ball yard, the Philadelphia Athletics did not get into their brother against brother game today. Both Mack and Coach Gleason were in high spirits today when they observed the speed and accuracy with which Shortstop Boley shot the ball over to first.

PIRATES WORK OUT TWICE.

Paso Robles, Cal., March 7.—(AP)—In preparation for tomorrow's practice game, the Pittsburgh Pirates went through two peppery workouts today. Leon Chagnon and Al Ebol will form the starting battery for the regulars and Southpaw Erickson and O'Connell for the Yannigans.

Bob Considers 'Gator Weapon in Bass Outfit

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Prairie Creek, Punta Gorda, Fla., March 7.—When you stand on the bank of a small tropical river arranging for a boat in which to sally forth against the black bass, and the owner of the boat tells you to keep your eyes peeled for a big alligator that has eaten four of his young pigs, you begin to wonder if the ideal bass outfit doesn't include some kind of a weapon besides a bamboo rod. There is no sense in having alligators interfere with a fishing trip.

Yesterday morning we drove six miles from town to explore and fish in Prairie creek, where the alligators, large mouth black bass, robalo or snook and young tarpon seem to live in complete harmony. This stream is one of several small ones (they call 'em "cricks" down here), varying from thirty to seventy-five feet in width. All in this neighborhood eventually pour their waters into Charlotte harbor. Therefore they get the tides, and your fishing has to be governed by the ebb and flow of salt water. The idea is to strike the stream just as the tide is about to flow in, and then fish on the rising water when the finny tribes are supposed to start hunting their meals.

We started out on Prairie creek when the tide was about one-third in. As subsequent events proved, it wasn't too late for the black bass to strive, although nary a robalo showed his nose near our lures. We worked up stream with the slow incoming current and found that the Prairie was made to order for black bass.

Old trees have crashed to form big "dens" along the bank. Cabbage palm trunks rest against the shores, furnishing more cover for the fish. Partially submerged logs and stumps also make retreats for the finny tribes. And all along the banks the moss draped oaks and palms try their best to give the fishermen and the fish a little shade.

SCOT NOBLEMAN WINS U. S. COURT TENNIS CROWN

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Lord Aberdare, Scottish nobleman, won the national court tennis championship today by defeating Francis P. Frazier of Boston, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5, before a capacity gallery at the Racquet and Tennis club after turning back a great bid by the young American in the third set.

The former University of Pennsylvania track athlete had forged into a lead of 3-4 and then 5-4, only to be overhauled. Through Lord Aberdare's victory the title will take its first trip abroad since before the days of Jay Gould.

MARCH 21 FIGHT SETTLES MASTRO, LA BARBA FEUD

Earl Mastro and Fidel La Barba will settle their ring rivalry March 21 when they meet for the third time on Jack Dempsey's card at the Coliseum.

The first fight was the first ten rounder the local Italian engaged in. La Barba taking a hairline decision over him about a year back. A rematch was inevitable and Earl reversed the score on Fidel, winning a close decision. Both encounters took place in Los Angeles.

The La Barba tilt will mark Earl's first local start since his knockout over Bud Taylor at the Chicago Stadium in December. La Barba's last out resulted in a decisive win over Santiago Zorilla in Los Angeles last Tuesday.

PURPLE COACH FAVORS CURB ON STALLING

Immediate steps to halt the stalling offense in basketball must be taken by the rules committee if the game is to retain its present popularity, according to Arthur Dutch Lonborg, basketball coach at Northwestern university.

"Too high a price is being placed on victory when teams are content to stall through virtually the entire game," he said yesterday.

"When coaches adopt such measures to win they cannot expect to hold the interest of the public. In one conference game the ball did not move for nearly ten minutes and in a recent high school contest in Illinois the final score was 1 to 0, the losing team refusing to chase the ball and the team leading declining to put the ball into play."

"I am not at odds with a team which endeavors to protect a one or two point lead in the last minute or two by retaining possession of the ball. But the policy of going into a stall the first half or with ten or fifteen minutes left to play must go," the Purple coach continued.

"Rather than make any changes in the rules I believe that the committee should make it plain that such a policy was in bad favor."

JUDGE HOPKINS LEAVES $150,000 TO KNOX COLLEGE

Estate Valued at $400,000; Many Bequests.

The will of Judge Jacob H. Hopkins of the Superior court was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. It disposes of a $400,000 estate. The largest bequest is one of approximately $150,000 to Knox college of Galesburg, Judge Hopkins' alma mater.

The city of De Kalb, the judge's birthplace, is to receive his interest in 34 acres of land in De Kalb township. The land is to be dedicated for park purposes as a memorial to his parents, Thomas H. and Julia Hopkins, and his sister, Alice Hopkins Bradt. The park is to be known as Hopkins park. If the city refuses the bequest the land is to revert to Knox college.

Fund for His Bailiff.

George Budge, personal bailiff to the judge for twenty years, is to receive the income of a $25,000 trust fund as a reward for his services. Bequests of $15,000 each are left to two neices, Julia H. Carroll of De Kalb, and Catherine H. Stewart of Prescott, Ariz., and to four nephews, Charles T., Frederick B., Harry B., and Benton M. Hopkins. Clinton Hopkins, a fifth nephew, is to receive $12,000 in trust and Roscoe C. Hopkins, a sixth nephew, $10,000.

The Congregational church of De Kalb is to receive $5,000. A cousin, Mary Miller, and a friend, Helen Tolen, are each left $5,000. A $2,000 bequest is willed to Kate Stroh, a cousin, and one of $3,000 to Anne Shepley of De Kalb, a friend. John L. Carroll receives a membership in the Illinois Athletic club and $2,000. The remainder of the estate goes to Knox college.

On Bench 19 Years.

Judge Hopkins died in Mercy hospital March 3 after failing to rally from an operation for an intestinal disorder. He had been ill three weeks. He was 65 years old. Judge Hopkins had served on the bench for nineteen years including six years in the Municipal court. He had been elected to his third term in the Superior court last fall.

He was graduated from Knox college in 1887. He received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from that institution last June. He came to Chicago after he was graduated and studied law at the Union College of Law.

'BILLY THE BEAR,' FAMOUS INDIAN FIGHTER, IS DEAD

Chadron, Neb., March 7.—(AP)—L. J. F. Jaeger, 74, Indian fighter and famous figure of the old west, whose real name had almost been forgotten in favor of his nickname, "Billy the Bear," died here last midnight. He had been seriously ill for some time.

Cowpuncher, sailor and Indian scout, "Billy the Bear" was at one time secretary for William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill). In his later years he served for more than a quarter of a century as clerk of the court at Chadron.

In January, 1883, sent to Boston as a buyer for the Yellow Stone Cattle company, "Billy the Bear" set out on his horse to the nearest railroad station. He was caught in the memorable blizzard of that year and for three days he battled for his life, finally losing his hands and feet.

Jaeger was born in Philadelphia on April 10, 1856, and at the age of 10 was sent to California in the care of relatives.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Good News

Air Crowded with Variety of Programs

Story Teller and Spelling Bee Are Features.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

It was a diverting conglomeration o fthis, that, and the other, at no time approaching the spectacular, that vibrated through the loudspeaker last evening.

Axel Christensen, in the capacity of story teller and special announcer, molded a quaint and peppy framework for the dance and otherwise popular musical program from W-G-N, 8 to 8:30. The succeeding 8:30 to 9 concert, featuring Sessan Whist-Nespia, contralto, had a certain interest due to the plaintive tone in the voice of the singer.

Pat Barnes, in his composers' impersonation act, 9 to 9:30, dwelt on the work and dramatic incidents in the life of Tschaikowsky, a weekly program, by the way, which is always entertaining and instructive. Popular harmony songs and dance numbers filled up W-G-N's 9:30 to 10 period.

The spelling bee contest, WBBM, 8 to 9, was entertaining. It had moments of humorous situations and last, but far from being least., it was flowing over with real human interest. We all must have agreed with the announcer when he said that every one of the contestants deserved three rousing cheers.

All will agree that it was a pleasure to hear Lord Baden-Powell's address during the Girl Scouts of America banquet speeches from New York, through WMAQ, 9 to 9:30.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 7.—Macedonian revolutionaries continued their bombing expeditions into Jugo-Slavia today. The bombs demolished a hotel and a residence in the town of Kriva Palanka on the Jugo-Slavian-Bulgarian border. Six persons were wounded by the bombing and a policeman fatally hurt as the police pursued the Macedonians along the River Kriva leading into Bulgaria. The revolutionists got away.

CHICAGO GOES 11 HRS. WITHOUT A SINGLE HOLDUP

Crime in Chicago fell to its lowest ebb in many months yesterday when only four robberies were reported in the city for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight. For more than eleven hours—12:05 p. m. to 11:20 p. m.—not a single robbery was reported.

In the one evening robbery Edwin Buchanan, 5655 North Spaulding avenue, a son of former Representative Frank Buchanan, and Albert Topps, 2029 Greenwich avenue, were robbed by three men at Wrightwood and Ridgeway avenues. They took $11 and a watch from Buchanan and $5.50, a stickpin and a watch from Topps.

During the 24 hours the police rounded up 551 suspects, of whom 64 had previous police records. Three men were arrested on the streets with guns and the Warren avenue police, in a raid on a flat at 2900 Van Buren street, seized four pistols, a large amount of loot, and arrested five men.

The raid, the police said, cleared up 98 robberies. The men held are Camille Tabig, 22 years old, wanted for robbery in Indiana; William Vani, 20 years old, 1431 Van Buren street; Mike Geier, 29 years old, 3446 Lemoyne street; James Dattilo, 22 years old, 522 North Marshfield avenue, and James Rice, 21 years old, 1431 Van Buren street.

EIELSON AND PAL END 1,000 MILE AERIAL FUNERAL

Fairbanks, Alaska, March 7.—(AP)—The last flight of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland ended here today when Russian and American planes, escorting the bodies of the two aviators killed on the arctic coast of Siberia, circled over Fairbanks and landed in quick succession at the Alaska airways field.

The bodies were brought more than 1,000 miles from the motorship Nanuk, ice bound in the Arctic ocean near North Cape, Siberia, the goal which the two flyers failed to attain when they flew from Teller, Alaska, on Nov. 9. Yesterday on their way here the planes bearing the bodies circled over Nome while memorial services were held on the ground, a recent blizzard having piled snow on the flying field, making it too rough to attempt a landing.

Ole Eielson, who came here from his home in North Dakota several weeks ago, was the first person to reach the planes and embrace the men who found his son's body. The bodies will be taken to Seattle from here by train and boat, accompanied by Ole Eielson and Borland's young widow and two sons, who will make their first trip to the United States.

GRIGSBY OMITS DIVIDENDS TO EXPAND OUTPUT

Larger Business Is 1930 Outlook.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Directors of the Grigsby-Grunow company, Chicago manufacturers of radio sets, late yesterday voted not to pay the quarterly dividend of 50 cents due on April 1. This adverse action had been expected in La Salle street for several weeks and has been reflected in the low price of the company's stock.

In announcing elimination of the dividend, President B. J. Grigsby said this year is expected to produce substantially larger business and greater profits than last year but that larger working capital is required to finance increased volume and any new products. Development of an electric refrigerator which can be manufactured and sold at a low price has been nearly completed.

"Extreme competitive conditions were encountered in 1929 but this condition is now removed by the withdrawal from the radio industry of a number of companies," Mr. Grigsby explained. "Because of this, the companies now dominating the industry will do at least as large a business as last year and indications point to an upward price tendency.

Reports on Sales.

"The company's sales for the three quarters of the current fiscal year ended Feb. 28 were $54,149,153, compared with $37,587,328 for the corresponding period last year.

"Sales for November and December dropped to 9 per cent of the total, due to the unsettled conditions following the stock market crash, compared with 33.8 per cent for the same two months in 1928. A rapid recovery from that position is shown in the increase in sales for January and February, which were $10,805,557, compared with $10,666,403 for the corresponding two months a year ago. The company is producing 4,000 radio sets a day, which rate has been maintained since the first of the year."

Business is marking time, with considerable irregularity and general uncertainty as the chief characteristics of the situation. While activity is much greater than during the low point several months ago, there still is little indication of the seasonal quickening expected in March. These observations are drawn from the weekly trade reviews.

"The course of business from week to week has not been changing in significant or impressive degree and the hoped for widespread recovery is still absent," Dun's Review says. "It has not been expected by close observers of the situation, however, that a general revival would come during the first quarter of the year after disorganization caused by a speculative shock of unprecedented severity. Generally, the situation reflects a gradual process of recuperation, with a disposition in many quarters to regard the longer future with confidence."

Many Cross Currents.

"There are more cross currents in trade and industry, although on balance there is little evidence of change from earlier weeks," Bradstreet's Review says. "Trade in both wholesale and retail lines ranges from fair to quiet and industry still leads in distribution of activity. The continued weakness of prices of leading agricultural products has a tendency to retard buying. Both trade and industry are well below a year ago."

The foreign trade of the United States in January was less active than last year, according to final figures issued by the commerce department yesterday. Exports totaled $411,313,643, compared with $480,383,684 in January, 1929; while imports totaled $316,967,212, compared with $368,635,746. The result was that January produced a favorable balance of $100,967,431, compared with $111,747,938 a year ago.

INDEPENDENCE BANK TO OPEN UNDER NEW NAME

Plans for the organization of a new bank to succeed the Independence State bank, which was closed on Jan. 15 by the State auditor, are virtually completed, it is understood.

The new institution will be known as the State Trust & Savings bank and will be opened within a few weeks under the sponsorship of the Foreman-State banking interests. It is understood that the bank will have a capital of $500,000, surplus of $250,000 and reserve fund of $125,000.

Succeeds Garard Trust as Lott Hotels Receiver

The Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank yesterday was appointed receiver of the Lott Hotels, Inc., by Judge Philip Sullivan of the Circuit court of Cook county, to succeed the Garard Trust company, whose resignation has been tendered. The Lott Hotels, Inc., operates the Belden-Stratford, Webster, and Parkway hotels in Chicago.

American Smelting Again Cuts Lead Price to 5.75c

New York, March 7.—(AP)—The American Smelting and Refining company has again reduced the price of lead to the basis of 5.75 cents a pound.

Finds Excess of Renters; Lack of Farms

BY SCRUTATOR.

An illuminating sidelight on the general agricultural situation in the west has been disclosed in a survey of lands available for cultivation made by the Burlington railroad.

President F. E. Williamson sent to 304 bankers in territory served by his road west of the Missouri river a questionnaire on rentable lands. From Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas came replies in general agreement to the effect that there are far more men wanting to rent and cultivate farms than there are farms to be rented to them.

From Axtell, Neb., there was a statement that a dozen applicants appeared for every farm offered. At Holyoke, Colo., it was reported 100 renters were unable to rent lands. Elmwood, Neb., had four applicants for every rentable tract. Bankers in other towns in the plains states asserted that there was no idle land. In no instance, according to the railroad's statisticians, was there a surplus of acres for which renters were needed.

Draws No Conclusions.

The Burlington does not draw any conclusions from the survey. It gathered the information that it might hand it on to city men who are contemplating going back to the soil or to farmers farther east who wish to follow the old formula of going west.

There are, however, conclusions to be drawn. The quotations support the department of agriculture's publication on the farm outlook for 1930, which stated that the great plains region is now in a period of major agricultural development which will continue for several years. The further supposition is made by the department that wheat raising, dairying, hog raising will grow more important there and come into conflict with the interests of these established industries in the eastern part of the Mississippi valley.

Also, a warning is added that development should be cautiously made and care taken against overcapitalization of lands.

From the standpoint of agricultural relief there are disturbing indications in what the western bankers report and what the government department believes. First, the evidence that despite the assumed condition of distress on the part of the farmer there is still a supply of wouldbe tenant farmers that exceeds in a broad area the land that could be turned over to them, and, second, the bearing that this situation has on the attempt to get farmers the country over, by advice, to reduce their cultivated areas.

Questions Production Cut.

How, it might be asked, is reduced production to be accomplished if new areas are to be developed and an oversupply of men for the land is to continue to exist? It is reasonable to suppose that this condition would be aggravated by even the promises of governmental aid in establishing prices, by speculative use of government funds or otherwise, that are higher than those which ordinarily would prevail in a free market.

There has been apparently no upward trend in the prices of farm lands recently. Some of the western bankers questioned by the railroad gave the opinion that it was cheaper in their sections to buy than to rent. The official statistics show that in the year ended with March, 1929, farm land values as a whole had receded slightly from the twelve months previous.

Raising values per acre would be a great help to farmers. The fact that there are so many willing tenants and so few willing buyers of land—also a 15 per cent oversupply of farm hands to work at wages, the figures being likewise from the department of agriculture—is depressing. Any program that fails to find some profitable occupation for the tenant farmer and the laborer as well as for the landowner must fail.

DOUBLE LIABILITY OF LAND BANKS IS DENOUNCED

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—Accusing the government of failing to supervise properly the operation of joint stock land banks, Lyman M. Bass, spokesman for the stockholders of the failed Kansas City Joint Stock Land bank, today denounced proposals to empower the federal farm loan board to enforce double liability on the stockholders in such banks, as unconstitutional.

Appearing before the house banking committee in opposition to the Letts bill to authorize enforcement of double liability, Bass contended the government had failed to keep faith with the stockholders "who invested on the theory that the stock was in effect, government securities." He said "more than a million" circulars had been distributed through governmental agencies setting forth the desirability of buying the stock.

Wall St. Hears Allegheny Corp. May Issue Bonds

MOTOR SHARES, TRACTIONS LEAD TRADING HERE

Chicago Stock List Shows Strength.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Traction issues, motor shares, and a few miscellaneous stocks provided leadership for a strong market on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Closing prices, with few exceptions, showed improvement over the previous day.

Attention in the automotive group was fixed on Cord corporation, in which the turnover reached nearly 70,000 shares. The price worked up 14¼ for a net gain of more than a point. It is understood that the company will announce the acquisition of additional holdings in a few days.

The traction issues were uniformly strong with the news that the bankers' committee has reached an agreement on practically all points on a plan for reorganization and consolidation of the elevated and surface lines of Chicago.

Gains 4¼ Points.

Chicago City and Connecting Railways preferred rose 4¼, to finish at 15¾, and the preferred certificates closed at 15, up 5⅞. The common closed at 1⅞. Chicago Railways series 1 and 2 advanced 5 and 1⅛, respectively. Among the bonds, Chicago Railway A rose to 46 and Chicago City Railway first mortgage 5s improved nearly 2.

Radio issues were steady. Action by Grigsby directors following the close of the market in passing the quarterly payment had been previously discounted to some extent. Ceco was unchanged in the face of news that directors had declared a stock dividend of 2 per cent in lieu of the regular cash payment of 62½ cents. The action placed the stock on an 8 per cent annual stock dividend basis instead of the former annual cash basis of $2.50.

Other stocks in the automotive group which shared in the general advance were Houdaille issues, Auburn, which jumped 8; Allied Products and Allied Motor. Bendix and Borg were firm.

Spurts Higher.

U. S. Gypsum spurted 4¼ points on fairly active trade, while other industrial specialties showed smaller gains. Associated Apparel and Bastian Blessing were each up more than a point. Lewis G. Blessing, president of the latter company, said sales for the current quarter are running ahead of last year.

With the exception of Burnham Trading, most of the investment trust issues were dull. Burnham was given a whirl and landed up 2¾ points on sales of about 6,000 shares. Volume in Continental Chicago certificates shrank to less than 2,500 shares, while the price edged up ⅛ of a point.

NATIONAL CITY OPPOSES RAIL GROUPING PLAN

In a brochure issued today, the company contends that the chief reason for consolidation has passed since the transportation act was passed in 1920 and it suggests that unifications be authorized only where the railroads and the public would be benefited. Similar views have been put forward by other commentators.

The National City company holds that general consolidation would mean considerable readjustment of financial structures and involve difficulties with minorities. It points out that holding companies present another problem because they sometimes control railroads inconsistently with the commission's consolidation plan. It also expresses doubts that appreciable economies will result from consolidation and raises the question of how the 2,000,000 employés affected might face inconvenience.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—Owned and used property of the Hocking Valley railway was tentatively valued today by the interstate commerce commission at $33,640,000 as of June 30, 1917, while used but not owned property of the road was valued at $1,028,123.

The commission also valued the owned but not used property of the Wellston and Jackson railway at $398,000 as of June 30, 1917, and the Pomeroy Belt railway at $628,000 as of the same date. Both are in Ohio.

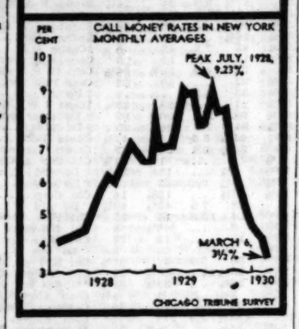
Report Week's Total of 527 Business Failures

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Business failures this week totaled 527, which is a relatively better showing than the previous week, when insolvencies numbered 526 for a five day period, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. The previous full week, which ended Feb. 20, showed 585 failures. A year ago the number was 490.

Indiana Service Co. Shows Net Income of $727,845

Net income of the Indiana Service company, a subsidiary of Midland United company, for 1929 totaled $727,845, compared with $518,835 in 1928. Operating revenue of the company for the year was $5,114,671, against $4,308,415 in 1928, the annual report of the company shows.

CALL MONEY RATES ARE THE LOWEST IN OVER TWO YEARS



SELECTED INDUSTRIAL INV. TRUST STOCKS RISE IN CURB TRADING

(New York curb list page 28.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—Exceptional activity and rising prices in selected investment trust and industrial stocks was the outstanding feature of trading on the curb exchange today. Advances of from 1 to 4 points were the rule in these issues, while the utilities, usually leaders, lagged behind woefully, and in some cases took sharp declines.

The Goldman Sachs investment group, which includes Blue Ridge and Shenandoah, stepped out smartly, accompanied by Lehman corporation, National Investors, and Third National Investors also were firm, although their net movements were held to fractions. Hydro-Electric Securities was a weak sister. The turnover amounted to 866,500 shares.

Lehman corporation jumped 4 points today after a period of dormancy and small fluctuations. Lehman, ever since the break, has been lagging considerably behind its asset value, and today's spurt brings it more in line with market value of securities in its portfolio.

J. R. THOMPSON, WALGREEN SHOW FEB. SALES GAINS

February sales reported yesterday by two Chicago chain systems showed a gain over 1928. Walgreen company, operating a string of drug stores in Chicago and other cities, reports an increase of 34 per cent. February sales amounted to $4,209,872, compared with $3,136,233 in the corresponding period of 1928.

Sales of John R. Thompson company, restaurant chain, for February were $1,176,608, as against $1,146,698 for the same period a year ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—It was reported in Wall street today that United Gas Improvement company will soon make an offer to acquire the Sierra Pacific Electric company through an exchange of stocks. Sierra Pacific has extensive power and gas distributive facilities in the west. It is said that United Gas will offer two of its shares for each share of Sierra Pacific stock of which there is outstanding only about 80,000 shares.

Refinancing Program for Fox Companies Is Begun

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—Bankers went ahead today with their program for putting into effect the plan for refinancing Fox Film and Fox Theaters corporations, despite the possibility of legal difficulties because of the attitude taken by Mr. Fox's opponents. The contemplated refinancing plan is that prepared by Bancamerica-Blair corporation, Lehman Bros. & Co. and Dillon, Read & Co., and approved at a stormy meeting of stockholders Thursday.

The New York stock exchange today received notice from the film corporation that holders of the class A stock of record March 10 will receive rights to subscribe to the class A common at $20 a share and rights to subscribe to the debenture bonds.

Replaces Original Plan.

The offering of common replaced the original plan to offer $25,000,000 shares of preferred. At the $20 figure it will provide the same amount of money for the film corporation. The plan provides also for the offering of $40,000,000 in 7 per cent convertible bonds of the film corporation and $40,000,000 in 7 per cent debentures with stock warrants by the theater company.

The balance sheets attached to the refinancing plan disclosed for the first time the liabilities which have been responsible for the difficulties of the two organizations.

The current liabilities of the Fox Theaters corporation totaled $65,428,029, including $17,751,904 owed to the Fox Film corporation. In addition Fox theaters has outstanding $53,148,116 in bonds and mortgages and $2,666,864 long term accounts payable, making a total of $121,242,000. In addition current liabilities of the Fox Film corporation total $43,063,760 and bonds total $15,317,878, a total of $58,381,638.

Eliminating the inter-company liabilities of $17,751,904, the total obligations of the two companies are thus $161,872,643. The total current liabilities of the two companies, eliminating the inter-company liability, total $90,739,885.

The current assets of the Fox Film corporation were $24,261,884, including $2,736,570 cash, $2,798,516 accounts receivable, and $17,726,797 inventories. Current assets of the Fox Theater corporation total $4,902,512 including $1,859,047 cash. The combined quick assets of the two corporations are thus $29,164,396. The statement gave the earnings report of the companies revealing large increases in gross and substantial gains in profits in both cases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—Although bankers refused to comment today on reports that a merger of the Chase National bank and Equitable Trust company is in the offing, the fact that no denial was issued caused Wall street to assume negotiations for such a consolidation have been carried on. Merging of the two institutions would mean the formation of one of the largest banks in the world, with resources approximating $3,000,000,000.

In the meantime officers of both banks refused to say anything to support the rumor of a merger.

"There is nothing to be said on the subject," Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of Chase National, declared today. "I shall make the same statement to all inquiries." Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the Equitable Trust company, was equally reticent, but it was indicated that a statement might be issued later in the week.

Union Oil Co. of Calif. Will Cut Refinery Operations

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—Union Oil Company of California, fourth of the large refining companies to adopt the policy, today announced that it will as soon as possible reduce its refineries' operations to six-sevenths of the present schedule. This policy is in line with the suggestion of the federal oil conservation board recommending that the refineries be placed on a six day schedule instead of a seven day schedule in order to reduce additions to the present large stocks of gasoline. The Union Oil company said reduction in runs would be accomplished without any reduction in personnel or pay roll.

German Reichsbank Cuts Its Rate from 6 to 5½%

BERLIN, March 7.—(AP)—The reichsbank today reduced its rate a half per cent from 6 to 5½ per cent. The Lombard rate was cut to 6½ per cent. The Bank of Danzig also dropped its rate from 6 per cent to 5½ per cent.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, March 7.—The talkie issues were given a twirl on the stock market today and the expression "picture money" current on Broadway, took on real significance in Wall street. All through the afternoon the film stocks were whirled about with a vim reminiscent of the best days of the old bull market.

Elsewhere throughout the list the market also managed to plow ahead in spite of such minor difficulties as the moral effect of a sharp rise in brokers' loans and failure of the rediscount rate to come down as promptly as expected.

All in all it was a fairly happy day for the fellows trying to push up from under. Substantial gains were registered in electrical equipment, tobaccos, foods and business machines, but the fun was had in the amusement issues.

Reach New Peaks.

Warner Brothers, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Loew's and Paramount mounted to new tops on their advance in heavy trading. Paramount and Warner Brothers were running neck and neck all afternoon. Finally the thing that every one in the street has been watching for, happened. Warners crossed Paramount. The close saw Warners at 70⅛, up 2 points, on the day, and Paramount 70½, up 2 points. Radio-Keith-Orpheum closed with a net gain of 2⅜ points.

Some Misconceptions about Inheritance and Estate Taxes

IN fact these taxes often cut deeply into estates of moderate size as well as those of larger proportions. While the actual amount of taxes may not be so great, the effect on beneficiaries may be much more serious.

The term "tax-exempt" does not refer to state inheritance and Federal estate taxes. All securities, even those which are exempt from Federal income tax and from state personal property taxes, are subject to state inheritance and Federal estate taxes. You can do a great deal during your lifetime to minimize these taxes.

If your security holdings are subject to multiple taxation due to the lack of uniformity in state inheritance laws, you can also do much to remedy that during your lifetime.

Every prudent man should examine his own situation and take such steps as he legally and properly may, to protect the interests of his dependents. Our trust officers will be glad to offer suggestions in conserving your estate.

Our booklet, "MY ESTATE—How Shall It Be Administered?" outlining this and many other features of estate management, will be sent to you upon request

RAIL ISSUES SET PACE IN UPWARD TREND OF BONDS

U. S. Governments Ease Following Advance.

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Railroad obligations took undisputed command of the bond market today, moving upward in broad trading that carried many issues, both first grade and secondary, to new highs for the year or longer.

The advance lifted the average for the rail group to 105.9, or just above the previous 1930 top. This figure compares with a composite of 103.3 a year ago when bonds were making their hopeless struggle against rising interest rates. Today, short term time loans were quoted at 4 to 4½ per cent, against 7¾ per cent at this time in 1929, a striking demonstration of the change in credit conditions.

The day's advancements acted a trifle tired after their exertions of the last few days and prices eased off to the extent of minor fractions on reduced turnovers. Utilities were very firm and industrials took up some of the slack which normally exists between them and the other two groups of corporation bonds.

The strength of the prime investment rails was pronounced. Santa Fe general 4s rose a full point. New York Central 4s rallied 1½, while St. Louis and San Francisco prior lien 4s, Southern Railway general 4s, Nickel Plate "A" 5½s, Great Northern 5½s, Rock Island general 4s and Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s improved ¼ to ½, all to new 1930 tops. Missouri Pacific general 4s and refunding 5s, as well as the Erie listings, progressed rapidly in the lower priced section.

The new American Telephone debenture 5s led the utilities, rising to 102⅝, a new high, on substantial buying. The net gain was ½. International Telephone 5s, Columbia Gas and Electric 5s, North American Edison 5½s and 5s, Public Service Electric and Gas 4½s and a few of the other trading favorites showed marked firmness.

Simmons.

N. J.: General business conditions prevailing in the last quarter are cited as the reason for Simmons company earnings in 1929 not coming up to expectations early in the year. New business resulting from acquisition of furniture manufacturers boosted sales in 1929, but there was no proportionate increase in profits. Also the parent company's increased business, particularly in the latter part of the year, was not in its most profitable lines. Plans for new equipment to cut costs were delayed so that the company received little benefit from that source in 1929.

Consolidated profits for the year were $4,695,572, equal to $4.15 per share earned on 1,115,737 no par common shares, compared with $4,275,370, or $3.88 per share, earned on 1,100,000 shares the year before.

The consolidated balance sheet at the close of 1929 showed current assets of $34,182,370 and current liabilities of $9,366,138, which left a net working capital of $24,816,232. The year before current assets were $11,222,256 and current liabilities $1,690,689.

Dividends on the common are $3 per year. A special stock dividend of 1½ per cent was paid Feb. 1, 1930.

Columbia Gas and Electric.

R. K.: Columbia Gas and Electric corporation reported gross earnings of $115,150,313 for 1929, compared with $107,195,657 the year before.

Earnings last year were equal to $3.11 per share on 8,477,224 no par common shares, against $6.97 per share on 3,372,692 shares in 1928.

Dividends on the common are $2 per year. A special stock dividend of 25 per cent has been declared payable March 31, 1930, to stock of record Feb. 28, 1930.

The common stock is high grade.

Pennsylvania Co.

P. V.: Pennsylvania company $50,000,000 4½ per cent bonds, dated Nov. 1, 1928, and due Nov. 1, 1963, are secured by pledge of 357,000 shares of Norfolk and Western Railway company common stock.

These bonds are listed on the New York and Philadelphia Stock exchanges. They are sound.

arnings report: Then, too, Warner Brothers disclosed a rapid growth of earning power and attained a new all time high for the present shares.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum, although its showing was not extraordinary, was tremendously active, large blocks changing hands as it pressed ahead to levels duplicating the best prices of the year.

Strength of such leaders as United States Steel, American Can and General Electric was overshadowed to a large extent by the advances of special groups and issues. Furthermore, toward the close they encountered profit taking which cut them down and in instances wiped out all of the gains.

Gains Three Points.

American International climbed, gaining three points in light trading. Coca Cola spurted ahead 2¾ points in anticipation of an early summer. General American Tank was up 3⅝ points at the close and Hershey Chocolate gained 4⅝ points.

Peoples Gas had a run up of 16 points in a light turnover, the spurt being attributed to good news within the company. Among others that made a good showing were International Nickel, Radio, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Atlantic Refining. The latter has been climbing steadily and today notched up 1¾ points.

The turnover in stocks, 3,634,760 shares, was somewhat higher than yesterday and traders said the volume would gain so long as money continued easy. Bonds were especially sensitive to the money situation and the railroad issues reached new high prices for the year. In particular the holding companies and investment trusts are reflecting the gain in the general market which is adding greatly to their asset value.

FILE BANKRUPTCY PETITION AGAINST BROKERAGE FIRM

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were filed in United States District court yesterday against Florian, Plaut & Co., stock brokers at 105 West Adams street. The petition was filed in behalf of Paul Cleveland, Mallard & Co., and Lawrence W. Scudder, who have claims totaling $10,000. The petition charges liabilities of $400,000 and assets of $5,000.

According to attorneys who filed the petition the company lost heavily in stock of the Chicago Aviation service, which went into receivership several months ago. Paul Florian was at one time president of the Chicago Aviation service and Rolf Plaut was a member of the board of directors. The petitioning creditors, Robert Mallard, Scudder, and Cleveland, were also members of the same board.

Begin Trading in Duty Free Sugar Contracts

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Prospects of an increased duty on sugar resulted in the inauguration of trading in a duty free contract on the New York coffee and sugar exchange today. This provides for trading in futures contracts in domestic, centrifugal, or beet sugar, or the sugar produced in any territorial possession of the United States, which is admitted free of duty. Provision for such transactions have been in the exchange bylaws for some time, but it was first used today.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 300 cattle, 6,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep.

Advances were recorded in hog prices on both the cash and futures markets yesterday, with light weights taking the lead on the upturn.

More activity featured the trade, the best demand centering on April and May contracts at $11.40 generally. September light opened at $11.40, but finished at $11.50. Only 14,000 hogs were unloaded on the market, against 22,842 the previous Friday, 25,782 a year ago, and 39,447 two years ago. Gains of 10@25c were general, bringing the top of the cash trade to $11.25, with the general average at $10.65, which equals the highest average since last Friday.

Few Remain at Close.

There was an early clearance and only 3,000 remained at the close. Five markets expect 17,000 hogs today against 29,700 the previous Saturday. Receipts at all leading markets during this week have been smallest of the year and with one exception are smaller than any corresponding period since 1917.

Cattle receipts exceeded expectations and reversed the trend of the market, which finished as much as 25c under the high point in midweek. Some sales of cows and heifers were off even more comparing extremes.

One shipment of 1,021 lb yearling steers reached $15.00, while 1,355 lb steers sold at $14.50 and some plain quality 1,000 lb averages at $10.75@11.25. A load of 1,020 lb stags sold at $10.00.

Lambs Hold Steady.

Fat lambs sold freely at generally steady prices, although the extreme top was not quite up to the high point of Thursday. Numerous sales of 85@88 lb fed western lambs were made at $11.00, the top price, while only plain kinds, or extremely heavy were sold below $10.50. Although feeders in northern Colorado, Arkansas valley and Scottsbluff sections have unloaded more lambs than a year ago, they still have 1,640,000 to come, against 1,210,000 at this time in 1929 and 1,605,000 two years ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 5,000 sheep, against 98 cattle, 12,191 hogs, and 5,513 sheep, the previous Saturday and 119 cattle, 8,456 hogs, and 6,370 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 35,000 to 61,000. George Brittain marked 61,000, F. M. Sherwood, O. Dwight, H. Pattison, and H. Turner, 55,000; J. T. Brown, 52,000; S. Lund and R. B. Ellis, 50,000; F. B. Orb, 48,000; J. M. Waters, 47,000; W. C. White, H. C. Carlson, and G. W. Chandler, 45,000; H. L. Johannesen, 44,000; C. Daley, 40,000; R. W. Trotter, 38,000, and J. T. Agar, 35,000.
